SPAIN QUIETED BY FORMING OF ROYAL CABINET

Strong Monarchists Get Helm and Promise Early Elections.

SERIOUS PROBLEMS FACING GOVERNMENT

Political Issues Involving Constitutional Changes Demand Hearing.

Madrid, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Spain tonight had a new government, peacefully formed, and was looking forward to a period of calm after the political turmoil of the last five days.

Admiral Juan Bautista Aznar, staunch royalist and political neutral, heads the ministry formed today by King Alfonso in a successful effort to head off another military dictatorship like that of Miguel Primo de Rivera.

The king called for no participation by left, socialist and republican elements, and their attitude remained problematical tonight. The public generally, however, seemed to be waiting quietly until the program and policies of the new government could be formulated and put into effect.

Cabinet Replaces Berenguer.

The cabinet which replaces that of Damaso Berenguer, which resigned last Saturday, because of widespread opposition to Premier Berenguer's plans for parliamentary elections in March, includes Berenguer himself, and the Count of Romanones and the Marquis of Alhucenas, the men most responsible for his overthrow.

It is formed of right monarchists with Liberal, Conservative and Catalan Independent's party representation, and, according to its chief, the heart of its program will be the restoration of legal and political stability.

Premier Aznar was expected first of all to consider the release of prisoners arrested after the revolts of last December, who now are crowding the jails. Indications were that even if amnesty were not granted he planned a policy of indulgence.

Faces Serious Problems.

More serious are the political problems immediately facing him. Berenguer was forced from office because he wished immediate elections for the Cortes, whereas his opponents asked for a constitutional convention that would decide, while the king was on "a holiday," the future political status of the country and whether it would become a republic or remain a monarchy.

It was said tonight the new government expected to evolve a new election program to include first municipal, then district, and finally parliamentary elections, the last to be held probably several months hence.

The new cabinet is made up as follows:

Premier—Admiral Aznar.
Secretary of War—Gen. Berenguer.
Public works—Juan de la Cierva.
Treasury—Juan Ventosa.
Economy—Count De Bugallal.
Labor—Duke of Maura.
Interior—Marquis of Hoyos.
Justice—Marquis of Alhucemas.
Foreign affairs—Count of Romanones.
Marine—Admiral Luis Rivera.
Public instruction—Antonio Gascon y Marin.

Composed of Monarchists.

The cabinet is composed entirely of extreme right Monarchists, with representatives of the Conservatives, the Liberals and the Catalan Independents.

The Count De Bugallal, minister of economy, is chief of the Conservative party. Juan Ventosa, minister of finance, is a right-hand man of Cambo. The Barcelona financier is leader of the Catalan group.

The Duke of Maura, minister of labor, is the son of the premier who founded the Conservative party. His Brother Miguel, a Republican leader, is still in jail for participating in the unsuccessful revolt of last December.

Election Plan Expected.

It was understood the new government would move immediately for a general election in all municipalities next month, for election of general councils in May, and a national parliamentray election in June.

It was understood also that there would be a constitutional convention with power to revise such articles of the 1876 constitution as appears advisable.

In his first interview since assuming office today the premier said the heart of his government's program will be restoration of legal and political stability.

"I did not hesitate to accept this task," he said, "because I considered it my duty. The gentlemen who are members of the cabinet regarded it as imperative that the head of the government should be a neutral in politics.

"For this reason I accepted the honor the king has bestowed upon

SENATE CHOICE

JOHN W. DAVIS.

DAVIS TO AID SENATE IN POWER HEAD ROW

Candidate for President in 1924 Named Counsel to Fight Hoover.

HEATED COURT TEST DUE

(Associated Press.)

The Senate will be represented by John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate in 1924, in its court contest with President Hoover over the right of Chairman Smith of the Power Commission to his office.

Mr. Davis will come to Washington in a few days to open the unprecedented legal proceedings which are expected to add another chapter in the history of constitutional clashes between the executive and legislative branches of the Government.

Selection of Mr. Davis assures a spectacular court test with the former presidential candidate on one side and possibly Attorney General Mitchell on the other. The final decision probably will be rendered by the Supreme Court.

Mr. Davis was chosen by a subcommittee of the Senate judiciary committee composed of Senators Norris (Republican), Nebraska; Walsh (Democrat), Montana, and Steiwer (Republican), Oregon. Senator Walsh, the leader of the Senate's contest with the President, announced the selection of Davis and his acceptance.

The Senate so far has appropriated only $2,000 for counsel fees, but it may authorize more later.

The dispute between the Senate and the President over Smith's nomination arose from the dismissal of two employes of the commission whom many senators regarded as "valuable public servants."

It was charged they were allowed to go because of their attacks on valuation claims of power companies. One of the employes was later reinstated.

The Senate reconsidered the nominations of Smith and Commissioners Garsaud and Draper. The latter two were reconfirmed but the Senate rejected Smith's nomination despite President Hoover's refusal to admit the legality of the action.

The President contended the Senate was attempting to invade the executive authority.

By majority vote the Senate insisted it was acting within its own rules which the Constitution gives it a right to make. The rules provide that it may reconsider the vote by which it confirms a nominee if the motion is made within two "executive sessions" after the confirmation.

Friends of the commissioners said the only way they could be removed was by presidential order or impeachment.

Many senators, who voted with the President on the Smith case, have expressed a desire for a court test to decide the issue, which they consider more important than the mere ques-

LABOR, BEATEN BY PEERS, WINS VOTE FOR DOLE

Commons Advances Bill Increasing Fund by 279 to 218.

UPPER HOUSE SPURNS EDUCATION MEASURE

Winston Churchill Opens on Lloyd George in Fiery Address.

London, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—A few hours after the British Labor government had been defeated in the House of Lords today, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's forces swept to a victory in the House of Commons and carried on second reading a bill which would increase the fund for the dole.

The lords rejected the government's education bill by 168 to 22 votes, but their action had no political consequences, as adverse votes are common in the upper house and no British government has ever been overthrown by the peers.

But in the House of Commons the government carried its unemployment insurance bill through its second stage by 279 against 218, or a majority of 61.

Churchill Leads Attack.

The measure has, among its provisions, one increasing the borrowing powers of the dole fund by roughtly $100,000,000. The government had a narrow squeak on this same measure a week ago, for it defeated by only 31 votes a Conservative amendment which would have reduced the figure to $50,000,000.

At present the unemployment fund stands at $350,000,000 and it is virtually exhausted. The new measure, if finally carried, will raise it to $450,000,000.

Debate in the House of Commons was made lively by the fiery Winston Churchill, in his fieriest mood, directing a large part of his criticism against David Lloyd George, leader of the Liberal party.

Leader's Retort Is Mild.

Churchill asserted that Lloyd George had thrown innumerable difficulties in the path of Philip Snowden, Labor chancellor of the exchequer, and declared the Welshman ought to be very modest and subdued instead of claiming to be a wizard.

The house eagerly awaited Lloyd George's reply, but the Liberal generalissimo confined his personal remarks mainly to saying Churchill was angling for the leadership of the empire crusade party, which Lord Beaverbrook is pushing in opposition to the official conservatives under Stanley Baldwin.

McMahon Opposed For Another Term

Attorneys Charge Police Judge With Arbitrary Conduct in Court.

Reappointment of Judge John P. McMahon for another term as judge of the District Police Court was opposed at a hearing held yesterday by Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, member of the subcommittee of the Senate judiciary committee considering Judge McMahon's nomination.

Al Stern, former assistant United States attorney; Albert Lyman, and Phillip W. Austin, attorneys, appeared in opposition to confirmation; and, after the hearing, which was executive, said that other attorneys had signified their intention to appear before the subcommittee in opposition to Judge McMahon.

Judge McMahon was charged with arbitrariness by the attorneys. They also charged that the judge has not shown due respect to attorneys, and thus has adversely affected interests of defendants on trial before juries.

Judge McMahon's present term expires on March 2.

HARRY S. NEW.

PITTS WILL BE HELD PENDING HIS APPEAL

Chief Justice Rules Broker Must Remain Jailed; Bond Is Denied.

THIRD REQUEST REFUSED

G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman of the board of the F. H. Smith Co., must remain in the District Jail pending action of his appeal from a 14-year prison term facing him, the United States Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes made the decision on the final effort put forth by attorneys for Pitts to gain his release on bond until the outcome of his appeal from his recent conviction on charges of conspiracy to embezzle $5,000,000 from the Smith company and to destroy certain of its records. A sentence of fourteen years in the penitentiary was imposed by Justice William Hitz.

The plea for release on bond was tendered to the United States Supreme Court and a clerk immediately took it to Chief Justice Hughes at his home, 2223 R street northwest, where the two remained closeted for an hour.

His request for release on bond was denied three times in District Supreme Court, and last Saturday the District Court of Appeals, which had his appeal papers, also denied the request for release on bond.

Dr. Arias to Represent Panama in Washington

Panama City, Panama, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Dr. Harmadio Arias today was appointed Panamanian Minister to the United States by President Ricardo Alfaro, who formerly held the post.

When the Arosemena regime was overthrown by revolution January 2, Dr. Arias took charge of the provisional government until President Alfaro was summoned from Washington and arrived.

Dr. Schwegel Is Named Jugoslav Envoy to U. S.

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Feb. 18 (A.P.), It was reported today that Dr. Hans Schwegel, at one time Austrian Consul General in St. Louis, had been appointed Jugoslavia Minister to Washington.

Dr. Schwegel resigned from the cabinet as minister without portfolio Monday.

Nicaraguan Cabinet Out in Political Move

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 18 (A.P.). The entire Nicaraguan cabinet resigned today.

Semiofficial reports said the ministers took this action so that President J. M. Moncada might be at liberty to form a new cabinet, but it was said tonight most of them would be retained although shifted around.

NEW-BARTLETT ROW ON LEASE BARED AT QUIZ

Former Postal Director Defends Himself to Senators.

ACTION IN ST. PAUL STATION DEFENDED

Aid During Office Never Interfered With, Says Accused Man.

(Associated Press.)

A deep-seated hostility between Harry S. New, Postmaster General under Presidents Harding and Coolidge, and John H. Bartlett, his assistant, was disclosed yesterday by Mr. New before the Senate postal lease investigating committee. He came to defend his record against Mr. Bartlett's accusations.

Declaring Mr. Bartlett was "obsessed with the idea that he ought to be Postmaster General," Mr. New said the reason he had "endured" his former assistant for six years was because of his "capacity as a trader."

The former Postmaster General defended the St. Paul commercial station postoffice lease which he approved and denied he had attempted to prevent a grand jury investigation of it or had recommended dismissal of the assistant district attorney who had submitted it to the jury.

Mr. Bartlett, in previous testimony, said after the grand jury had called the lease fraudulent, Mr. New had recommended dismissal of Assistant District Attorney Fesler at St. Paul. Mr. Bartlett also testified that Mr. New ordered execution of the lease though it was known he, Mr. Bartlett, was opposed to it.

Testimony Contradicted.

Contradicting this testimony, Mr. New said yesterday that Mr. Bartlett's bureau had made every lease, and that he had never interfered with Mr. Bartlett in any case, including the St. Paul contract.

Mr. Bartlett late yesterday issued a statement saying: "The only strained relations that I ever had with former Postmaster General New were because of just such statements as he made today before the Senate committee, namely, that I had full and untrammeled authority in the matter of making leases, when, as a matter of fact, he went over my head and ordered leases made as in the case of the St. Paul lease.

"When any complaint came up about it he would turn the blame on me by complimenting me for my shrewdness in making trades, which I had not made at all, but which he himself had personally directed in my absence."

Mr. Bartlett went on to repeat the story he told the committee of the making of the St. Paul lease, saying a subordinate signed it at Mr. New's direction, while he, Mr. Bartlett, was absent. The committee, he said, has full documentary proof of this.

Big Interests Unfriendly.

"The big lease interests were not friendly to me," he continued, "as I had to fight them, and they constantly went by my office and had their conversation with the Postmaster General himself, as in the case of the St. Paul lease."

"I am thoroughly convinced that there never was anything of a corrupt or fraudulent character about the St. Paul commercial station lease," Mr. New said. He pointed out it had been made originally in the administration of Postmaster General Burleson.

Asserting that he had disapproved of the leasing system in five of his six annual reports, Mr. New told the committee "no set of Government contracts ever awarded received more

SENATE SPURS ACTION TO VOTE BONUS TODAY OVER HOOVER PROTEST

Hines, Expecting Rush, Plans to Ask Fund for More Clerks.

IDEA OF TWO-YEAR WAIT IS DISPELLED

Additional Outlay of About $1,000,000,000 Held as Most Likely.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

A tremendous rush of borrowing veterans is expected once the new bonus loan bill becomes a law, and in order to meet it Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, is prepared to ask Congress for an emergency appropriation with which to hire additional employes for the Veterans' Bureau.

These additional employes—most of them will be clerks—will be put to work here in Washington and in the 54 regional offices of the Veterans' Bureau throughout the country.

In discussing his plans for meeting the avalanche of loan applications, Gen. Hines revealed this interesting fact: That thousands of men who never have bothered to ask for their adjusted service, or bonus certificates, are now making application for them.

Recently Numbered 300,000.

The veterans entitled to bonus certificates who had failed to ask for them recently numbered about 300,000. Some had held back because of pride or principle, some because of indifference, while others had failed to apply simply through ignorance. It is a fact that there are some veterans who do not yet know that there is such a thing as a war bonus.

Whenever there is agitation on Capitol Hill for veterans legislation the number of applications for bonus certificates increases, according to Gen. Hines.

"Just the other day," he said, "I encountered a young attorney who asked how he could get an application for his certificate. I told him, and a little later he informed me that he had filled it out."

Hines Gives Opinion.

In the organic act of 1924 which authorized the issuance of the bonus certificates, it is provided that the veteran must wait for two years before he can obtain a loan on his certificate.

Yesterday at the Senate hearing on the new bill to allow the veteran to borrow 50 per cent of the face value of his certificate, the question came up as to whether a veteran who takes out a certificate now must wait for two years to obtain a loan or whether he can obtain one immediately.

Gen. Hines expressed the opinion that once the veteran receives his certificate, he may obtain a loan on it immediately. A legislative expert told the committee, however, that he believed the provisions of the organic act would rule, and that the veteran would have to wait for two years.

3,500,000 Already Issued.

Thus far, 3,500,000 bonus certificates have been issued, the average maturity value of these certificates being $1,000.

The amount of money that has been lent to the holders of these

Bonus Bill for Veterans In Maryland Introduced

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—A bill providing a bonus for Maryland World War veterans was introduced in the Legislature last night by Andrew P. Szamski, member of the House of Delegates from Baltimore, himself a veteran.

It would give to every veteran who lived in the State six months before beginning service, $10 for every month he served. Szamski estimated a $9,000,000 fifteen-year bond issue would provide the funds.

Letter From President Opposing Soldier Loan

President Hoover's letter to Senator Smoot on the veterans' bonus loan bill follows:

My dear Senator Smoot:

I have given thought to your request that I should express to you and to the Senate finance committee my views upon the bill passed by the House of Representatives, increasing the loans to World War veterans upon the so-called bonus certificats. In view of the short time remaining in this session for its consideration, I shall comply with your request.

The proposal is to authorize loans upon these certificates up to 50 per cent of their face value. And to avoid confusion, it must be understood that the "face value" is the sum payable at the end of the twenty-year period (1945), being based on the additional compensation to veterans of about $1,300,000,000, granted about six years ago, plus 25 per cent for deferment, plus 4 per cent compound interest for the twenty-year period. As the "face value" is about $3,423,000,000, loans at 50 per cent thus create a potential liability for the Government of about $1,712,000,000, and, less the loans made under the original act,

MILK PRICE-FIXING IN DISTRICT DENIED

One Company Handles 50 Per Cent of Business, Inquirers Are Told.

TESTIMONY BY RIVALS

The National Dairy Products Corporation, which had been mentioned several times in preceding days of the hearing as one of the giant combinations which is taking control of the dairy industry, yesterday told the Senate food price investigating committee that it supplied 50 per cent or more of the milk consumed in Washington.

Henry N. Brawner, jr., president of the Chestnut Farm Dairy, a subsidiary of the National Dairy Products Corporation, of which it is a member, gave that estimate to Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the committee, but countered with testimony showing that the average profit of his company was only one-third of a cent a quart of milk and that along with other distributors in Washington paid milk producers a higher price than was paid them by distributors anywhere else in the country.

Mr. Brawner was one of several witnesses heard by the committee yesterday. A. L. Thompson, a partner in Thompson's Dairy; John McGill, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association; R. S. Snader, president of the Maryland State Dairymen's Association, with headquarters in Baltimore, Md., and Henry Hartke, president of the National Cooperative Milk Producers Association, with headquarters in Cincinnati, Ohio, were other witnesses appearing before the committee.

The contest centered about milk prices in Washington. Senator Capper and Senator Lynn Frazier (Republican), North Dakota, centered their efforts to discover evidence of price fixing to disclose whether price fixing had prevented the price of milk to the consumer following the decline in prices to the farmer.

Every witness tread softly on the price fixing questions and denied that there was price fixing, but in the course of testimony declared that

Finance Committee of Upper House Voices Approval to Bill.

HARRISON PREDICTS PASSAGE BY TONIGHT

Hoover's Opposition Letter Only Adds Impetus to Showdown Move.

(Associated Press.)

Thrusting aside a Presidential protest, the Senate yesterday swept the veterans loan measure through its finance committee and decided to vote today in an effort to speed the legislation to the White House.

The finance committee approved the House bill authorizing loans to veterans up to half the face value of their compensation certificates by a vote of 13 to 3 within an hour after receiving a letter from the President vigorously objecting to the legislation.

Agreement was quickly entered into a moment later on the Senate floor to take up the bill today and its passage by tonight without change was predicted by Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, in getting the agreement for consideration.

Mr. Hoover's letter to Chairman Smoot, of the Senate finance committee, asserting the measure will "not only nullify the benefits to the veterans but inflict injury to the country as a whole" was accepted at Capitol Hill as full warning of a veto.

Number Not in Sight.

But administration leaders were still hunting last night for the necessary one-third votes to sustain the veto and they admitted this number was not in sight in the Senate.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, joined five other Republicans on the finance committee in supporting the House bill after a substitute and all amendments had been rejected.

Undersecretary Mills, of the Treasury, followed Mr. Hoover's letter to the finance committee and told the senators that the legislation would force the Treasury to float a bond issue. He protested that "common business sense would tell any that this is no time for the Government to be entering the bond market."

The administration representatives appealed for a compromise which would restrict the loans to those veterans actually in distress, but the finance committee rejected this proposal. Veterans Administrator Hines estimated the cost of the bill to the Government at approximately $1,000,000,000.

Committee Stands Squarely.

The committee, however, bolstered by a roar from the Senate and a 363 to 39 majority in the House, stood squarely behind the loan bill, which had been designed as a compromise on measures for full cash payment of the certificates.

By far the largest part of the huge sum proposed in this bill is to be available to those who are not in distress," the President wrote.

"The acute depression and unemployment create a situation of unusual economic sensitiveness much more easily disturbed at this time than in normal times by the consequences of this legislation and such action may quite well result in a prolongation of this period of unemployment and suffering in which veterans will themselves suffer with others."

Pocket Veto Feared.

Fear was expressed on the Senate floor that the President would administer a pocket veto if the legislation did not get to him before Saturday, when the ten-day period preceding an adjournment begins. In this period the President may kill a measure by refusing to sign it and he does not have to return it to Congress. For this reason advocates urged action today by the Senate. Only a prearranged memorial service for the late Senator Overman, of North Carolina, blocked a vote yesterday.

Capone Fires Word Volley In Answering Gen. Butler

Chicago Gang Leader, Replying to Prediction of Deportation, Reminds Marine Officer That American-Born Are Protected; Cites Feeding Hungry.

Miami, Fla., Feb 18 (A.P.).—Al (Scarface) Capone turned a machine gun of words today on Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, of the Marines.

The Chicago "public enemy" was wrathy because of published reports the general had said Capone would be deported when public opinion became aroused.

"The general," said Capone, "is ill-informed. He should know that the laws of this country protect an American-born citizen like myself and prevent the deportation of anyone who, like myself, was born in this country."

"Gen. Butler says I am a criminal. The only charge that I know of, or any law-abiding authorities know of, is of my being charged with vagrancy.

"I have been feeding between 2,500 and 3,000 people daily in Chicago for the last six months. If this is an act of a vagrant, I want to be classed as one.

"I leave the American people to judge as between Gen. Butler and myself, and I am satisfied to abide by their verdict."

Capone, who several years ago served a jail sentence in Philadelphia for carrying concealed weapons and whose name has been mentioned in connection with Chicago's long line of gang murder, has been wintering at his high walled estate here.

The statement which he gave out for publication was written on tinted stationery.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

We still have a small body of thought that considers the national debt has been reduced too fast. It is claimed that the surplus should have been applied to a reduction of taxes. By the same reasoning it would be proven that taxes should be kept down and money borrowed to meet running expenses. It was a great saving to the taxpayers to reduce the debt when the value of the dollar was low. It takes about twice as much cotton, corn, wheat, copper and other materials now to make the same payments as it did two or three years ago.

If it is argued that liquidation of the debt disturbed financial conditions one answer to that is that for every dollar the national debt was reduced State and local governments increased their debts over a dollar.

Besides these reasons any one who knows the enormous pressure on the Congress by organized minorities knows that if the revenues had not been used to reduce the debt they would have gone into additional expenditures rather than tax reductions. Great interest charges have been eliminated. Sound finance calls for payment of debt and making the revenues of each year meet the expenditures.

Sword Duel of Baltimore Man and Cuban Is Averted

Fight Between Dr. Wolf E. Klawans, Attorney, and Captain Over Award for Ship Damages Is Canceled After Apology of Officer.

Havana, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—With the appearance in the Cuban press today of a Cuban navy officer's public apology to a prominent American attorney practicing in Cuba, the Associated Press learned that publication of the item averted a sword duel which had been scheduled for tomorrow morning.

The affair had been kept under cover previously because Cuban law does not sanction dueling.

After the appearance of the published apology, however, Dr. Wolf E. Kiawans, the American attorney to whom it was addressed, admitted he was the challenging principal in the affair. The other principal, he said was Capt. Alberto de Carricarte, Judge Advocate General of the Cuban Army and Navy. Capt. Carricarte's signature was affixed to the apology published today.

The "point of honor" in the affair between the Cuban and the American, formerly of Baltimore, Md., was contained in a published criticism the former made with reference to a legal case in which Kiawans served as counsel for the defendant.

Dr. Klawans, dissatisfied with an award for damages rendered by the Cuban Naval Board against the owners of the British steamer Hallmoor, which on October 15 rammed and sank the Cuban freighter Antollin del Collado off Muriel, took the case to San Juan, Porto Rico.

Capt. Carricarte criticised this move and in the Cuban press at-

of Idaho, joined with the Democrats on the finance committee in defeating amendments or substitution.

On the motion of Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, to report the House bill without change, the following roll call resulted:

Substitute Proposed.

Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, proposed a substitute to allow cash payments of $150 to veterans who are actually in distress, to be charged against their certificates without interest. This lost, 9 to 8, with Chairman Smoot and Senators Watson, Reed, Shortridge, Keyes and Bingham, of the Republicans, supporting it. King was the lone Democrat to join Walsh for this measure.

Senator King's motion to restrict the loans to those actually in need was defeated, 10 to 7. Reed proposed to limit the relief to the veterans who already have borrowed. This lost, 12 to 5.

The entire meeting of the finance committee lasted little more than an hour and a half.

Less than 20 minutes was required to report the bill.

Mills said the Treasury at the regular March 15 quarter would engage in a financial operation of $1,600,000,000, of which $1,100,000,000 would be for refunding and $500,000,000 would be for new money for the Treasury.

President Hoover in his letter which was taken to the Capitol early in the day by Lawrence Richey, one of his secretaries, said, in this connection:

Misunderstanding In Proposal.

"There seems to be a misunderstanding in the proposal that the Government securities already lodged with the Treasury to the amount of over $700,000,000 as reserve against these certificates, constitute available cash to meet this potential liability. The cash required by the veterans can only be secured by the sale of these securities to the public.

"The legislation is defective in that this $700,000,000 of Government securities is wholly inadequate to meet either a potential liability of $1,280,000,000 or of approximately $1,000,000,000 estimated as possible by the administrator of veterans affairs, and provision would need to be made at once for this deficiency.

"The one appealing argument for this legislation is for veterans in distress. The welfare of the veterans as a class is inseparable from that of the country. Placing a strain on the savings needed for rehabilitation of employment by a measure which calls upon the Government for a vast sum beyond the call of distress and so adversely affecting our general situation will in my view not only nullify the benefits to the veterans but inflict injury to the country as a whole."

HINES EXPECTS NEED OF ADDITIONAL MEN

certificates totals about $325,000,000.

Gen. Hines believes that, unless economic conditions improve soon, 2,550,000 veterans will take advantage of the legislation which seems about to become law and ask for the more liberal loans.

Not counting the $325,000,000 that already has been loaned, he says, this would call for an outlay of about $1,000,000,000.

Gen. Hines expects that the first week after the passage of the bill will see the greatest rush for loans.

"We are ready," Gen. Hines said. "Once the bill becomes a law, the Veterans Bureau will start to function under the new provisions. The machinery is ready; it only needs expanding."

In pointing out the need of additional employes in the event the bill becomes a law, Gen. Hines declared that the Veterans Bureau already is swamped with loan applications. In January, he said, the amount of money loaned out was $21,000,000, which was $13,000,000 more than had been loaned out in December. This was due to the fact that a large number of certificates became two years old in January, and also to the fact that many veterans took out a second loan on the increased value of the certificate.

In order to handle this rush of work, 250 additional employes were put to work here and in the regional offices.

Prices Are Higher On Federal Bonds

Strength Develops After Decline Following Bonus Legislation.

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—United States Government securities which have been moving lower in recent sessions of the New York Stock Exchange, gave a display of strength in the late trading today. Long term Treasury issues closed $2.50 higher on the average.

Trading was active in the final hour, and the volume of transactions in the long term Treasury issues totaled more than $500,000, a fair volume for this market. Liberty bonds improved slightly.

Traders were somewhat puzzled by the action of the Government securities, since they have recently tended to decline with the progress of the compromise soldier bonus measure in Congress, and today's upturn came after the favorable report by the Senate finance committee on the bill, which bankers feel will necessitate a large Government bond offering.

It was pointed out, however, that because of the light volume of trading in these issues in the stock exchange's bond division—they are traded mostly "over the counter"—it is difficult to trace the causes of short term fluctuations in the price trend. An easier tone in the money market may have been a factor.

Substitute Relief Bill Is Submitted

Doak Would Ban Measure of Wagner, Taking Out One Provision.

(Associated Press.)

A substitute proposed by Secretary Doak for the Wagner employment bill, eliminating provision for Federal aid to States for employment offices, was submitted yesterday to the House judiciary committee.

Chairman Graham announced he would attempt to substitute the Doak suggestion for the measure by Senator Wagner (Democrat), of New York, after Assistant Secretary White, of Labor, was heard in closed session.

Mr. White read a letter from Mr. Doak saying it had been "strongly suggested" that the method of Federal and State cooperation proposed by Mr. Wagner "would threaten an improper centralization of Federal bureaucratic centralization through the seductive influence of Federal aid."

DEADLOCK BROKEN ON MUSCLE SHOALS

Conferees Reach Agreement Through Compromise on Leasing.

HOOVER'S VETO FEARED

(Associated Press.)

The 10-year-old deadlock between the House and Senate over Muscle Shoals legislation was broken yesterday, but many congressional leaders were apprehensive that the compromise agreement faced a veto by President Hoover if approved by Congress.

The bill which emerged yesterday from the conference committee after a year of negotiations provides for Government operation of the power plant at Muscle Shoals, Ala., and lease of the nitrate plants to private interests if possible.

If the nitrate plants are not leased within a year after the bill passes they would be operated by the Government for experimental production of fertilizer.

The measure also provides for Government construction of transmission lines to distribute power from Wilson Dam, completion of the steam power plant and construction of the Cove Creek Dam, on the Clinch River, in Tennessee.

May Prevent Enactment.

The provision for Government construction of transmission lines is the controversial point which advocates of the measure fear may prevent its final enactment.

One congressional leader who has talked frequently with President Hoover on Muscle Shoals legislation said: "There is not one chance in a million that he will sign this bill."

He predicted a veto, which would throw the issue back into the next Congress and into the 1932 presidential campaign.

The conference report will be submitted to the House today. Leaders plan to bring it up tomorrow.

Early congressional approval of the bill was predicted. Chairman Snell, of the House rules committee, indicated it would be passed by the House and Senate leaders said it would meet little opposition on their side of the Capitol.

No Trouble Seen in Senate.

"It will be brought up in the Senate as soon as it passes the House," Chairman McNary, of the Senate conferees said.

The assistant Republican leader added that with the Senate up to date on consideration of appropriation bills there would be no trouble in obtaining consideration.

The settlement came as a surprise to leaders in both Houses, as the conferees had apparently reached an impasse after having thrown out an agreement two months ago.

All three Senate conferees, Senators McNary, Norris (Republican), Nebraska, and Smith (Democrat), South Carolina, signed the report. Three of the five House conferees also signed. They were Representatives Wurzback (Republican, Texas; Quin (Democrat), Mississippi, and Fisher (Democrat), Tennessee. Representative Ransley (Republican), Pennsylvania, refused to sign and Representative Reece (Republican), Tennessee, said he would decide before the report was submitted today whether to concur.

Elements in Leasing.

The agreement was based on a compromise plan for leasing the nitrate plants under which the lessee would be allowed to purchase for manufacturing electro-chemical products off the Government reservation 15 per cent of the power he used for manufacture of fertilizer at the Government plants.

Senator Norris, author of the original Senate bill for Government operation of the $150,000,000 plants, explained the bill would eventually provide between 400,000 and 500,000 primary horsepower at Wilson Dam.

He said construction of the Cove Creek Dam at an estimated cost of $35,000,000 would provide three major benefits. First, he said, it would go a long way toward controlling the flood waters of the Mississippi; second, go a long way toward making the Tennessee River navigable, and third, make it possible to develop the full capacity of power at Wilson Dam.

Norris said the benefits of the Cove Creek Dam to Chattanooga alone would pay for the cost of its construction.

RELIEF FUND GROUP MEETS AGAIN TODAY

$8,000,000 Tentative Sum Considered by Hyde in Credit Measure.

AID TO HOOVER REPORTS

(Associated Press.)

Discussion at Secretary Hyde's conference yesterday with intermediate credit bank officials on the portion of the $20,000,000 relief fund to be used in developing agricultural credit corporations centered about the tentative sum of $8,000,000.

The balance under this suggested division would be used for individual loans for crop production, including funds for food and clothing where security is available.

Following the meeting the Secretary emphasized that no definite action had been taken and that it probably would be several days before a conclusion was reached. The group will meet again today.

As to Government participation in the total capital structure of the credit corporation, the conference discussion ranged around a possible portion of 50 per cent.

Col. Hodges Reports.

Col. Campbell B. Hodges, military aid to President Hoover, reported to him yesterday that a survey of drought areas disclosed the National Red Cross work was being efficiently administered.

Col. Hodges, accompanied by Oliver S. Wood and Capt. Lewis A. Pick, returned yesterday from a survey in Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas. Col. Hodges made the survey at the request of President Hoover. Adequate relief, he said, is extended to those in need of food and clothing and due precaution is being taken to prevent imposition by those not really in need.

"Unfortunately," he said, "there are a sufficient number of this last class to make careful inquiry necessary, but the help is given first on an emergency basis and the inquiry made afterward."

Loath to Ask Help.

One of the difficulties facing the Red Cross, Col. Hodges found, is that some people are very loath to ask for help and in some cases accept aid only after the Red Cross has called on them and insisted they do so.

"Cash grants for relief have been made in every county where distress exists. These grants are ample to supply adequate relief, and the local Red Cross chapters are attending to their part of the job in a very thorough and conscientious manner, with very few exceptions—and those exceptions are on the side of lack of care to prevent abuse.

"Quite a number of people who are habitually improvident and always live very poorly are better off with the Red Cross relief than they are accustomed to.

"With the opening up of farm work and the reestablishment of farm credit, the task of the Red Cross should be materially reduced within the next month."

LEGGE SEES FARM HELP BY EMBARGO

Board Chairman Supports Proposal to Bar Cheap Foreign Articles.

BURTNESS BILL BACKED

(Associated Press.)

Legislation to aid the American farmer against the importation of cheap commodities from abroad was urged yesterday by Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board.

Appearing before the House ways and means committee in behalf of the Burtness bill for a twelve-month embargo on wheat, feed grains and other products, Mr. Legge said he thought the legislation would be helpful to the producer and to the Farm Board.

"Anything showing interest in the agricultural producer would be helpful," the chairman said. "He needs a little encouragement about as much as he needs money right now."

Mr. Legge said: "It is immaterial to us whether the relief is by embargo, a tariff increase, or a change in the Tariff Commission's procedure.

"The flexible provision is inoperative on agricultural products. The farmers don't keep costs and at the time the relief is needed, as in the present depression, costs don't cut much figure anyhow."

The bill by Representative Burtness (Republican), North Dakota, was said by the author in a statement before the committee to include wheat and wheat flour, feed grains, butter and butter substitutes, dried beans, eggs in various forms and palm oil.

Mr. Legge approved the list, but said agricultural interests might want other commodities such as wool and flax included. Earlier in the day, Secretary Mellon, in a letter to Chairman Hawley, of the committee, declined to take any position on the measure.

"The department deems it inappropriate to comment on the wisdom of the policy of enacting such a law," Mr. Mellon wrote, after stating that the "Treasury perceives no difficulty to be involved in the enforcement of the prohibition of the articles mentioned in the bill."

The Treasury head said, however, certain sections of the tariff law would be made wholly or partially inoperative should the Burtness embargo be passed without amendments.

10 Minnesota Men Offered for Bench

Senator Schall Submits List for Judgeship at Request of Hoover.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Schall yesterday submitted a list of ten men to President Hoover for possible appointment as Federal judge in Minnesota.

This was in response to a request from the Chief Executive, who joined with Attorney General Mitchell in declining to approve the Minnesota Republican's previous candidate—Ernest Michel.

Mr. Mitchell, a Minnesotan, intimates Senator Schall was backing Mr. Michel for political purposes.

In a letter yesterday to President Hoover, the Minnesota senator said he "was exceedingly sorry" that Mr. Michel "is denied a chance to answer the unjust charge made against him by the Attorney General."

"Realizing, however," he added, "that Minnesota needs a judge, and in compliance with your request I am herewith submitting the names of ten lawyers for the position of Federal judge in Minnesota."

Hoover Vetoes Indian Bill Favored by Hurley

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover and his Secretary of War, Patrick Hurley, of Oklahoma, may agree completely on matters of national defense, but yesterday they, unwittingly, were far apart on an Indian matter.

Just eighteen years ago Secretary Hurley was national attorney for the Choctaw Indian tribe and was instrumental in securing the introduction of legislation designed to allow payment to the Choctaws for certain land in Oklahoma. The Congress now in session finally got around to passing it. President Hoover yesterday vetoed the bill.

Farm Population Raised By Back to Land Trend

(Associated Press.)

A farmward trek which increased the agrarian population in 1930 for the first time in ten years was attributed yesterday by the Department of Agriculture to the industrial employment situation.

The number who left farms for towns and cities in 1930 was 1,543,000 compared with 1,876,000 in 1929 and a peak movement of 2,155,000 in 1926.

Last year 1,392,000 persons moved from cities to farms—the largest number since 1924, when a peak of 1,396,000 was reached.

The department estimated that the total farm population as of January 1 was 27,430,000 as compared with 27,222,000 a year ago.

SENATE BODY TURNS DOWN NIAGARA PACT

Canadian Treaty Rejected Because Not Linked With St. Lawrence Plan.

POWER DEAL UNCOVERED

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Coincident with President Hoover's plans for the appointment of a commission to join with a similar Canadian agency to deal with the long-pending St. Lawrence waterways project, the Senate foreign relations committee yesterday unanimously rejected the treaty with Canada looking to the scenic preservation of Niagara Falls.

The two projects are indirectly related because the motivating influence in the committee was the opposition of Northwestern senators to what they termed piece-meal treatles on these kindred subjects. In other words, they want a treaty embracing both the St. Lawrence project and the Niagara Falls project, or at least treaties on them at the same time.

Because of their attitude the Niagara treaty has been held up in the committee for about two years. The stated reason for turning it down yesterday was that it contained a clause whereby the power companies would get $5,000,000 worth of water-power for the 7½-year period that the treaty was in effect.

Power For Work.

Under the terms of the treaty, power companies were to handle the engineering work involved in the spreading of the water over the falls, with a view to preserving its scenic effect. The cost of this work, it was testified by Brig. Gen. George B. Pillsbury, assistant chief of Army engineers, would be $1,750,000, to be divided equally between the two governments.

And for doing it, it was developed before the committee, power companies in both countries were to receive waterpower rights amounting to $5,000,000 each.

As a result of Mr. Pillsbury's testimony, which was taken a week ago, the committee said yesterday that it felt that the Government should do its own engineering work and keep the waterpower project separate from the proposition of preserving the falls.

Story Behind Project.

There is, however, quite a story behind the waterpower development. The original opposition to the treaty, as has been said, came from the Northwest senators, who felt that by holding it up they would have a better chance of getting the St. Lawrence treaty.

When a slice fell out of the falls recently there was considerable criticism of the committee for holding up the treaty. Had the committee acted upon the treaty, it was said, the erosion would have been stopped.

Just about this time, too, Premier Bennett came here on a good-will visit. This and the criticism that the committee was responsible for the breaking away of a chunk of the falls rather served to force the treaty out for an airing.

Shipstead Uncovers Plan.

And when it came out there developed some talk about water-power rights and concessions, but there was nothing tangible on the subject. But Senator Shipstead, of Minnesota, conceived the idea of having Gen. Pillsbury down. He put his finger right on what the Northwest senators wanted, the water-power gentleman in the woodpile, so to speak.

Of course, now that the treaty has been rejected, there remains the question of whether it will facilitate the St. Lawrence treaty, or react against it.

Mr. Hoover's plans to appoint a commission grew out of his conferences with Premier Bennett. It is understood that his plan is to appoint former Secretary of State Kellogg chairman, if the latter can be spared from the World Court, and if Kellogg is not available, former Senator Henry Allen will be named. Mr. Allen is to serve on the commission at any rate. Both he and Mr. Kellogg are well acquainted with the St. Lawrence project, Kellogg, in his capacity as Secretary of State, and Allen served as the head of some agency set up to promote the project.

Overman Is Honored In Tribute of Senate

With services attended by the widow and other members of the family, tribute was paid in the Senate yesterday to the late Senator Lee S. Overman, of North Carolina, who served his State in that body for nearly 30 years.

Senator Morris, appointed to serve out the remainder of his term, paid a brief personal tribute and then read a message from Senator Simmons who was unable to attend because of illness. Mr. Simmons' message said that "No man in my day has been better loved in this chamber." Democratic Leader Robinson, also paid tribute.

SECOND DEFICIENCY MEASURE REPORTED

Bill Carries $5,500,000 for District and Federal Projects Here.

SALARY RAISES COVERED

More than $5,500,000 for the District government and for Federal projects within the District, is provided in the second deficiency appropriation bill, which was reported to the House yesterday by Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), Indiana, chairman of the House appropriations committee.

The measure carried a total of $59,106,419.21, which was $633,852.43 less than the amount recommended by the Budget Bureau in estimates submitted to the House.

The largest item in the bill, of especial interest to Washington, was $2,500,000 for an addition to the City Postoffice.

Salary increases, to conform to the Brookhart act, accounted for $2,069,031 of the total carried in the bill, while $866,617.56 was provided for various municipal activities and debts and more than $1,000,000 was provided for public buildings and parks under the administration of Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, officer in charge of public buildings and grounds.

Monument to Be Lighted.

The sum of $15,000 was included in the bill to provide for the adequate lighting of the Washington Monument at night. Complaint has been made recently that the Monument is a dangerous night hazard to fliers.

Most of the total carried in the bill for the District government went for salaries for the Police and Fire Departments, $253,900 being provided for police and $225,600 for the fire department salaries. Pay of these departments was increased by a special act after the last annual District appropriation bill had been framed. The park police were given $15,900 for salaries for the same reason.

Salaries of civilian District employes in conformance with the Brookhart act, called for $253,900, which was provided in the bill.

For Bicentennial Body.

The Bicentennial Commission was given $77,000; the District supreme court $118,317.40; public buildings and grounds got $239,072 for general expenses, of which $150,000 is for rent and $17,475 for maintenance of the old Commerce Department building which is to be occupied by the War Department when vacated by the Commerce Department; $9,000 for rent of quarters for the Radio Commission, $47,597 for other rentals, $13,100 for a police force to patrol the Mount Vernon boulevard, and $750,000 for construction of a central heating plant for the entire Potomac group of buildings north of B street and west of Seventeenth street northwest, to replace the present temporary plant now located on the square which is to be used as the site for an annex to the Pan American Union Building annex.

The bill also provided for increasing cost limits for the Department of Agriculture group, Coast Guard Building, Department of Justice Building, and new water mains for the new Government buildings. It brings to $83,518,741 the total of projects charged against the $150,000,000 Federal building authorization in Washington.

Veterans Are Remembered.

Of the total carried in the bill, $23,668,000 is for various activities for the benefit of war veterans, and of this amount the greater part was for increased disability allowances.

Other projects provided for in the bill included $2,500,000 for roads and trails in national parks; $300,000 for the bureau of industrial alcohol; $1,270,000 for fighting forest fires; $1,900,000 for expansion of Federal prisons and other large items for specific prison projects; $2,200,000 for beginning work on the new dirigible base at Sunnyvale, Calif., and $3,000,000 for air mail.

Daugherty's Bank Records Correct

State Witness in Trial of Financier Admits Proper Condition.

Washington Court House, Ohio, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Testimony that the records of the Ohio State Bank were kept in proper form despite alleged illegal manipulation was given by a State witness under cross-examination in the trial of Mal S. Daugherty here today.

Daugherty, brother of former United States Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, is charged with responsibility for the bank's failure on May 12, 1929, when he was its president.

The statement as to the condition of the bank's books was made by Cecil Hall, State investigator, after he had identified additional evidence by which the State hopes to prove that Daugherty abstracted funds.

American Engineer Calls Soviet Conditions Terrible

P. J. Harty, Back From Russia, Says Labor There Is Either Convict or Forced; Arrives Here for Hearing on Williamson Bill.

Conditions in Russia today are terrible, with all labor either convict or forced, declared P. J. Harty, of Newark, N. J., upon arriving here last night in the hope of testifying before the House ways and means committee this morning in its hearing on the Williamson bill.

Mr. Harty, an American mechanical engineer who just returned from Russia after severing his connection in supervising operations in various steel mills there, said he wished to be allowed to speak as a vigorous proponent of the bill, which seeks to place an embargo on Soviet products.

With him here is Arthur A. Kopman, of New York City, who intends to give the committee valuable first-hand information on Russia to supplement data he gave the Fish committee and Treasury Department investigators. Mr. Kopman, Russian-born of American parents, was imprisoned from 1925 to 1928 in lumber camps in the Ural Mountains by the Soviet until his release by demand of the British.

Just back from Russia, indignant at the treatment given him there, Mr. Harty asserted that bread lines are everywhere, and that they are exceeded only by the lines obtaining vodka, the potent liquor.

"Conditions are fierce," he said. "I have witnessed men drop senseless to the floor in steel mills from lack of nourishment. The food they put out is worse than we serve to pigs. There are millions in rags. Stalin is the whole deck, and the deck is stacked against them."

"All labor is conscript or convict, and all the products they are trying to dump into the United States, including manganese, coal, lumber, gold, refined oil and other products, come from these sources.

"Soviet Russia figures she can surpass the United States in five years, but if their five-year plan really succeeds, God have mercy on us.

"So far as I could learn, the Communist party is not gaining in numbers there except among the youth. Their future strength lies in the babies, for they know they can instill their teachings in the little ones and that the nation will be increasingly Communist as the old ones die off.

"I challenge any one to contradict these facts. The only persons over here telling wonderful stories about Soviet Russia, all have special interests over there are are going back there to work."

Mr. Harty identified himself also as a former light-heavyweight boxing champion of the Knights of Columbus in this country for two years.

Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connecticut; Senator Lawrence Phipps (Republican), Colorado; Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas; Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), Virginia, and Senator John B. Kendrick (Democrat), Wyoming, are the Senate conference committee.

Representative Robert B. Simmons (Republican), Nebraska, chairman of the District appropriations subcommittee, heads the House conferees which includes the entire membership of the House subcommittee on District appropriations. Other members are Representatives William P. Holaday (Republican), Illinois; Maurice H. Thatcher (Republican), Kentucky; Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, and Ross A. Collins (Democrat), Mississippi. The bill as passed by the Senate carried increases amounting to $200,000 more than was provided in the bill as passed by the House.

Stone Ask Quiz on Bill Citing 'Pay Roll Racket'

(Associated Press.)

Representative Stone, defeated Oklahoma Republican, yesterday renewed his efforts to get action this session on his bill to prevent what he termed the "pay roll racket" of members of Congress and Government officials.

In a letter to Chairman Williamson of the House expenditures committee, he urged hearings on his bill which strikes at the employment of relatives by members of Congress. He said he could produce information that would startle the country as to the number of relatives on the Government pay roll.

Hoover Aid Asked On Silver Problem

Requested to Seek Nations' Cooperation in Effecting Stabilization.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate foreign relations committee yesterday approved a resolution to ask President Hoover to enter negotiations with other countries looking toward stabilization of silver prices. The chief purpose of the measure is to seek a suspension of Great Britain's policy of dumping silver from India on the world market.

It suggests that President Hoover negotiate with other governments to obtain suspension of their policy of debasing silver coins and selling the product on the world market.

It also suggests the President call an international conference to reach an agreement on the use of silver as money.

The resolution was recommended in slightly different form by a subcommittee after nearly a year's investigation. It regarded suspension of the dumping of silver from India as an emergency measure and the international conference as a long range program for stabilizing silver prices.

Equity Association Probe to Be Asked

Charged With Opposing Extradition of Man Held in Marlboro.

Concord, N. H., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Assistant Attorney General Winthrop Wadleigh said today that his office would ask the Federal Department of Justice to investigate the American Equity Association, of Washington. The association had protested the extradition here from Maryland of Henry H. Hobbs, of Haverhill, Mass., under sentence of 10 to 15 years for a statutory charge, who escaped from the State hospital here.

The Attorney General's office claimed, Wadleigh said, that the association took money from Hobbs for alleged legal services. Wadleigh also made public today a copy of a letter of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, who was asked by the association to order the extradition of Hobbs. Ritchie announced he would take no such action. Hobbs was captured in southern Maryland a few days ago.

Henry H. Hobbs was captured on the Providence Hospital farm here ten days ago when Chief Deputy Sheriff Thomas Garrison, of Prince Georges County, arrested him at the point of a pistol. Hobbs was taken to Marlboro for safe-keeping, and was turned over to New Hampshire police the following day.

Text of Hoover's Letter Opposing Veterans' Loan

the total cash which might be required to be raised by the Treasury is about $1,280,000,000 if all should apply. The administrator of veterans' affairs informs me by the attached letter that he estimates that if present conditions continue then 75 per cent of the veterans may be expected to claim the loans, or a sum of approximately $1,000,000,000 will need to be raised by the Treasury.

Foregoes Listing Objections.

I will not undertake to enumerate all of the grounds for objections to this proposal. There are a number of most serious objections, some of which are matters of method and some of which are matters of fundamental principle affecting the future of our country and the service men themselves.

I have supported, and the Nation should maintain, the important principle that when men have been called into jeopardy of their very lives in protection of the Nation, then the Nation, as a whole, incurs a special obligation beyond that to any other groups of its citizens. These obligations can not be wholly met with dollars and cents. But good faith and gratitude require that protection be given to them when in ill health, distress and in need. Over 700,000 World War veterans or their dependents are today receiving monthly allowances for these reasons. The country should not be called upon, however, either directly or indirectly, to support or make loans to those who can by their own efforts support themselves.

By far the largest part of the huge sum proposed in this bill is to be available to those who are not in distress.

Sensitive Situation Mentioned.

The acute depression and unemployment create a situation of unusual economic sensitiveness, much more easily disturbed at this time than in normal times by the consequences of this legislation, and such action may quite well result in a prolongation of this period of unemployment and suffering in which veterans will themselves suffer with others.

By our expansion of public construction for assistance to unemployment and other relief measures, we have imposed upon ourselves a deficit in this fiscal year of upwards of $500,000,000 which must be obtained by issue of certificates to the investing public. This bill may possibly require the securing of a further billion of money likewise from the public. Beyond this, the Government is faced with a billion dollars of early maturities of outstanding debts which must be refunded aside from constant renewals of a very large amount of temporary Treasury obligations. The additional burdens of this project can not but have damaging effect at a time when all effort should be for the rehabilitation of employment through resumption of commerce and industry.

There seems to be a misunderstanding in the proposal that the Government securities already lodged with the Treasury to the amount of over $700,000,000 as reserve against these certificates constitute available cash to meet this potential liability. The cash required by the veterans can only be secured by the sale of these securities to the public.

Defect Pointed Out.

The legislation is defective in that this $700,000,000 of Government securities is wholly inadequate to meet either a potential liability of $1,280,000,000 or approximately $1,000,000,000 estimated as possible by the administrator of veterans' affairs, and provision would need to be made at once for this deficiency.

The one appealing argument for this legislation is for veterans in distress. The welfare of the veterans as a class is inseparable from that of the country. Placing a strain on the savings needed for rehabilitation of employment by a measure which calls upon the Government for a vast sum beyond the call of distress, and so adversely affecting our general situation, will, in my view, not only nullify the benefits to the veteran but inflict injury to the country as a whole."

...E VOTES CASH FOR NEW WARSHIPS

$39,000,000 Building Plan, Accepted in Three-Hour Debate, Alarms Italy.

HOPE FOR 'HOLIDAY' FELT

Paris, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—The Chamber of Deputies voted the 1931-32 naval budget in the record time of three hours today, with little opposition to the government's figures. The speed with which the measure was carried was interpreted generally as meaning that the French Parliament had reached the end of naval limitation as far as the 1931-32 program was concerned.

This program, which devotes approximately $39,000,000 to new construction, provides for beginning work on about 42,000 tons. Of this total, 23,333 would be devoted to one battle cruiser. There would be another light cruiser of 7,000 tons, two submarines of 2,800 and 2,500 tons and some lighter construction.

Agreement Held Near.

The whole appropriation for naval needs totals about $123,000,000.

Charles Dumont, minister of marine, refrained from specifying the actual construction schedule. He explained that he did not want to hamper conversations between France and Italy. This caused some to conclude the two countries might be nearer agreement than had been thought.

American naval policy was mentioned once in today's debate when Deputy Edouard Bussat asked: "Why should the United States insist upon a fleet as powerful as that of England while both countries refuse France capital ships, granting only submarines and light cruisers?"

Italy Ready for Race.

Rome, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Italy may go back to her "ton for ton, gun for gun" building program. Official quarters indicated tonight, as the result of the French chamber's voting today for $39,000,000 in new naval construction.

This nation has been ready for some time to resume the Franco-Italian naval holiday, it was said, but now may be forced to build up.

At the same time there is a hope France may find the need for cooperation in naval and other questions will outweigh her immediate need for more war craft. Italians feel there is still some slight chance of an amicable limitation agreement.

British Actress, Homesick, Quits Role With John Gilbert

Edna Best Is Speeding to Husband in New York From Hollywood.

EDNA BEST.

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Edna Best, nostalgic English actress, sped toward New York on a fast train tonight to the husband for whom she left the films flat.

"It's perfectly true my wife has run away from Hollywood," said Herbert Marshall, who is playing in the Broadway stage success, "Tomorrow and Tomorrow."

"She got homesick ten days ago and asked one of the film company executives to relieve her of her contract. He induced her to remain, but last Sunday she couldn't stand it any longer and told her maid to pack up."

Turning her back on what the cinema world said was her "big chance," Miss Best boarded a train, leaving John Gilbert waiting at a camera and a frenzied director doing things to his hair. Her place in the picture "Cheri-Bebi," in which she was to have starred, was taken by Lelia Hyams.

"Please forgive me," she telegraphed to the director when her train made a stop at Needles, Calif. "I am awfully homesick and besides I am just afraid I wouldn't be any good in the picture."

Marshall said he expected her to arrive Friday. They were married three years ago when both were playing in "The High Road."

SOCIETIES URGE CUT IN ALL IMMIGRATION

Bill Restricting Philippine Quotas Is Indorsed at Meeting Here.

ALIEN OUSTING BACKED

Proposed legislation restricting quotas on immigration from the Philippines for two years, and providing for a 90 per cent reduction on all immigration for the same period, was indorsed yesterday by the advisory board of the American Coalition of Patriotic Societies, in a meeting at the Carlton Hotel.

The first bill was introduced by Representative Free, of California, and the second by Representative Jenkins, of Ohio. Both have been favorably reported by the House committee on immigration.

Delegates of the patriotic societies held the view that temporary drastic restrictions on immigration are vitally necessary to "prevent the spread of unemployment" in the United States. The Jenkins bill would reduce the annual immigration by about 168,000 yearly, its backers state.

The meeting also indorsed the bill introduced by Representative Albert Johnson, chairman of the House committee on immigration, providing for the deportation of alien criminals, who have been sentenced to prison terms exceeding one year, and imposing penalties on aliens illegally in the country for continued residence.

Another resolution was adopted urging Congress to appropriate sufficient funds to build the Navy up to the limit permitted by the London naval treaty.

BLAINE PLEADS REAL MEASURES' PASSAGE

Bills Affecting City Are Viewed as Assisting Law Observance.

ONE OF TWO IS OPPOSED

Enactment of his bill governing foreclosure of mortgages and that providing for licensing of real estate operators in the District will do much to eliminate existing dificiencies in District laws—Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, said yesterday.

Senator Blaine announced his purpose to seek enactment of his foreclosure measure, which was one of two favorably reported to the Senate yesterday after months of consideration by the District committee subcommittee of which he is chairman.

The second measure reported to the Senate was the Blaine "blue-sky" securities bill. It would prohibit sale of securities in Washington until the worth of the securities had been passed on officially.

This measure is strongly opposed by national investment bankers and local interests and their opposition is strong enough to justify the prediction that it will not be enacted at this session of Congress. The Blaine measure is in contrast to the Capper measure which would base regulation on licensing of those offering securities for sale.

Senator Blaine cited many episodes in recent Washington history to show need for remedial legislation, and declared that several criminal indictments had been handed down as a result of the investigations and hearings held by his subcommittee.

Recurrence of the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey bankruptcy, Senator Blaine said, would have been impossible had the mortgage foreclosure bill been a law in the District. The bill would forbid the recorder of deeds to release a deed of trust until there had been presented him cancelled notes releasing the claim and that fact was noted on the margin of the mortgage.

The measure provides for 25 days' notice of foreclosure by the trustee and a 15-day period for redemption.

The drama section will present the one-act play, "Fourteen," by Alice Gerstenberg at the meeting of the Woman's Club of Chevy Chase, which will be held this afternoon in the assembly room of the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, Chevy Chase Circle. The meeting will begin at 2:45 o'clock.

Luncheon will be served by a committee headed by Mrs. Hewitt Griggs Robertson. A business meeting will begin at 1 o'clock. Election of new members and reports of officers will be features of the meeting.

General Butler To Leave Service

Marine Chief Confirms Report That He Will Go on Lecture Platform.

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler, arriving from Cleveland, Ohio, tonight confirmed the report he would seek to leave the military service of the United States next fall. He plans to ask the Navy Department for retirement in September, he said.

The recent Mussolini incident had nothing to do with his determination, the general explained, but his action is prompted solely by the contract which he has entered into for a series of lectures to be given from October, 1931, to May, 1932.

He said some Washington officials were aware of his intention to retire and he believed no opposition would develop.

DAVIS TO AID SENATE IN POWER HEAD ROW

tion of whether or not Smith shall retain office.

Davis, on behalf of the Senate, will file quo warranto proceedings in the District of Columbia Supreme Court to test Smith's right to office.

He will file the suit in the name of Leo A. Rover, local district attorney, as required by law. Rover has agreed to the use of his name, although he will represent the other side of the case. He is under Attorney General Mitchell, who advised President Hoover the Senate's action was not legal.

In selecting Davis, the Senate committee considered many nationally known lawyers, including Chairman Wickersham of the law enforcement commission who was Attorney General under President Taft, and former Senator Pepper, of Pennsylvania.

Wickersham and Pepper said they were not in a position to accept.

HOUSE IS BESIEGED IN KIDNAPING CHASE

California Posse Expects to Get Man Suspected of Concealing Girl.

PHOTOGRAPH HELD CLEW

Los Angeles, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—A posse of police surrounded a ranch house near Lebec, 60 miles north of here, tonight, expecting within a few hours to arrest a man suspected of kidnaping Virginia Brooks, 10-year-old San Diego schoolgirl, who has been missing a week.

The posse was sent out hurriedly after a quiet check of clews unearthed here, in Pomona and San Diego. Running down one of the score of reports by citizens that a girl answering Virginia's description had been seen with a man in an automobile on the streets, police were led by an automobile license number to a recently vacated house in Pomona.

A search of the house disclosed a photograph of the suspect and another of John F. Brooks, Virginia's father. Brooks, in San Diego, was unable to explain how the man gained possession of his picture. He said he never had seen the suspect.

From San Diego garagemen police learned the suspect had traded his automobile for another there at about the time the Brooks girl disappeared last Wednesday while en route to school.

Miss Waterman Winner In Spelling Tournament

George I. Kelly, oldest member and for two contests champion speller in the Capital City Spelling Club, was defeated last night in a furious tournament by Miss Sarah C. Waterman, of 214 Fourth street southeast, a former champion. More than 30 persons entered the contest, which was held at the Mount Pleasant Library building.

The spelling was fast and furious as one contestant after another was eliminated on misspelling one of the tongue-twisting words. Some of those handed out for spelling were: vinaigrette, xylonite, parallelepipedon, flibbertigibbet, barbarousness, phalangeal, rodomontade, bowdlerize, and catafalque, to mention only a few of the simpler ones.

Group Will Study New Roads in Mall

Planning Commission to Consider Grading at Session Tomorrow.

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission will consider the grading and construction of new roads in the Mall at its monthly meeting tomorrow. Secretary Arthur Hyde, or some other official of the Department of Agriculture, probably will be present to discuss whether part of the $100,000 independent offices appropriation bill may be made available for this work.

Cooperation of the Agricultural Department also is sought to make available the earth that will be excavated for the foundations of the Archives Building, the Department of Labor, the new Postoffice Department, and the Department of Justice. This would be used for filling the cavity in the Mall south of the greenhouses between Twelfth and Fourteenth streets.

The plan of the commission is to have four thoroughfares running the length of the Mall. The south road was recently completed between Fourteenth street and the Smithsonian Institution and another road would be constructed south of the greenhouse, near B street, after the tract is graded.

Possible to See God, Author Says

Dr. H. M. Kallen Addresses Jewish Community Club on 'Unseen Presence.'

Existence of an "unseen presence," which he defined as "God," perceptible to humans only after a complete breakdown of the normal senses, last night was championed by Dr. Horace M. Kallen, author and psychologist, formerly on the Harvard faculty, in an address at the Jewish Community Center.

Dr. Kallen described various formulas used by mystics through the ages in attempting to "see God," from the ascetic practices of Christian saints to the Yoga principle in India. He said it was possible for anyone to become directly aware of this "presence."

Dr. Kallen was brought here by a committee headed by Louis E. Spiegler, as the fourth speaker in the national forum being conducted at the Jewish center.

P. Collins, of Casualty Hospital. The man was later taken to the hospital for further treatment. His condition is not regarded as serious. Mr. Wilsey, a mechanic, was out of work, police learned.

SINCLAIR REPLIES TO "ALFALFA BILL"

Oil Man Declares State of Oklahoma Is Throttled by Own Policy.

ACCUSATIONS ARE DENIED

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Replying to Gov. Murray's accusation that he was attempting to destroy the Oklahoma crude oil market, Harry F. Sinclair asserted in a statement given out here today that "production figures show that for more than two years the State has been steadily throttled by its own policy."

"Gov. Murray of Oklahoma is quoted in newspapers as accusing me of attempting to destroy the oil market in Oklahoma to serve my own selfish purposes," said Sinclair's statement given out by the New York office of the Sinclair Consolidation Oil Corporation.

"He apparently bases his accusation on the Sinclair company's offer to buy 50,000 barrels of Oklahoma City crude daily at 67 cents a barrel. He asserts that I would wreck the State and its principal industry to accomplish my nefarious designs.

"So far as wrecking the State of Oklahoma and its oil business is concerned, the production figures show that for more than two years the State has been steadily throttled by its own policy.

"This policy of strangulation, promoted at the expense of Oklahoma by those working in their own interest and to the advantage of other fields, is the real source of the trouble. Observing the stubborn adherence to this policy, plainly destructive of the oil industry of the State and fostered by those not interested primarily in Oklahoma, the public will, I am sure, draw its own conclusions as to where and by whom any undue influence has been used."

Mr. Sinclair is en route from Tulsa, Okla., to Los Angeles on a business trip.

1931 Chest Drive Nets $1,936,317

144,931 Contributors Are Listed in Report Audited on February 9.

In a report made yesterday to the board of trustees of the Community Chest, Robert V. Fleming, treasurer of the Chest, disclosed that pledges made by 114,931 contributors during the 1931 drive netted $1,936,317.16, audited as of February 9. Donations to the Red Cross drought relief fund amounted to about $40,000, Mr. Fleming said, taking the Chest $26,000 over its goal of $1,950,154.40.

Elwood Street, director, declared that gifts are still coming to Chest headquarters and while the campaign went over the top, it was because all budgets had been pared to the limit this year. He intimated that the additional contributions might be needed to meet the demands caused by unemployment.

The trustees, who held their meeting in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building, voted to add 31 members to the board. John Poole, president of the Chest, presided at yesterday's meeting.

Error Is Corrected.

In an account of a police liquor raid on a supposedly vacant house on Eleventh street near T street northwest yesterday, The Post incorrectly printed the address as "1938" Eleventh, whereas it should have been an address several houses closer to T street. The Post regrets the error.

NEW-BARTLETT ROW ON LEASES IS BARED

Former Postal Director Defends Self Before Senate Probers.

ST. PAUL CASE TALKED

careful, painstaking and conscientious scrutiny than did the contracts for those buildings entered into during my administration."

Made Through Bureau.

"Every one of these contracts in my day, without a single exception," he said, "was made through Mr. Bartlett's bureau.

"I note that in the course of testimony he gave your committee,' he said that he was known as 'the Yankee Jew' because of his shrewdness in the conduct of these negotiations.

"His capacity as a trader was one of the numerous things about which Mr. Bartlett prided himself exceedingly. I say now that my recognition of this fact provided the reason why I endured Mr. Bartlett during the six years I was in office."

Dislike Held Notorious.

Mr. New said Mr. Bartlett's dislike of him "was notorious throughout the service."

"He was apparently obsessed with the idea that he ought to be Postmaster General, but I couldn't share his enthusiasm for the other idea that I ought to die in order that there might be a possibility of his serving out my term," he added.

"Except that I resolutely continued to live, I never in any way sought to interfere with the realization of his ambitions. I endured the official relation with him all those years merely because that on the one point of his capacity as a trader I did place confidence.

"I stroked his back on that point until he purred. * * * There was never a single lease made during the entire six years of my service as Postmaster General in which Mr. Bartlett was in any way interfered with or where a single factor or circumstance relating to the case was not fully known to him, and in that I specifically and positively include the case of the St. Paul commercial station lease."

Tells of Vague Rumors.

Declaring he had nothing to do with signing the original St. Paul lease, Mr. New said after he had been in office some time "vague rumors began to reach my ears of suspicious circumstances in connection with it."

He said he sent inspectors to investigate the lease and they reported "they could find not the least evidence of crookedness on the part of anybody."

He added that about this time the late James W. Good, who later became Secretary of War, approached him as attorney for Jacob Kulp, of Chicago, who had taken over the St. Paul lease, and asked for elimination of the cancellation clause in the contract.

"I know that he also talked the whole matter over with Mr. Bartlett," Mr. New said, "and Mr. Bartlett offered no objection to it. It is perfectly absurd to say that I did not consult Mr. Bartlett about this."

Substitute Contract.

Mr. New said he considered Mr. Good's suggestion one that could be "properly given favorable consideration" if the Government would benefit. Under the substitute contract, he continued, the Government saved $17,000.

"Mr. Good never asked me to do anything that I thought open to criticism, or that he did either, for that matter. Both in public and private life I am sure he was an honorable man."

Mr. New testified when Good came to see if a decision had been reached on the contract he sent for Bartlett, but found he was out.

"I suppose I did tell Mr. Trotter (Mr. Bartlett's assistant) to make the memorandum in question (a document introduced in testimony), but the statement I told him to sign Mr. Bartlett's name to it is absolutely untrue, and Mr. Trotter has told you."

Directed Another Probe.

Mr. New said he had never heard the subject of campaign contributions mentioned in connection with postal leases. It would not have made any difference, he added.

When the grand jury reported indications of fraud in the lease, Mr. New said he immediately stopped rental payments with the "deliberate purpose of forcing the whole matter into court." He said he also directed another investigation of the lease.

"I had no more idea of forestalling grand jury action than the man on Mars," he testified.

of Idaho, joined with the Democrats on the finance committee in defeating amendments or substitution.

On the motion of Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, to report the House bill without change, the following roll call resulted:

Substitute Proposed.

Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, proposed a substitute to allow cash payments of $150 to veterans who are actually in distress, to be charged against their certificates without interest. This lost, 9 to 8, with Chairman Smoot and Senators Watson, Reed, Shortridge, Keyes and Bingham, of the Republicans, supporting it. King was the lone Democrat to join Walsh for this measure.

Senator King's motion to restrict the loans to those actually in need was defeated, 10 to 7. Reed proposed to limit the relief to the veterans who already have borrowed. This lost, 12 to 5.

The entire meeting of the finance committee lasted little more than an hour and a half.

Less than 20 minutes was required to report the bill.

Mills said the Treasury at the regular March 15 quarter would engage in a financial operation of $1,600,000,000, of which $1,100,000,000 would be for refunding and $500,000,000 would be for new money for the Treasury.

President Hoover in his letter which was taken to the Capitol early in the day by Lawrence Richey, one of his secretaries, said, in this connection:

Misunderstanding In Proposal.

"There seems to be a misunderstanding in the proposal that the Government securities already lodged with the Treasury to the amount of over $700,000,000 as reserve against these certificates, constitute available cash to meet this potential liability. The cash required by the veterans can only be secured by the sale of these securities to the public.

"The legislation is defective in that this $700,000,000 of Government securities is wholly inadequate to meet either a potential liability of $1,280,000,000 or of approximately $1,000,000,000 estimated as possible by the administrator of veterans affairs, and provision would need to be made at once for this deficiency.

"The one appealing argument for this legislation is for veterans in distress. The welfare of the veterans as a class is inseparable from that of the country. Placing a strain on the savings needed for rehabilitation of employment by a measure which calls upon the Government for a vast sum beyond the call of distress and so adversely affecting our general situation will in my view not only nullify the benefits to the veterans but inflict injury to the country as a whole."

certificates totals about $325,000,000.

Gen. Hines believes that, unless economic conditions improve soon, 2,550,000 veterans will take advantage of the legislation which seems about to become law and ask for the more liberal loans.

Not counting the $325,000,000 that already has been loaned, he says, this would call for an outlay of about $1,000,000,000.

Gen. Hines expects that the first week after the passage of the bill will see the greatest rush for loans.

"We are ready," Gen. Hines said. "Once the bill becomes a law, the Veterans Bureau will start to function under the new provisions. The machinery is ready; it only needs expanding."

In pointing out the need of additional employes in the event the bill becomes a law, Gen. Hines declared that the Veterans Bureau already is swamped with loan applications. In January, he said, the amount of money loaned out was $21,000,000, which was $13,000,000 more than had been loaned out in December. This was due to the fact that a large number of certificates became two years old in January, and also to the fact that many veterans took out a second loan on the increased value of the certificate.

In order to handle this rush of work, 250 additional employes were put to work here and in the regional offices.

Prices Are Higher On Federal Bonds

Strength Develops After Decline Following Bonus Legislation.

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—United States Government securities which have been moving lower in recent sessions of the New York Stock Exchange, gave a display of strength in the late trading today. Long term Treasury issues closed $2.50 higher on the average.

Trading was active in the final hour, and the volume of transactions in the long term Treasury issues totaled more than $500,000, a fair volume for this market. Liberty bonds improved slightly.

Traders were somewhat puzzled by the action of the Government securities, since they have recently tended to decline with the progress of the compromise soldier bonus measure in Congress, and today's upturn came after the favorable report by the Senate finance committee on the bill, which bankers feel will necessitate a large Government bond offering.

It was pointed out, however, that because of the light volume of trading in these issues in the stock exchange's bond division—they are traded mostly "over the counter"—it is difficult to trace the causes of short term fluctuations in the price trend. An easier tone in the money market may have been a factor.

Substitute Relief Bill Is Submitted

Doak Would Ban Measure of Wagner, Taking Out One Provision.

(Associated Press.)

A substitute proposed by Secretary Doak for the Wagner employment bill, eliminating provision for Federal aid to States for employment offices, was submitted yesterday to the House judiciary committee.

Chairman Graham announced he would attempt to substitute the Doak suggestion for the measure by Senator Wagner (Democrat), of New York, after Assistant Secretary White, of Labor, was heard in closed session.

Mr. White read a letter from Mr. Doak saying it had been "strongly suggested" that the method of Federal and State cooperation proposed by Mr. Wagner "would threaten an improper centralization of Federal bureaucratic centralization through the seductive influence of Federal aid."

DEADLOCK BROKEN ON MUSCLE SHOALS

Conferees Reach Agreement Through Compromise on Leasing.

HOOVER'S VETO FEARED

(Associated Press.)

The 10-year-old deadlock between the House and Senate over Muscle Shoals legislation was broken yesterday, but many congressional leaders were apprehensive that the compromise agreement faced a veto by President Hoover if approved by Congress.

The bill which emerged yesterday from the conference committee after a year of negotiations provides for Government operation of the power plant at Mucsle Shoals, Ala., and lease of the nitrate plants to private interests if possible.

If the nitrate plants are not leased within a year after the bill passes they would be operated by the Government for experimental production of fertilizer.

The measure also provides for Government construction of transmission lines to distribute power from Wilson Dam, completion of the steam power plant and construction of the Cove Creek Dam, on the Clinch River, in Tennessee.

May Prevent Enactmnet.

The provision for Government construction of transmission lines is the controversial point which advocates of the measure fear may prevent its final enactment.

One congressional leader who has talked frequently with President Hoover on Muscle Shoals legislation said: "There is not one chance in a million that he will sign this bill."

He predicted a veto, which would throw the issue back into the next Congress and into the 1932 presidential campaign.

The conference report will be submitted to the House today. Leaders plan to bring it up tomorrow.

Early congressional approval of the bill was predicted. Chairman Snell, of the House rules committee, indicated it would be passed by the House and Senate leaders said it would meet little opposition on their side of the Capitol.

No Trouble Seen in Senate.

"It will be brought up in the Senate as soon as it passes the House," Chairman McNary, of the Senate conferees said.

The assistant Republican leader added that with the Senate up to date on consideration of appropriation bills there would be no trouble in obtaining consideration.

The settlement came as a surprise to leaders in both Houses, as the conferees had apparently reached an impasse after having thrown out an agreement two months ago.

All three Senate conferees, Senators McNary, Norris (Republican), Nebraska, and Smith (Democrat), South Carolina, signed the report. Three of the five House conferees also signed. They were Representatives Wurzback (Republican, Texas; Quin (Democrat), Mississippi, and Fisher (Democrat), Tennessee. Representative Ransley (Republican), Pennsylvania, refused to sign and Representative Reece (Republican), Tennessee, said he would decide before the report was submitted today whether to concur.

Elements in Leasing.

The agreement was based on a compromise plan for leasing the nitrate plants under which the lessee would be allowed to purchase for manufacturing electro-chemical products off the Government reservation 15 per cent of the power he used for manufacture of fertilizer at the Government plants.

Senator Norris, author of the original Senate bill for Government operation of the $150,000,000 plants, explained the bill would eventually provide between 400,000 and 500,000 primary horsepower at Wilson Dam.

He said construction of the Cove Creek Dam at an estimated cost of $35,000,000 would provide three major benefits. First, he said, it would go a long way toward controlling the flood waters of the Mississippi; second, go a long way toward making the Tennessee River navigable, and third, make it possible to develop the full capacity of power at Wilson Dam.

Norris said the benefits of the Cove Creek Dam to Chattanooga alone would pay for the cost of its construction.

RELIEF FUND GROUP MEETS AGAIN TODAY

$8,000,000 Tentative Sum Considered by Hyde in Credit Measure.

(Associated Press.)

Discussion at Secretary Hyde's conference yesterday with intermediate credit bank officials on the portion of the $20,000,000 relief fund to be used in developing agricultural credit corporations centered about the tentative sum of $8,000,000.

The balance under this suggested division would be used for individual loans for crop production, including funds for food and clothing where security is available.

Following the meeting the Secretary emphasized that no definite action had been taken and that it probably would be several days before a conclusion was reached. The group will meet again today.

As to Government participation in the total capital structure of the credit corporation, the conference discussion ranged around a possible portion of 50 per cent.

Col. Hodges Reports.

Col. Campbell B. Hodges, military aid to President Hoover, reported to him yesterday that a survey of drought areas disclosed the National Red Cross work was being efficiently administered.

Col. Hodges, accompanied by Oliver S. Wood and Capt. Lewis A. Pick, returned yesterday from a survey in Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas. Col. Hodges made the survey at the request of President Hoover. Adequate relief, he said, is extended to those in need of food and clothing and due precaution is being taken to prevent imposition by those not really in need.

"Unfortunately," he said, "there are a sufficient number of this last class to make careful inquiry necessary, but the help is given first on an emergency basis and the inquiry made afterward."

Loath to Ask Help.

One of the difficulties facing the Red Cross, Col. Hodges found, is that some people are very loath to ask for help and in some cases accept aid only after the Red Cross has called on them and insisted they do so.

"Cash grants for relief have been made in every county where distress exists. These grants are ample to supply adequate relief, and the local Red Cross chapters are attending to their part of the job in a very thorough and conscientious manner, with very few exceptions—and those exceptions are on the side of lack of care to prevent abuse.

"Quite a number of people who are habitually improvident and always live very poorly are better off with the Red Cross relief than they are accustomed to.

"With the opening up of farm work and the reestablishment of farm credit, the task of the Red Cross should be materially reduced within the next month."

LEGGE SEES FARM HELP BY EMBARGO

BURTNESS BILL BACKED

(Associated Press.)

Legislation to aid the American farmer against the importation of cheap commodities from abroad was urged yesterday by Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board.

Appearing before the House ways and means committee in behalf of the Burtness bill for a twelve-month embargo on wheat, feed grains and other products, Mr. Legge said he thought the legislation would be helpful to the producer and to the Farm Board.

"Anything showing interest in the agricultural producer would be helpful," the chairman said. "He needs a little encouragement about as much as he needs money right now."

Mr. Legge said: "It is immaterial to us whether the relief is by embargo, a tariff increase, or a change in the Tariff Commission's procedure.

"The flexible provision is inoperative on agricultural products. The farmers don't keep costs and at the time the relief is needed, as in the present depression, costs don't cut much figure anyhow."

The bill by Representative Burtness (Republican), North Dakota, was said by the author in a statement before the committee to include wheat and wheat flour, feed grains, butter and butter substitutes, dried beans, eggs in various forms and palm oil.

Mr. Legge approved the list, but said agricultural interests might want other commodities such as wool and flax included. Earlier in the day, Secretary Mellon, in a letter to Chairman Hawley, of the committee, declined to take any position on the measure.

"The department deems it inappropriate to comment on the wisdom of the policy of enacting such a law," Mr. Mellon wrote, after stating that the "Treasury perceives no difficulty to be involved in the enforcement of the prohibition of the articles mentioned in the bill."

The Treasury head said, however, certain sections of the tariff law would be made wholly or partially inoperative should the Burtness embargo be passed without amendments.

10 Minnesota Men Offered for Bench

Senator Schall Submits List for Judgeship at Request of Hoover.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Schall yesterday submitted a list of ten men to President Hoover for possible appointment as Federal judge in Minnesota.

This was in response to a request from the Chief Executive, who joined with Attorney General Mitchell in declining to approve the Minnesota Republican's previous candidate—Ernest Michel.

Mr. Mitchell, a Minnesotan, intimates Senator Schall was backing Mr. Michel for political purposes.

In a letter yesterday to President Hoover, the Minnesota senator said he "was exceedingly sorry" that Mr. Michel "is denied a chance to answer the unjust charge made against him by the Attorney General."

"Realizing, however," he added, "that Minnesota needs a judge, and in compliance with your request I am herewith submitting the names of ten lawyers for the position of Federal judge in Minnesota."

Hoover Vetoes Indian Bill Favored by Hurley

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover and his Secretary of War, Patrick Hurley, of Oklahoma, may agree completely on matters of national defense, but yesterday they, unwittingly, were far apart on an Indian matter.

Just eighteen years ago Secretary Hurley was national attorney for the Choctaw Indian tribe and was instrumental in securing the introduction of legislation designed to allow payment to the Choctaws for certain land in Oklahoma. The Congress now in session finally got around to passing it. President Hoover yesterday vetoed the bill.

Farm Population Raised By Back to Land Trend

(Associated Press.)

A farmward trek which increased the agrarian population in 1930 for the first time in ten years was attributed yesterday by the Department of Agriculture to the industrial employment situation.

The number who left farms for towns and cities in 1930 was 1,543,000 compared with 1,876,000 in 1929 and a peak movement of 2,155,000 in 1926.

Last year 1,392,000 persons moved from cities to farms—the largest number since 1924, when a peak of 1,396,000 was reached.

The department estimated that the total farm population as of January 1 was 27,430,000 as compared with 27,222,000 a year ago.

the total cash which might be required to be raised by the Treasury is about $1,280,000,000 if all should apply. The administrator of veterans' affairs informs me by the attached letter that he estimates that if present conditions continue then 75 per cent of the veterans may be expected to claim the loans, or a sum of approximately $1,000,000,000 will need to be raised by the Treasury.

Foregoes Listing Objections.

I will not undertake to enumerate all of the grounds for objections to this proposal. There are a number of most serious objections, some of which are matters of method and some of which are matters of fundamental principle affecting the future of our country and the service men themselves.

I have supported, and the Nation should maintain, the important principle that when men have been called into jeopardy of their very lives in protection of the Nation, then the Nation, as a whole, incurs a special obligation beyond that to any other groups of its citizens. These obligations can not be wholly met with dollars and cents. But good faith and gratitude require that protection be given to them when in ill health, distress and in need. Over 700,000 World War veterans or their dependents are today receiving monthly allowances for these reasons. The country should not be called upon, however, either directly or indirectly, to support or make loans to those who can by their own efforts support themselves.

By far the largest part of the huge sum proposed in this bill is to be available to those who are not in distress.

Sensitive Situation Mentioned.

The acute depression and unemployment create a situation of unusual economic sensitiveness, much more easily disturbed at this time than in normal times by the consequences of this legislation, and such action may quite well result in a prolongation of this period of unemployment and suffering in which veterans will themselves suffer with others.

By our expansion of public construction for assistance to unemployment and other relief measures, we have imposed upon ourselves a deficit in this fiscal year of upwards of $500,000,000 which must be obtained by issue of certificates to the investing public. This bill may possibly require the securing of a further billion of money likewise from the public. Beyond this, the Government is faced with a billion dollars of early maturities of outstanding debts which must be refunded aside from constant renewals of a very large amount of temporary Treasury obligations. The additional burdens of this project can not but have damaging effect at a time when all effort should be for the rehabilitation of employment through resumption of commerce and industry.

There seems to be a misunderstanding in the proposal that the Government securities already lodged with the Treasury to the amount of over $700,000,000 as reserve against these certificates constitute available cash to meet this potential liability. The cash required by the veterans can only be secured by the sale of these securities to the public.

Defect Pointed Out.

The legislation is defective in that this $700,000,000 of Government securities is wholly inadequate to meet either a potential liability of $1,280,000,000 or approximately $1,000,000,000 estimated as possible by the administrator of veterans' affairs, and provision would need to be made at once for this deficiency.

The one appealing argument for this legislation is for veterans in distress. The welfare of the veterans as a class is inseparable from that of the country. Placing a strain on the savings needed for rehabilitation of employment by a measure which calls upon the Government for a vast sum beyond the call of distress, and so adversely affecting our general situation, will, in my view, not only nullify the benefits to the veteran but inflict injury to the country as a whole."

SENATE BODY TURNS DOWN NIAGARA PACT

Canadian Treaty Rejected Because Not Linked With St. Lawrence Plan.

POWER DEAL UNCOVERED

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Coincident with President Hoover's plans for the appointment of a commission to join with a similar Canadian agency to deal with the long-pending St. Lawrence waterways' project, the Senate foreign relations committee yesterday unanimously rejected the treaty with Canada looking to the scenic preservation of Niagara Falls.

The two projects are indirectly related because the motivating influence in the committee was the opposition of Northwestern senators to what they termed piece-meal treaties on these kindred subjects. In other words, they want a treaty embracing both the St. Lawrence project and the Niagara Falls project, or at least treaties on them at the same time.

Because of their attitude the Niagara treaty has been held up in the committee for about two years. The stated reason for turning it down yesterday was that it contained a clause whereby the power companies would get $5,000,000 worth of waterpower for the 7-year period that the treaty was in effect.

Power For Work.

Under the terms of the treaty, power companies were to handle the engineering work involved in the spreading of the water over the falls, with a view to preserving its scenic effect. The cost of this work, it was testified by Brig. Gen. George B. Pillsbury, assistant chief of Army engineers, would be $1,750,000, to be divided equally between the two governments.

And for doing it, it was developed before the committee, power companies in both countries were to receive waterpower rights amounting to $5,000,000 each.

As a result of Mr. Pillsbury's testimony, which was taken a week ago, the committee said yesterday that it felt that the Government should do its own engineering work and keep the waterpower project separate from the proposition of preserving the falls.

Story Behind Project.

There is, however, quite a story behind the waterpower development. The original opposition to the treaty, as has been said, came from the Northwest senators, who felt that by holding it up they would have a better chance of getting the St. Lawrence treaty.

When a slice fell out of the falls recently there was considerable criticism of the committee for holding up the treaty. Had the committee acted upon the treaty, it was said, the erosion would have been stopped.

Just about this time, too, Premier Bennett came here on a good-will visit. This and the criticism that the committee was responsible for the breaking away of a chunk of the falls rather served to force the treaty out for an airing.

Shipstead Uncovers Plan.

And when it came out there developed some talk about water-power rights and concessions, but there was nothing tangible on the subject. But Senator Shipstead, of Minnesota, conceived the idea of having Gen. Pillsbury down. He put his finger right on what the Northwest senators wanted, the water-power gentleman in the woodpile, so to speak.

Of course, now that the treaty has been rejected, there remains the question of whether it will facilitate the St. Lawrence treaty, or react against it.

Mr. Hoover's plans to appoint a commission grew out of his conferences with Premier Bennett. It is understood that his plan is to appoint former Secretary of State Kellogg chairman, if the latter can be spared from the World Court, and if Kellogg is not available, former Senator Henry Allen will be named. Mr. Allen is to serve on the commission at any rate. Both he and Mr. Kellogg are well acquainted with the St. Lawrence project, Kellogg, in his capacity as Secretary of State, and Allen served as the head of some agency set up to promote the project.

Overman Is Honored In Tribute of Senate

With services attended by the widow and other members of the family, tribute was paid in the Senate yesterday to the late Senator Lee S. Overman, of North Carolina, who served his State in that body for nearly 30 years.

Senator Morris, appointed to serve out the remainder of his term, paid a brief personal tribute and then read a message from Senator Simmons who was unable to attend because of illness. Mr. Simmons' message said that "No man in my day has been better loved in this chamber." Democratic Leader Robinson, also paid tribute.

SECOND DEFICIENCY MEASURE REPORTED

Bill Carries $5,500,000 for District and Federal Projects Here.

SALARY RAISES COVERED

More than $5,500,000 for the District government and for Federal projects within the District, is provided in the second deficiency appropriation bill, which was reported to the House yesterday by Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), Indiana, chairman of the House appropriations committee.

The measure carried a total of $59,106,419.21, which was $933,652.43 less than the amount recommended by the Budget Bureau in estimates submitted to the House.

The largest item in the bill, of especial interest to Washington, was $2,500,000 for an addition to the City Postoffice.

Salary increases, to conform to the Brookhart act, accounted for $2,000,031 of the total carried in the bill, while $866,617.56 was provided for various municipal activities and debts and more than $1,000,000 was provided for public buildings and parks under the administration of Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, officer in charge of public buildings and grounds.

Monument to Be Lighted.

The sum of $15,000 was included in the bill to provide for the adequate lighting of the Washington Monument at night. Complaint has been made recently that the Monument is a dangerous night hazard to fliers.

Most of the total carried in the bill for the District government went for salaries for the Police and Fire Departments, $353,900 being provided for police and $225,600 for the fire department salaries. Pay of these departments was increased by a special act after the last annual District appropriation bill had been framed. The park police were given $15,900 for salaries for the same reason.

Salaries of civilian District employes in conformance with the Brookhart act, called for $263,900, which was provided in the bill.

For Bicentennial Body.

The Bicentennial Commission was given $77,000; the District supreme court $118,317.40; public buildings and grounds got $239,072 for general expenses, of which $150,000 is for rent and $17,475 for maintenance of the old Commerce Department building which is to be occupied by the War Department when vacated by the Commerce Department; $9,000 for rent of quarters for the Radio Commission, $47,597 for other rentals, $13,100 for a police force to patrol the Mount Vernon boulevard, and $750,000 for construction of a central heating plant for the entire Potomac group of buildings north of B street and west of Seventeenth street northwest, to replace the present temporary plant now located on the square which is to be used as the site for an annex to the Pan American Union Building annex.

The bill also provided for increasing cost limits for the Department of Agriculture group, Coast Guard Building, Department of Justice Building, and new water mains for the new Government buildings. It brings to $83,518,741 the total of projects charged against the $150,000,000 Federal building authorization in Washington.

Veterans Are Remembered.

Of the total carried in the bill, $23,668,000 is for various activities for the benefit of war veterans, and of this amount the greater part was for increased disability allowances.

Other projects provided for in the bill included $2,500,000 for roads and trails in national parks; $300,000 for the bureau of industrial alcohol; $1,270,000 for fighting forest fires; $1,900,000 for expansion of Federal prisons and other large items for specific prison projects; $2,200,000 for beginning work on the new dirigible base at Sunnyvale, Calif., and $3,000,000 for air mail.

Daugherty's Bank Records Correct

State Witness in Trial of Financier Admits Proper Condition.

Washington Court House, Ohio, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Testimony that the records of the Ohio State Bank were kept in proper form despite alleged illegal manipulation was given by a State witness under cross-examination in the trial of Mal S. Daugherty here today.

Daugherty, brother of former United States Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, is charged with responsibility for the bank's failure on May 12, 1929, when he was its president.

The statement as to the condition of the bank's books was made by Cecil Hall, State investigator, after he had identified additional evidence by which the State hopes to prove that Daugherty abstracted funds.

American Engineer Calls Soviet Conditions Terrible

P. J. Harty, Back From Russia, Says Labor There Is Either Convict or Forced; Arrives Here for Hearing on Williamson Bill.

Conditions in Russia today are terrible, with all labor either convict or forced, declared P. J. Harty, of Newark, N. J., upon arriving here last night in the hope of testifying before the House ways and means committee this morning in its hearing on the Williamson bill.

Mr. Harty, an American mechanical engineer who just returned from Russia after severing his connection in supervising operations in various steel mills there, said he wished to be allowed to speak as a vigorous proponent of the bill, which seeks to place an embargo on Soviet products.

With him here is Arthur A. Kopman, of New York City, who intends to give the committee valuable first-hand information on Russia to supplement data he gave the Fish committee and Treasury Department investigators. Mr. Kopman, Russian-born of American parents, was imprisoned from 1925 to 1928 in lumber camps in the Ural Mountains by the Soviet until his release by demand of the British.

Just back from Russia, indignant at the treatment given him there, Mr. Harty asserted that bread lines are everywhere, and that they are exceeded only by the lines obtaining vodka, the potent liquor.

"Conditions are fierce," he said. "I have witnessed men drop senseless to the floor in steel mills from lack of nourishment. The food they put out is worse than we serve to pigs. There are millions in rags. Stalin is the whole deck, and the deck is stacked against them."

"All labor is conscript or convict, and all the products they are trying to dump into the United States, including manganese, coal, lumber, gold, refined oil and other products, come from these sources.

"Soviet Russia figures she can surpass the United States in five years, but if their five-year plan really succeeds, God have mercy on us.

"So far as I could learn, the Communist party is not gaining in numbers there except among the youth. Their future strength lies in the babies, for they know they can instill their teachings in the little ones and that the nation will be increasingly Communist as the old ones die off.

"I challenge any one to contradict these facts. The only persons over here telling wonderful stories about Soviet Russia, all have special interests over there are going back there to work."

Mr. Harty identified himself also as a former light-heavyweight boxing champion of the Knights of Columbus in this country for two years.

District Fund Bill Now in Conference

Prompt Agreement Seen as Senate-House Group Gets Measure.

The annual District appropriation bill, carrying $45,890,900 as passed by the Senate, was sent to conference between the two Houses yesterday with prospects for a prompt agreement and final enactment.

Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connecticut; Senator Lawrence Phipps (Republican), Colorado; Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas; Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), Virginia, and Senator John B. Kendrick (Democrat), Wyoming, are the Senate conference committee.

Representative Robert B. Simmons (Republican), Nebraska, chairman of the District appropriations subcommittee, heads the House conferees which includes the entire membership of the House subcommittee on District appropriations. Other members are Representatives William P. Holaday (Republican), Illinois; Maurice H. Thatcher (Republican), Kentucky; Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, and Ross A. Collins (Democrat), Mississippi. The bill as passed by the Senate carried increases amounting to $200,000 more than was provided in the bill as passed by the House.

Storie Ask Quiz on Bill Citing 'Pay Roll Racket'

(Associated Press.)

Representative Stone, defeated Oklahoma Republican, yesterday renewed his efforts to get action this session on his bill to prevent what he termed the "pay roll racket" of members of Congress and Government officials.

In a letter to Chairman Williamson of the House expenditures committee, he urged hearings on his bill which strikes at the employment of relatives by members of Congress. He said he could produce information that would startle the country as to the number of relatives on the Government pay roll.

Hoover Aid Asked On Silver Problem

Requested to Seek Nations' Cooperation in Effecting Stabilization.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate foreign relations committee yesterday approved a resolution to ask President Hoover to enter negotiations with other countries looking toward stabilization of silver prices. The chief purpose of the measure is to seek a suspension of Great Britain's policy of dumping silver from India on the world market.

It suggests that President Hoover negotiate with other governments to obtain suspension of their policy of debasing silver coins and selling the product on the world market.

It also suggests the President call an international conference to reach an agreement on the use of silver as money.

The resolution was recommended in slightly different form by a subcommittee after nearly a year's investigation. It regarded suspension of the dumping of silver from India as an emergency measure and the international conference as a long range program for stabilizing silver prices.

Equity Association Probe to Be Asked

Charged With Opposing Extradition of Man Held in Marlboro.

Concord, N. H., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Assistant Attorney General Winthrop Wadleigh said today that his office would ask the Federal Department of Justice to investigate the American Equity Association, of Washington. The association had protested the extradition here from Maryland of Henry H. Hobbs, of Haverhill, Mass., under sentence of 10 to 15 years for a statutory charge, who escaped from the State hospital here.

The Attorney General's office claimed, Wadleigh said, that the association took money from Hobbs for alleged legal services. Wadleigh also made public today a copy of a letter of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, who was asked by the association to order the extradition of Hobbs. Ritchie announced he would take no such action. Hobbs was captured in southern Maryland a few days ago.

Henry H. Hobbs was captured on the Providence Hospital farm here ten days ago when Chief Deputy Sheriff Thomas Garrison, of Prince Georges County, arrested him at the point of a pistol. Hobbs was taken to Marlboro for safe-keeping, and was turned over to New Hampshire police the following day.

FRANCE VOTES CASH FOR NEW WARSHIPS

HOPE FOR 'HOLIDAY' FELT

Paris, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—The Chamber of Deputies voted the 1931-32 naval budget in the record time of three hours today, with little opposition to the government's figures. The speed with which the measure was carried was interpreted generally as meaning that the French Parliament had reached the end of naval limitation as far as the 1931-32 program was concerned.

This program, which devotes approximately $39,000,000 to new construction, provides for beginning work on about 42,000 tons. Of this total, 23,333 would be devoted to one battle cruiser. There would be another light cruiser of 7,000 tons, two submarines of 2,800 and 2,500 tons and some lighter construction.

Agreement Held Near.

The whole appropriation for naval needs totals about $123,000,000.

Charles Dumont, minister of marine, refrained from specifying the actual construction schedule. He explained that he did not want to hamper conversations between France and Italy. This caused some to conclude the two countries might be nearer agreement than had been thought.

American naval policy was mentioned once in today's debate when Deputy Edouard Bussat asked: "Why should the United States insist upon a fleet as powerful as that of England while both countries refuse France capital ships, granting only submarines and light cruisers?"

Italy Ready for Race.

Rome, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Italy may go back to her "ton for ton, gun for gun" building program. Official quarters indicated tonight, as the result of the French chamber's voting today for $39,000,000 in new naval construction.

This nation has been ready for some time to resume the Franco-Italian naval holiday, it was said, but now may be forced to build up.

At the same time there is a hope France may find the need for cooperation in naval and other questions will outweigh her immediate need for more war craft. Italians feel there is still some slight chance of an amicable limitation agreement.

British Actress, Homesick, Quits Role With John Gilbert

Edna Best Is Speeding to Husband in New York From Hollywood.

EDNA BEST.

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Edna Best, nostalgic English actress, sped toward New York on a fast train tonight to the husband for whom she left the films flat.

"It's perfectly true my wife has run away from Hollywood," said Herbert Marshall, who is playing in the Broadway stage success, "Tomorrow and Tomorrow."

"She got homesick ten days ago and asked one of the film company executives to relieve her of her contract. He induced her to remain, but last Sunday she couldn't stand it any longer and told her maid to pack up."

Turning her back on what the cinema world said was her "big chance," Miss Best boarded a train, leaving John Gilbert waiting at a camera and a frenzied director doing things to his hair. Her place in the picture "Cheri-Bebi," in which she was to have starred, was taken by Leila Hyams.

"Please forgive me," she telegraphed to the director when her train made a stop at Needles, Calif. "I am awfully homesick and besides I am just afraid I wouldn't be any good in the picture."

Marshall said he expected her to arrive Friday. They were married three years ago when both were playing in "The High Road."

SOCIETIES URGE CUT IN ALL IMMIGRATION

Bill Restricting Philippine Quotas Is Indorsed at Meeting Here.

ALIEN OUSTING BACKED

Proposed legislation restricting quotas on immigration from the Philippines for two years, and providing for a 90 per cent reduction on all immigration for the same period, was indorsed yesterday by the advisory board of the American Coalition of Patriotic Societies, in a meeting at the Carlton Hotel.

The first bill was introduced by Representative Free, of California, and the second by Representative Jenkins, of Ohio. Both have been favorably reported by the House committee on immigration.

Delegates of the patriotic societies held the view that temporary drastic restrictions on immigration are vitally necessary to "prevent the spread of unemployment" in the United States. The Jenkins bill would reduce the annual immigration by about 168,000 yearly, its backers state.

The meeting also indorsed the bill introduced by Representative Albert Johnson, chairman of the House committee on immigration, providing for the deportation of alien criminals, who have been sentenced to prison terms exceeding one year, and imposing penalties on aliens illegally in the country for continued residence.

Another resolution was adopted urging Congress to appropriate sufficient funds to build the Navy up to the limit permitted by the London naval treaty.

BLAINE PLEADS REAL MEASURES' PASSAGE

Bills Affecting City Are Viewed as Assisting Law Observance.

ONE OF TWO IS OPPOSED

Enactment of his bill governing foreclosure of mortgages and that providing for licensing of real estate operators in the District will do much to eliminate existing dificiencies in District laws—Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, said yesterday.

Senator Blaine announced his purpose to seek enactment of his foreclosure measure, which was one of two favorably reported to the Senate yesterday after months of consideration by the District committee subcommittee of which he is chairman.

The second measure reported to the Senate was the Blaine "blue-sky" securities bill. It would prohibit sale of securities in Washington until the worth of the securities had been passed on officially.

This measure is strongly opposed by national investment bankers and local interests and their opposition is strong enough to justify the prediction that it will not be enacted at this session of Congress. The Blaine measure is in contrast to the Capper measure which would base regulation on licensing of those offering securities for sale.

Senator Blaine cited many episodes in recent Washington history to show need for remedial legislation, and declared that several criminal indictments had been handed down as a result of the investigations and hearings held by his subcommittee.

Recurrence of the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey bankruptcy, Senator Blaine said, would have been impossible had the mortgage foreclosure bill been a law in the District. The bill would forbid the recorder of deeds to release a deed of trust until there had been presented him cancelled notes releasing the claim and that fact was noted on the margin of the mortgage.

The measure provides for 25-days' notice of foreclosure by the truatee and a 15-day period for redemption.

General Butler To Leave Service

Marine Chief Confirms Report That He Will Go on Lecture Platform.

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler, arriving from Cleveland, Ohio, tonight confirmed the report he would seek to leave the military service of the United States next fall. He plans to ask the Navy Department for retirement in September, he said.

The recent Mussolini incident had nothing to do with his determination, the general explained, but his action is prompted solely by the contract which he has entered into for a series of lectures to be given from October, 1931, to May, 1932.

He said some Washington officials were aware of his intention to retire and he believed no opposition would develop.

tion of whether or not Smith shall retain office.

Davis, on behalf of the Senate, will file quo warranto proceedings in the District of Columbia Supreme Court to test Smith's right to office.

He will file the suit in the name of Leo A. Rover, local district attorney, as required by law. Rover has agreed to the use of his name, although he will represent the other side of the case. He is under Attorney General Mitchell, who advised President Hoover the Senate's action was not legal.

In selecting Davis, the Senate committee considered many nationally known lawyers, including Chairman Wickersham of the law enforcement commission who was Attorney General under President Taft, and former Senator Pepper, of Pennsylvania.

Wickersham and Pepper said they were not in a position to accept.

HOUSE IS BESIEGED IN KIDNAPING CHASE

California Posse Expects to Get Man Suspected of Concealing Girl.

PHOTOGRAPH HELD CLEW

Los Angeles, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—A posse of police surrounded a ranch house near Lebec, 60 miles north of here, tonight, expecting within a few hours to arrest a man suspected of kidnaping Virginia Brooks, 10-year-old San Diego schoolgirl, who has been missing a week.

The posse was sent out hurriedly after a quiet check of clews unearthed here, in Pomona and San Diego. Running down one of the score of reports by citizens that a girl answering Virginia's description had been seen with a man in an automobile on the streets, police were led by an automobile license number to a recently vacated house in Pomona.

A search of the house disclosed a photograph of the suspect and another of John F. Brooks, Virginia's father. Brooks, in San Diego, was unable to explain how the man gained possession of his picture. He said he never had seen the suspect.

From San Diego garagemen police learned the suspect had traded his automobile for another there at about the time the Brooks girl disappeared last Wednesday while en route to school.

Waterman, of 214 Fourth street southeast, a former champion. More than 30 persons entered the contest, which was held at the Mount Pleasant Library building.

The spelling was fast and furious as one contestant after another was eliminated on misspelling one of the tongue-twisting words. Some of those handed out for spelling were: vinaigrette, xylonite, parallelepipedon, flibbertigibbet, barbaroussa, phalangeal, rodomontade, bowdlerize, and catafalque, to mention only a few of the simpler ones.

Group Will Study New Roads in Mall

Planning Commission to Consider Grading at Session Tomorrow.

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission will consider the grading and construction of new roads in the Mall at its monthly meeting tomorrow. Secretary Arthur Hyde, or some other official of the Department of Agriculture, probably will be present to discuss whether part of the $100,000 independent offices appropriation bill may be made available for this work.

Cooperation of the Agricultural Department also is sought to make available the earth that will be excavated for the foundations of the Archives Building, the Department of Labor, the new Postoffice Department, and the Department of Justice. This would be used for filling the cavity in the Mall south of the greenhouses between Twelfth and Fourteenth streets.

The plan of the commission is to have four thoroughfares running the length of the Mall. The south road was recently completed between Fourteenth street and the Smithsonian Institution and another road would be constructed south of the greenhouse, near B street, after the tract is graded.

Possible to See God, Author Says

Dr. H. M. Kallen Addresses Jewish Community Club on 'Unseen Presence.'

Existence of an "unseen presence," which he defined as "God," perceptible to humans only after a complete breakdown of the normal senses, last night was championed by Dr. Horace M. Kallen, author and psychologist, formerly on the Harvard faculty, in an address at the Jewish Community Center.

Dr. Kallen described various formulas used by mystics through the ages in attempting to "see God," from the ascetic practices of Christian saints to the Yoga principle in India. He said it was possible for anyone to become directly aware of this "presence."

Dr. Kallen was brought here by a committee headed by Louis E. Spiegler, as the fourth speaker in the national forum being conducted at the Jewish center.

SINCLAIR REPLIES TO "ALFALFA BILL"

ACCUSATIONS ARE DENIED

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Replying to Gov. Murray's accusation that he was attempting to destroy the Oklahoma crude oil market, Harry F. Sinclair asserted in a statement given out here today that "production figures show that for more than two years the State has been steadily throttled by its own policy."

"Gov. Murray of Oklahoma is quoted in newspapers as accusing me of attempting to destroy the oil market in Oklahoma to serve my own selfish purposes," said Sinclair's statement given out by the New York office of the Sinclair Consolidation Oil Corporation.

"He apparently bases his accusation on the Sinclair company's offer to buy 50,000 barrels of Oklahoma City crude daily at 67 cents a barrel. He asserts that I would wreck the State and its principal industry to accomplish my nefarious designs.

"So far as wrecking the State of Oklahoma and its oil business is concerned, the production figures show that for more than two years the State has been steadily throttled by its own policy.

"This policy of strangulation, promoted at the expense of Oklahoma by those working in their own interest and to the advantage of other fields, is the real source of the trouble. Observing the stubborn adherence to this policy, plainly destructive of the oil industry of the State and fostered by those not interested primarily in Oklahoma, the public will, I am sure, draw its own conclusions as to where and by whom any undue influence has been used."

Mr. Sinclair is en route from Tulsa, Okla., to Los Angeles on a business trip.

1931 Chest Drive Nets $1,936,317

144,931 Contributors Are Listed in Report Audited on February 9.

In a report made yesterday to the board of trustees of the Community Chest, Robert V. Fleming, treasurer of the Chest, disclosed that pledges made by 114,931 contributors during the 1931 drive netted $1,936,317.16, audited as of February 9. Donations to the Red Cross drought relief fund amounted to about $40,000, Mr. Fleming said, taking the Chest $36,000 over its goal of $1,950,154.40.

Elwood Street, director, declared that gifts are still coming to Chest headquarters and while the campaign went over the top, it was because all budgets had been pared to the limit this year. He intimated that the additional contributions might be needed to meet the demands caused by unemployment.

The trustees, who held their meeting in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building, voted to add 31 members to the board. John Poole, president of the Chest, presided at yesterday's meeting.

Error Is Corrected.

In an account of a police liquor raid on a supposedly vacant house on Eleventh street near T street northwest yesterday, The Post incorrectly printed the address as "1938" Eleventh, whereas it should have been an address several houses closer to T street. The Post regrets the error.

careful, painstaking and conscientious scrutiny than did the contracts for those buildings entered into during my administration."

Made Through Bureau.

"Every one of these contracts in my day, without a single exception," he said, "was made through Mr. Bartlett's bureau.

"I note that in the course of testimony he gave your committee," he said that he was known as 'the Yankee Jew' because of his shrewdness in the conduct of these negotiations.

"His capacity as a trader was one of the numerous things about which Mr. Bartlett prided himself exceedingly. I say now that my recognition of this fact provided the reason why I endured Mr. Bartlett during the six years I was in office."

Dislike Held Notorious.

Mr. New said Mr. Bartlett's dislike of him "was notorious throughout the service."

"He was apparently obsessed with the idea that he ought to be Postmaster General, but I couldn't share his enthusiasm for the other idea that I ought to die in order that there might be a possibility of his serving out my term," he added.

"Except that I resolutely continued to live, I never in any way sought to interfere with the realization of his ambitions. I endured the official relation with him all those years merely because that on the one point of his capacity as a trader I did place confidence.

"I stroked his back on that point until he purred. * * * There was never a single lease made during the entire six years of my service as Postmaster General in which Mr. Bartlett was in any way interfered with or where a single factor or circumstance relating to the case was not fully known to him, and in that I specifically and positively include the case of the St. Paul commercial station lease."

Tells of Vague Rumors.

Declaring he had nothing to do with signing the original St. Paul lease, Mr. New said after he had been in office some time "vague rumors began to reach my ears of suspicious circumstances in connection with it."

He said he sent inspectors to investigate the lease and they reported "they could find not the least evidence of crookedness on the part of anybody."

He added that about this time the late James W. Good, who later became Secretary of War, approached him as attorney for Jacob Kulp, of Chicago, who had taken over the St. Paul lease, and asked for elimination of the cancellation clause in the contract.

"I know that he also talked the whole matter over with Mr. Bartlett," Mr. New said, "and Mr. Bartlett offered no objection to it. It is perfectly absurd to say that I did not consult Mr. Bartlett about this."

Substitute Contract.

Mr. New said he considered Mr. Good's suggestion one that could be "properly given favorable consideration" if the Government would benefit. Under the substitute contract, he continued, the Government saved $17,000.

"Mr. Good never asked me to do anything that I thought open to criticism, or that he did either, for that matter. Both in public and private life I am sure he was an honorable man."

Mr. New testified when Good came to see if a decision had been reached on the contract he sent for Bartlett, but found he was out.

"I suppose I did tell Mr. Trotter (Mr. Bartlett's assistant) to make the memorandum in question (a document introduced in testimony), but the statement I told him to sign Mr. Bartlett's name to it is absolutely untrue, and Mr. Trotter has told you."

Directed Another Probe.

Mr. New said he had never heard the subject of campaign contributions mentioned in connection with postal leases. It would not have made any difference, he added.

When the grand jury reported indications of fraud in the lease, Mr. New said he immediately stopped rental payments with the "deliberate purpose of forcing the whole matter into court." He said he also directed another investigation of the lease.

"I had no more idea of forestalling grand jury action than the man on Mars," he testified.

ELLIOT H. GOODWIN IS DEAD IN BOSTON

Official Here in United States Commerce Chamber From 1912 to 1926.

NATIVE OF CAMBRIDGE

Elliot H. Goodwin, 57 years old, a ranking official of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States here from 1912 until 1926, died Sunday night of pneumonia at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, according to word received here yesterday. He had entered the hospital February 1 for an operation, and appeared recovering until pneumonia set in last Friday.

He was widely known as general secretary of the Chamber of Commerce from 1912 to 1920 and as its resident vice president here from 1920 to 1926, when he resigned to return to his old home in Cambridge, Mass. In 1927, Gov. Fuller named him as civil service commissioner, a position he held until his death. He was a man of wide accomplishments and an aggressive leader in civil service reform. In his position he had jurisdiction over one of the largest groups of employes in the Nation.

Born in Cambridge, he received the bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from Harvard and the doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Leipzig. There he gained intimate knowledge of the educational systems of Europe. Upon returning he served for a time as instructor in Harvard University, and then became secretary of the National Civil Service Reform Association. In 1903 when a successor to Dr. Eliot as president of Harvard was being sought, he was prominently mentioned in Washington, New York and the Middle West for the honor.

He had also held positions as assistant secretary to the National Civil Service Reform League and the Civil Service Association of New York for a year and a half.

He is survived by his widow and two children, Katherine Throop Goodwin and Elliot Hersey Goodwin, of Cambridge.

She is survived by three daughters and three sons, Lady Julia Reckitt, of London, England; Mrs. Howard Fisher and Mrs. Dugger, both of Washington; Dr. Lewis A. Conner, Charles Horace Conner and Boudinot Conner, all of New York City.

Y., the son of John L. and Mahala de Lane Merriam, and was educated at Racine College, Racine, Wis., receiving his A. B. degree in 1871. Shortly after graduating he entered business as a clerk in the Merchants National Bank, St. Paul, Minn., of which institution he became president in 1882.

Mr. Merriam was elected a Republican member of the Minnesota House of Representatives and chosen speaker in 1886. In 1889 he was elected Governor of Minesota, serving until 1892.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Laura E. Merriam; two daughters, Mrs. Mabel de Lano Wheelwright, Mrs. James F. Curtis, and two sons, Capt. John H. Merriam and William H. Merriam.

CANCER ENDS LIFE OF LOUIS WOLHEIM

Outstanding Screen Star of Character Roles Dies at Apex of Career.

GRADUATED AT CORNELL

Los Angeles, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—The story of Louis Wolheim has ended. Death came to the great character actor of stage and screen today, closing a life which, if Wolheim had not lived it, might be set down as only an entrancing tale of fiction.

He passed away at the apex of his career after suffering from cancer of the stomach. At the bedside knelt the companion of his life and his only survivor, his widow.

He was 50 years old. His famous portrayals as the "tough guy" in many pictures and stage productions had brought him to the zenith of his life in the world of make believe.

He was born in New York City. He graduated in 1908 from Cornell University with a degree of engineering. His stocky build well befitted him for football and it was during a game in 1904 that the battered nose, which later became famous on stage and screen was first misshapen. School life over, he became an instructor in mathematics at Cornell Preparatory School and followed amateur athletics.

Despite his scarred and glowering countenance he had a tender heart and a host of friends. He began acting after he had been discovered as an instructor of mathematics at Cornell Preparatory School by the actor-director, Lionel Barrymore.

Wolheim achieved his first success in legitimate stage productions. The public will remember him best for his parts in "Two Arabian Knights," "The Tempest," "The Awakening," as Nick Scarsi in "The Racket," Duke in "Frozen Justice," Guillon in "The Wolf Song," Jacques in "Condemned," and Ted in "Ship From Shanghai."

Dome of Museum Jacked Into Place

Slight Shift, Menacing Supporting Columns, Is Overcome.

Under careful scrutiny of scientists of the Bureau of Standards and the Supervising Architect's Office of the Treasury Department, workmen have overcome a condition that for a time threatened serious and possibly dangerous impairment of the columns supporting the huge dome of the National Museum.

The dome, weighing about 6,000,000 pounds, shifted ever so slightly on its foundations and seams in the supporting members were beginning to open. Screw jacks able to exert tremendous pressure and stress gauges with a graduation of .0001 inch were used over a period of several weeks before the conditions were remedied.

By means of the delicate gauges engineers were able to measure the approaching correctness of the work. The operations were so delicate that workmen were permitted to take a slight turn on the screw jacks only once every ten minutes. The museum, built in 1911, is one of the city's show places.

Rites Held for Mother Of Secretary Doak

Bristol, Tenn., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Brief funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Doak, 86, mother of Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, were conducted here today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. F. McCarty. After the services the body was taken to Black Lick, Va., where another service will be held and burial will take place.

Secretary and Mrs. Doak arrived here last night, and planned to return to the Capital tonight. President and Mrs. Hoover and the Japanese Ambassador and Mme. Debuchi were among those sending messages of sympathy.

BATTLEFIELD PARK TO BE DISCUSSED

Pollard, Moore and Bland Among Speakers Today at Fredericksburg.

PLANNED AS MEMORIAL

Fredericksburg, Va., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Representatives of the State and National Governments will be among those attending a meeting here tomorrow for a discusion of plans to stimulate interest in the Fredericksburg and Spotsylvania Battlefield Park.

Principal speakers will include Gov. Pollard, Representative R. Walton Moore, Representative S. Otis Bland and William E. Garson, chairman of the Virginia Conservation and Development Commission.

Others expected are Gen. John L. Dufitt, quartermaster general of the United States Army, retired; Col. U. S. Grant, 3d, commissioner of United States parks; E. T. Stuart, vice president of the Girard Trust Co., Philadelphia; Dr. James Eckenrode, State historian; Representative Lewis C. Cramton, of Michigan; John Stewart Bryan, of Richmond; Dr. Douglas Freeman, Richmond; LaMotte Blakely, Richmond; Former State Senator C. O'Connor Goolrick, Fredericksburg, and Sol Bloom, associated director of the George Washington Bicentennial.

The park embraces an area in which more men were killed and wounded and more troops maneuvered than any other of similar area in the New World.

It is proposed as a memorial to the men who fought on the four battle fields of Fredericksburg, Spotsylvania, the Wilderness and Chancellorsville.

Congress has approved the project at a cost of approximately $1,000,000, and about $115,000 has been appropriated already. Of the total $224,000 appropriated for Virginia battle fields in a Bill which has passed the House of Representatives, and which now is pending final approval before Congress, the Fredericksburg park is to receive $219,000. The Government already has acquired much property within the park area, and when the present appropriation bill passes work will begin on the roads. The Fredericksburg and Spotsylvania battlfield park project has been advanced further than any other in the State.

Sale of Building Brings $100,000

Former Gov. Bartlett Buys Third Structure Here Within Year.

The growing interest of former Gov. John H. Bartlett of New Hampshire in Washington commercial property as an investment again was demonstrated yesterday by public records revealing acquisition by him of a third downtown business building within the last nine months.

This is a three-story brick store and office structure at 940 F street northwest, which he has purchased from Isidore Young at a consideration reported in the neighborhood of $100,000. The Blue Flame Valet Shop and La Paree Shoe Store are located in this building. The sale was handled by the real estate department of the Washington Loan & Trust Co.

Last December his acquisition of the three-story business building at 1338 G street northwest at a consideration of approximately $150,000 was reported.

In June, 1930, announcement was made of the purchase of the three-story brick and stone business building at 1307 F street northwest from Jacob Liebster. The consideration involved in this transaction, concluded by the real estate offices of the Washington Loan & Trust Co. and Shannon & Luchs, Inc., was around $300,000.

Prison Camp Sites In Arlington Seen

Survey Made Preliminary to Building Lee Boulevard Across River.

With plans rapidly shaping for construction of the Lee boulevard from the western portion of the Fort Myer Military Reservation by the State highway department, Maj. L. H. Jones, in charge of prison camps, was in Arlington County yesterday making a survey for a suitable site for a camp for workmen.

Following a conference with Directing Engineer C. L. Kinnier, Maj. Jones, with Resident State Highway Engineer Robert I. Mount, went over a section of the county through which the boulevard will pass. They indicated the camp will be located in the vicinity of Glen Carlyn. The camp will house about 100 men, according to Maj. Jones. This camp, he stated, will not be a new one, as the men who are now in the southwestern section of the State will be moved to Arlington County.

While no definite date as to when the camp will be opened or when actual work on the boulevard will be started, Engineer Mount stated it would be about the first part of March.

Members of the North Beach Park (Md.) Citizens Association held their regular monthly meeting last night at the residence of Mrs. Emma L. Moreland, 1503 Harvard street northwest, when plans for a card party and dance to be given in March were completed.

The members, all of whom are property owners at the bay shore resort, were told at the meeting that a road was soon to be started between North Beach Park and Friendship, another resort three miles from North Beach Park, and that land on which to build the road has been donated by the adjacent property owners.

The card party, it was decided, will be held March 28 at the home of Mrs. C. F. Dickie, 34 Johnson avenue, Hyattsville, Md. The next regular meeting has been announced for March 18, at the home of Miss Ruth Dawn, 617 Allison street northwest. More than 30 members were present.

Dr. Gaines was introduced by Dr. Lucius C. Clark, president of American University. Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, historian, was among the 80 visiting Rotarians from out of town.

AMBULANCE RUSHES BULL OVER BORDER

Injured Barrister, Victim of Narcotic Raid, Is in Windsor Hospital.

SUIT IN CHICAGO IGNORED

Windsor, Ont., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—William Perkins Bull, K. C., Toronto barrister and reputed friend of King George V of England, was in Grace Hospital here tonight, after having been rushed across the border from Coldwater, Mich., where an accident halted his trip from Chicago to Detroit in a taxicab.

Mr. Bull's hurried exit from the United States was the climax of a strange automobile trip across half of Southern Michigan with his physician, an attorney and a group of Chicago newspapermen following his ambulance in taxicabs. Bull was suffering from a fractured hip as a result of yesterday's accident. It was announced tonight that Mr. Bull would remain in the Windsor Hospital for several days' rest before being taken to Toronto.

Mystery Veils Departure.

Considerable mystery surrounded the Canadian barrister's departure from the United States as well as his apparent flight from Chicago yesterday. He was scheduled to appear in a Chicago court today for an injunction hearing. Mr. Bull's departure from the United States appeared to have been facilitated rather than impeded by Federal authorities.

Mr. Bull's Chicago apartment was visited recently by Federal narcotic agents, who also invaded the apartment of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, daughter of the malted milk manufacturer and estranged wife of Dr. John Streeter Sidley. The raids were later said to have been a "mistake."

The injunction action which demanded Mr. Bull's presence in Chicago today was brought by Dr. Sidley to restrain the barrister from allegedly employing private detectives to shadow him.

The taxicab in which Mr. Bull was riding with Berbar Magruder, a vice president of the Horlick Malted Milk Co., was wrecked when it crashed into the rear of a truck on U. S. route 112 near Coldwater. Magruder was hurt, but was able to return to Chicago.

Made King's Adviser.

Bull was taken from the hospital and placed in the ambulance for his trip across the border at 11:30 a. m. today. He is known in Canada as a land promoter as well as a barrister. He and his brothers are close friends of former Premier G. Howard Ferguson.

In 1911 Mr. Bull went to England and promoted a land company there. He became a confidant of King George and was designated as Canadian adviser of the king. He made several trips to London in this capacity and frequently played billiards and cards with the British monarch.

Among those sponsoring the reception are Joseph M. Meade, Edmund F. Cooke, Justice Walter I. McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Husband and Miss M. E. Aiton, principal of the Americanization School.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 18.

Persons engaged in business sustain losses by the theft of goods or automobiles, or the accidental destruction of machinery or other property. As such losses are part of the hazards of a business, they are recognized by the income-tax law as properly deductible from gross income, provided they are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

Deductible losses fall within the three following classes:

(1) If incurred in trade or business; or (2) if incurred in any transaction entered into for profit thereof not connected with the trade or business; or (3) of property not connected with the trade or business, if the loss arises from fires, storms, shipwreck, or other casualty, or from theft.

A person who buys an automobile to be used for business purposes and sells it at a loss has had a deductible loss falling within class 1. The taxpayer's neighbor bought an automobile to be used for pleasure only and sustained a loss when he sold it. As his loss does not fall within any of the three classes indicated, it is not deductible. This taxpayer, however, bought securities and sold them at a loss. Although not engaged in the business of selling and buying securities, his loss is deductible, as it falls within class 2. Another neighbor bought an automobile to be used for pleasure, which was stolen. The loss is deductible, as it falls within class 3. Falling within class 3 also is a loss sustained by a taxpayer whose home is destroyed by fire or whose summer bungalow is damaged by storm.

While losses by theft or burglary are deductible, it must be established that the property—jewelry, for example—actually was stolen. Should circumstances attending the loss leave the owner in doubt as to whether it was stolen, misplaced, or lost from his person, the claim would not be allowed.

CARROLL SHOWGIRLS ON TRIAL IN CHICAGO

32 IN PLAY FACE COURT

Chicago, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—A sketch in the nude of Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" was drawn today by a censor attempting to prove the show is obscene.

The trial of 28 chorines and four principals, begun after Judge Justin F. McCarthy overruled a defense motion to quash the information, hinged from the outset upon one scene in which the chorus dances behind a veil of gauze.

With the giggles of chorus girls supplying a musical setting, Miss Effie Sigler, chairman of the censor board, testified that "the women seemingly were nude."

"The bodies of the dancers," Miss Sigler testified, "were all exposed."

A bathroom scene was also portrayed by the censor. She said the chorine therein was "represented as being nude."

Asked if she could identify any of the chorus girls in court, Miss Sigler said:

"No, I couldn't distinguish them without their makeup on."

Miss Sigler will be cross examined by the defense tomorrow.

The "Sketch Book" was raided last Friday night by police. It has been running since under a judge's order.

MILK PRICE-FIXING DENIED AT INQUIRY

One Company Handles 50 Per Cent in District, Testimony Says.

RIVALS ARE UNDER QUIZ

prices were kept uniform and were fixed by agreement between groups.

Although the stage had been set and he appeared before a sympathetic audience, obviously ready to applaud him in the role of the only worthy independent to stand out against the gobbling of the "trust," Mr. Thompson was extremely careful in what he said about his competitors. His figures agreed with those given by Mr. Brawner earlier. He said that the quality of milk sold in Washington was very high, exceeding by a good margin the 3.5 legal requirement of butter content and this statement was borne out by official reports.

"Yours is an independent company?" asked Senator Capper.

"Yes, sir."

"Has there been an attempt to absorb your company?"

"Yes, sir."

"You turned it down?"

"We turned it down."

"Is it your intention to go on as an independent?"

"That's our intention."

Mr Thompson said that his company supplied about 12 per cent of the fluid milk consumption of the District. Mr. Brawner said that his Chestnut Farms Co. furnished about 35 per cent and with the Chevy Chase Dairy, which had absorbed many smaller companies a while back, the total furnished by the subsidiaries of the National Dairy Products Co. would be about 50 per cent of the total. But, Mr. Brawner said, this was a guess because he had not, as yet checked up the amount distributed by the Chevy Chase Dairy, bought months ago, and which soon would be absorbed formally into his company.

There was agreement that prices to the farmers had not changed in the last three and a half years and Senators Capper and Frazier declared that they wished that conditions were true in their sections of the country and Senator Capper congratulated Mr. McGill for the work he has done for the farmers.

The hearing will be resumed at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Prices of Milk Reduced By Allegany Dairymen

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Feb. 18.—Announcement was made today by the Allegany County Dairymen's Association of the reduction of milk prices from 15 to 13 cents a quart and from 8 to 7 cents a pint, effective March 1.

Milk producers here say that many have operated at a loss at the old price due to the continued drought, drop in milk consumption because of business depression and the fact that practically all dairymen have been forced to buy feed for their herds. Some dairymen have been compelled to haul water all summer for their stock and for use in keeping equipment sanitary.

INJUSTICE TO VETERANS.

Notwithstanding the warning of President Hoover and the Treasury Department, Congress seems to be determined to pass the bonus bill. The President's letter to Senator Smoot is a clear indication that the bill will be vetoed. Unless the mood of Congress should change, the veto will be overridden.

Gen. Hines estimates that the number of veterans in financial distress amounts to 200,000. All of these are entitled to assistance. The number of veterans who would seize the opportunity to borrow on their certificates is estimated at 2,500,000.

The sum which the Treasury must borrow in order to lend to veterans is estimated at $958,625,000. The bonus bill makes no provision whatever for raising this money. Congress apparently intends to saddle this charge upon the Treasury without providing for revenue to meet it.

If the bill should be enacted the Treasury will be compelled to make extraordinary drains upon the country's capital, in addition to the heavy demands that must come on account of refunding operations. The Treasury must borrow $1,600,000,000 within the next four months for refunding purposes and for new money to carry on the Government. The burden of approximately $1,000,000,000 for the veterans' bonus could be carried only by issuing additional bonds.

It is argued that the Government's credit is inexhaustible; that it can float a bond issue of any size at low rates of interest, and that the money borrowed by veterans will immediately circulate and help to stimulate business. But this is a very short-sighted view of the situation that will develop if the bonus bill should become law. The Government can not monopolize the bond market without putting a stop to private and corporate borrowings for industrial purposes. Money that should go into business and increased activities will not be available. Industry will become stagnant and unemployment will not be relieved. The money borrowed by veterans will be spent, without doubt, but it will not be invested in securities whose proceeds would enable varied industries to quicken their operations. No jobs would be created by the bonus bill. Within a few weeks or months the veterans would be without funds, and if they are not provided with work they will be worse off than they are now.

The demoralization of the United States Treasury and the absorption of the country's business money by Government borrowing is not the sensible method of relieving the needs of veterans or anybody else. What the veterans need is work, not borrowed money which must either be repaid or deducted from the veteran's insurance.

It would be astounding, in normal times, to see huge majorities in Congress recklessly bent upon plunging the Government into debt for the purpose of lending money at less than current rates of interest to a selected class of citizens. But these are not normal times, and the proposal is disguised as an urgent and necessary measure intended to relieve the sufferings of the Nation's defenders.

The welfare and prosperity of the country are jeopardized by such legislation. Veterans are not aided when Congress lends them money on their insurance and then deprives them of work. A serious setback to business and industry is to be looked for if this bonus bill should become law in spite of President Hoover.

MUSCLE SHOALS SOCIALISM.

After months of futile disagreement the conferees on the Muscle Shoals bill have affixed their signatures to a document purporting to be a compromise agreement. In reality it is not a compromise, but a flat surrender of the House conferees to the socialistic bloc in the Senate. Their endurance was worn down to a point where they decided to throw the responsibility back upon the membership in the House.

The most important provision in the bill as reported back to the House authorizes the Government to conduct the business of generating and transmitting electric power. The people would be taxed for the construction of a huge dam at Cove Creek and power transmission lines that would compete with private industry. In spite of the fact that the Government is facing a huge deficit, millions of dollars would be required to finance this experiment. During this depression Congress threatens private industry with socialistic competition backed by the taxing powers of the Government.

All that remains of the House bill is a provision that would allow the President to lease the Muscle Shoals nitrate plants. Even this has been so amended that if the President is not able to secure a satisfactory lease in one year, the Government must also enter the business of manufacturing fertilizer. The terms prescribed for the lease will make it difficult for the Government to dispose of these plants on a satisfactory basis.

All of the provisions relating to the nitrate plants themselves are incidental. As this bill stands Muscle Shoals is a power project. It is the wedge which the socialistic bloc headed by Senator Norris is using to promote Government ownership and operation of utilities. This clique was not satisfied to have the Government generate power and sell it at the switch. The measure calls for construction of transmission lines to duplicate expensive systems already in operation. Next year the same bloc will be demanding an appropriation of several millions of dollars for the construction of these lines.

The duty of the House in this matter is plain. The conferees have negotiated an ignominious surrender. The will of the House has been flagrantly ignored. Its membership can not accept the Norris bill without a disgraceful retreat from the position it has formerly taken in defense of the people's rights. If the House fails in this duty, President Hoover may be expected to veto this monstrosity, as did President Coolidge.

IN MEMORY OF SENATOR OVERMAN.

The Senate yesterday afternoon suspended business and conducted services in memory of the late Senator Lee Slater Overman, of North Carolina. Without regard to partisanship senators joined in honoring a mutual friend who has passed on.

Little is heard of the friendships of men in Congress, but much is made of their differences. Yet the disagreements are forgotten and the friendships remain. In the end that statesman who is a genuine friend of his colleagues and faithful to the people makes his name secure. Words may not be convincing, but the example of a truly noble character never fails.

The most impressive monuments that will ever be erected to Senator Overman are the friendships he formed. His kind and thoughtful consideration of every one made him universally loved. The spirit which he kindled in the Senate will be of lasting value even though his name is no longer on the roll.

In his tribute to Mr. Overman Senator Goff referred to the power of friendship in public life. He said:

> Friendship can not be bought or sold by service rendered. It can not be coined into acts of gratitude or obligations. Obviously it plays no part in the small change of daily courtesy. It is outside all of these, but it contains them all and is superior to each and every one of them. Friendship comes unannounced. It bears no letter of introduction. No mutual friend does or can vouch for it. Suddenly and silently it steps unexpectedly out of the shadow of this life into the esteem of intimate association, and that mystic bond of brotherhood that makes all men one, just as a picture is projected on a lighted screen.

It will be a happy day for the Nation when more men of Lee Overman's type are elected to the Senate.

AIR MAIL AND NATIONAL DEFENSE.

Postmaster General Brown's concern over the size of the prospective Postoffice Department deficit goes a long way toward explaining his threat to air mail operators that unless they justify the expenditures for domestic air mail services the Government will withdraw its support. He said further that the "military branches of the Government are not at all enthusiastic about the part that civil aeronautics may play in any preparedness program," and that, since "they speak with some contempt about any aid which might be rendered by those engaged in commercial aviation should the time ever come to call for such assistance, we can not expect any help from these sources."

Army and Navy authorities have denied that the military services "look with some contempt" upon civil aeronautics. Both Admiral Moffett, chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, and F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics, point out that in an emergency the national defense would depend upon civil aviation generally, and the air mail particularly, for mechanics, pilots, flying fields and machines. Commercial aviation, like the merchant marine, has a dual role to perform. While the peace-time task is being carried forward, these agencies are gaining efficiency as a second line of national defense.

It is through the subventions allowed air mail operators that the Government stimulates and sustains, in part, civil aviation. The establishment of the first air mail line marked the turning point in commercial aviation by creating the first sustained demand for the products of American airplane factories. It provided a much-needed stimulus to the improvement of design of planes and engines. The product of that first air mail line is the commercial airways system of today. Its by-product is the increasingly superior airplane that has been and is being turned out of American airplane factories.

While the postal deficit is a matter of general concern, it should not be made an excuse for the abandonment of the air mail service. If the airways were complete and if the American airplane could be regarded as perfected there would be some warrant for requiring commercial aviation to stand upon its own feet. But even then the Government would be required to pay for carrying air mail, as it does for rail or steamship mail service.

The national defense requires airplanes and trained pilots, and they can be most cheaply maintained by Government encouragement of the air mail.

"COWPATH TO PROSPERITY"

From the Wall Street Journal.

"Whatever politicians or professional gloom spreaders tell you, the time-tried, cow-sow-hen-steer type of farming today, such as we practice in the Northwest, is far from being 'deflated' or begging Uncle Sam to play Santa Claus," according to Frederick E. Murphy, of Minneapolis.

Mr. Murphy is a director of the Associated Press, publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune, a practical farmer and breeder of Holstein cattle himself, on a 4,000-acre farm in the Red River Valley. He denies any general farm depression, and presents an array of facts to prove that "good farming with good live stock" is not depressed or seeking political farm relief, but is traveling fast along the "cowpath to prosperity."

"It is only the single-crop farmer," the publisher said, "raising raw materials like feeds, grains, cotton and wheat, who is deflated this year. The prices of live stock, poultry and dairy products are not far out of line with those of the general merchandise that farmers buy.

"This is demonstrated by surveys made by the Department of Agriculture, comparing farm product prices with commodity prices. There was a time when America's golden grain belt was our territory—Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana. That is what built up our flour milling industry. But within the last decade this has become America's 'bread and butter' land. Wheat has long since ceased to be the index of our prosperity.

"Northwestern farmers have found the true solution to the farm problem, not in Washington, but on their own farms. It sums up in six words, 'Good farming with good live stock.' This form of farm relief we all know will work. It has proved itself sound in the testing time of agriculture and business in 1930."

Regarding the Farm Board, Mr. Murphy said:

"Alexander Legge is a good friend of mine, but he and his Farm Board have grabbed a bear by the tail and they can't let go. It will throw them headlong one of these fine days. Pegging the wheat price, even if successful, would never solve the farm problem. It has only one effect. It simply stimulates overproduction of something already overproduced. It is the easiest crop to grow, the most primitive form of farming.

"There is a world surplus of wheat. But America's surplus wheat does not come from the Northwestern spring wheat States. Wheat now is our least important crop in Minnesota. Our 1929 crop brought $21,000,000, our 1930 crop only $12,500,000. Yet Minnesota's egg crop alone brings $40,000,000, eggs and poultry $30,000,000. The barnyard biddy isn't asking for farm relief; she lays her egg and advertises her product.

"The packers paid us $90,000,000 for Minnesota pork, $56,000,000 for cattle and calves. Our potato crop, worth $25,600,000, brings more than wheat; our hay crop, $62,000,000, or about three times that of wheat; our 1930 corn crop is worth $72,000,000. These two great feeding crops are marketed as pork and milk, beefsteak and mutton chops, which turn cheap feeds into high-priced products.

"Our biggest farm cash item is butter, which returns $125,600,000, the largest production of any State or all of Canada. All dairy products total about $200,000,000, nearly ten times the wheat crop that becomes a political football so often. Live stock, dairy and poultry income in Minnesota, cow-sow-hen-steer money, brought $422,500,000 in 1929. Compare that with the world gold production of $410,000,000 a year, to get some idea of its magnitude.

"In our four Northwestern States, from the Mississippi to the Rockies, wheat was worth $178,500,000 in 1929. But the dairying, live stock and poultry income was $807,500,000, or four and one-half times wheat. The dairy cow alone gave us $301,000,000 of new wealth in this old-time 'grain belt.' Her owner is not interested in high wheat prices.

"The good live stock farmer today has buying power still intact, with lower costs than in ten years. He is increasing in numbers every year, changing over to crop rotations, abandoning soil mining and speculative farming, restoring soil fertility with manure, building sound agriculture. Other regions of America might take their cue from our farmers and learn how to milk their way out of debt."

CHANGING AMERICAN MIND.

In the matter of prohibition, says G. K. Chesterton in the London News, the mind of America has undergone a profound and important alteration. The change that has taken place, between now and the time ten years ago when I was first traveling in that country, might be broadly stated thus: Then the strongest enemies of prohibition were the free-and-easy people; the artists, the poets, the people of liberal education, the people in contact with the older culture of Europe, the sculptors, the architects, the authors and such riff-raff. Now the strongest enemies of prohibition are the respectable and responsible people: The judges, the lawyers, the established professional men, the more solid sort of senators and politicians, the bankers, the business men concerned primarily for property and security. In short, prohibition always had for its foes all the friends of liberty. It now has for its even fiercer foes nearly all the friends of legality.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

ABSENCE.

"Not going to the party?" questioned she
And arched her eyebrows in a curious way,
As if to miss the great event would be
A loss of something time could not repay.

"Poor dear, I'm sorry for you," she went on,
"I'll bring you all the news when I return,
And do not cry too much while I am gone.
Just drop to sleep and let the hall light burn."

And so she left her, thinking that to go
Was all important; gowned in satins, fair
And beautiful to see, the throng would know
And recognize her lovely presence there.

When she returned her sister's cheek she kissed.
"My dear," she said, "so many asked for you!

It's Hard to Make an Old Vine Attach Itself to an Old Tree.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

SHOULD people marry early or late?

The president of a great American school for girls says early marriages are unwise.

The objection to such marriages usually is based on two assumptions: First, that young people aren't wise enough to know what they want; and, second, that the children of young mothers are not equal to those borne in maturity.

Both assumptions are plausible, but neither is sound.

As a matter of fact, young people are the only ones who do know what they want. They want perfection, and they see it in one another.

It is true that those who marry young and thereafter see little of one another are in danger of growing apart as their tastes mature, but those who live in the normal intimacy of marriage tend to become more like one another as they develop the settled ways of maturity. The fact of youth gives them a pliancy and a capacity for adaptation and adjustment that older people have outgrown. They learn from one another and conform to one another. They compromise.

The successful marriage is a union of lovers, and youth is the time of love. Only the young love blindly.

With maturity come caution and discretion. Old love is canny and makes a good bargain. The opinion of the neighbors is considered. Costs are counted. And such marriages are not true matings, but mere unions of convenience and expediency. They afford little happiness, for they lack the ingredients of which happiness is made.

The true love of youth is the best assurance of a happy marriage. It isn't critical or hard to please. Inexperience makes it blind until the force of habit makes blindness no longer necessary.

The ideal time to marry might be when the man is 30 and the woman 25 if nothing mattered except economic security and mental and physical perfection, but 30 and 25 are beginning to be critical and calculating and suspicion has taken the place of faith. It is too late for ecstasy and not yet time for the saving grace of philosophy.

The time to marry is when both are young—when their education is finished and they have learned to earn their living. Their youth doesn't matter if they can keep the wolf from the door and their love is real.

As for the argument that young mothers bear imperfect children, observe that the world is ruled by men whose mothers were wed at eighteen.

It isn't age that makes a tree bear good fruit; it is the quality of the tree.

PRO AND CON

Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great Show, "Politics," Staged in Congress.

Donnybrook Fair.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The latest exchange of compliments between Democratic wets and drys in the Senate must have been decidedly disturbing to Chairman Raskob as he was putting the finishing touches on the program for the meeting of his national committee. It would not be strange if he were wishing now that he had followed the example of his fellow Democrat, Mr. Garner, who weeks ago, preferring discretion to valor, called off the party caucus of representatives to plan the organization of the next House.

Mr. Garner had hardly announced the date for the caucus when leading Northern Democrats, including the Tammany delegation, served notice that they expected to get their share of committee chairmanships in the next Congress. According to the rule of seniority most of the choice positions of power would go to Southern Democrats. Mr. Garner had slated himself for Speaker and his Southern friends for all the best chairmanships. The Northern crowd demanded that the rule be set aside. If it were not, they declared, they would refuse to assist in organizing the House, thus yielding control to the Republicans. Unwilling to meet trouble halfway, Mr. Garner announced that the caucus was indefinitely postponed.

If the Democratic caucus had not been abandoned it would have been a battleground between the wets and the drys, for of the 216 Democratic members of the next House more than half come from Southern and Western States where prohibition sentiment preponderates. For the coming meeting of the Democratic National Committee a first-class row over the prohibition issue is also in the making, but the drys, while as vociferous as ever, will be distinctly outnumbered.

Before the Battle.

New York Herald Tribune.

In spite of Mr. Raskob's stake in the organization and in spite of Mr. Jouett Shouse's confident predictions that the party will be wet, there is reason to believe that the political experience of men like Senator Sheppard will prevent Mr. Raskob from making good his hard won claim. Democratic precedent and recent Democratic performance indicate that Senator Sheppard's sputterings in the Senate are as nothing compared with the flames yet to come. Mr. Raskob's meeting will furnish a fine opportunity for that celebrated Democratic factionalism—an opportunity which might otherwise have been postponed until the national convention.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Americans Never See Anything Coming Until It Happens—Farm Life Disappearing—Cities to Be Short of Water.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a nation we never see anything coming until it happens. We are the slowest civilized nation on earth to foresee things either for our benefit or for our harm. Only a comparative few of us saw the break of 1929 coming, and at the present time we have no one that will commit himself as to our probable future.

There is one serious fault with our country, and that is the scramble to make money whenever or wherever the opportunity offers, regardless of future results. Because of this tendency our forests are being depleted, and our oil interests would bar foreign oil for present gain even though our supply is limited.

Our industries are supplying Russia with tractors and all kinds of agricultural machinery, and sending machine experts to teach Russia how to do things as we do them. Believe me, they are accepting our advice and help, to the extent that the next ten years will witness the passing away of our American farm home.

It has been said, "Let us ignore agriculture and go ahead." That is to ignore our leading industry. Farms are being abandoned with ever-increasing ratio and the men who formerly helped to make our country more beautiful will have to seek jobs in our already overpopulated cities. Look at our country today and compare the rural districts with prewar days; buildings needing repairs and paint, fences falling down, fields that were once prosperous growing up to brush. Rome went down when its motto was to ignore the farmer.

Within ten years this country will, if its present extravagant use of water is kept up, be in a panic for a supply; but no one sees it coming. It is easy to turn a tap for water so long as it runs, but some of these days our cities will be face to face with the biggest problem they have ever seen. A great many more things are going to happen. We want strong men for the next ten years to lead us back to a well-balanced nation, as I knew it 50 years ago.

THOMAS L. BROWN.

Religious Issue Must Be Kept Out of Democratic Convention, Says Virginia Democrat.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: On Monday Senator Morrison, of North Carolina again bitterly assailed Mr. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee. This he has done several times since he came to the Senate.

It is my view that the Governor of North Carolina did not appoint Mr. Morrison to the United States Senate for the purpose of assailing Mr. Raskob or any of the other individuals who took part in the 1928 election. That election is ancient history now, but as a complete contradiction to Senator Morrison's assertion that Mr. Raskob was the "monumental mistake of our great candidate for President in 1928," it is only necessary to call the senator's attention to the fact that more votes were cast for Gov. Smith than any previous Democratic nominee ever before received.

The reason for the senator's dislike of Mr. Raskob is too apparent to need any explanation. It is certainly not because of Mr. Raskob's wetness, for admittedly Gov. Smith was and is equally as wet, yet the senator refers to him as "our great candidate."

For the good of the Democratic party it is to be hoped that these States whose present national committeemen are still harping and smarting over the religious issue that was unfortunately and unnecessarily injected into the 1928 campaign, will see to it that other representatives are selected and sent to the convention in 1932. If this is not done the party might just as well not hold a convention. VIRGINIA DEMOCRAT.

Washington Should Be More Liberal in Displaying the American Flag.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With Washington's Birthday just around the corner, it occurs to me that, while the number of star-spangled banners now displayed in Washington on national holidays is inspiring, there are still not enough. What a fine thing it would be if every house in the city displayed a flag. Even a small one is very much better than none.

I should like to see the time when this city will be as celebrated for its flags as it is for its luxuriant growth of trees. Looking forward to such a time, I think patriotic parents ought to encourage their children in the formal holiday honoring of the flag. So that within a few years its universal display on frequent occasions will indicate that in spirit it is the true Capital of the Republic.

Heron Already Nesting in Zoo Park—First Sign of Spring.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I enjoyed a very interesting sight in the National Zoological Park this morning. In the big outdoor bird cage the black-crowned night herons are already building their nests and even nesting. The nests are roughly constructed with twigs, and the herons were seated in 6 out of 20 that I counted. Not being an ornithologist, I was puzzled by this early sign of spring. Very likely this may be the regular nesting time of these birds, although I can not help wondering whether, perhaps, they are instinctively taking advantage of a snowless winter. READER.

One-Way 35-Cent Taxicab Service at Union Station—How About the Other Way?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: May I ask through the medium of your columns by what authority 35-cent taxicabs are allowed to deposit passengers at the Union Station but are prohibited from entering to fetch them away? ALFONSO MAY TAKE UP HOME IN FRANCE

Chateau Near Bordeaux Is Reported Bought for Spanish King.

SITUATION "LOOKS BAD"

Hendaye, France, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—A report flashed along the Franco-Spanish frontier tonight that Alfonso XIII of Spain had, through a "straw man," purchased a chateau at Talence, near Bordeaux.

This was interpreted here to mean that the king was prepared to take refuge in France should need arise, but the general feeling is that he would never "run away."

Instead, say those who know the Spanish monarch best, he likely would retire to the chateau voluntarily to permit free functioning of the constituent assembly which his new cabinet is said to have promised, and which would decide as to whether Spain is to become a republic, like her numerous offspring in the Americas, or be converted into a "democratic" monarchy similar to that of England.

In the meantime Alfonso, in naming what Liberals call the "anodyne" Admiral Aznar as his prime minister, is deemed along this friendly frontier to have made a bold move in the game of Spanish chess—a sportsman-like move, because it is his kingdom which is at stake.

Travelers from Madrid and other Spanish points said tonight that the situation is calm, but nevertheless it "looks bad" to them. They explained this by saying the political atmosphere in Spain has become so intense and so electrified something seems to be in the air, to be achieved either by peaceful means or otherwise.

They emphasized that "revolution is already going on in Spain," and that for a long time it has been prepared by intellectual forces, just as the French revolution, although precipitated by the masses, was really made possible by the elite of France.

Madrid, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Fernando Primo de Rivera, son of the former dictator, was injured last night when a mob of Republicans attacked an automobile in which he and several other monarchists were riding through central Madrid shouting, "Long live the king!"

He received only minor injuries. This was one of several minor disorders during the night. Today the city was quiet.

Former Kaiser Buys Watch Frederick the Great Used

Bid of "House of Doorn" at $1,200 Causes Others to Withdraw Offers at Auction of Historic Relics Owned by Prince Friedrich Leopold.

Potsdam, Germany, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—A gold watch that ticked for Frederick the Great a century and a half ago was knocked down for 5,000 marks (about $1,200) to Wilhelm Hohenzollern, the last of Frederick's successors, at the auction here today of the furnishings of the Gilenicke Castle. This castle is the property of Prince Friedrich Leopold Hohenzollern, a cousin of the former kaiser, who has been living in Switzerland the last few years.

Other bidders withdrew when the offer of the "House of Doorn" was announced, and a crowd of bargain hunters who had come to pick up relics of the imperial regime applauded when the auctioneer declared the watch sold to the exiled former kaiser.

Surprisingly low prices were paid for other items. A brace of pistols once owned by Napoleon went begging until a friend of Prince Friedrich Leopold bid them back into the prince's possession for $500. A Biedermeyer table of birdseye maple brought only $150, and a commode of the period of Louis XVI only about $80.

Other items to be sold in the course of this auction include a flute that belonged to Frederick the Great, a death mask of Queen Louise of Prussia, and a number of small items of interest chiefly because they were gifts from Emperor Franz Josef of Austria and Emperor William I of Germany.

Prince Friedrich Leopold's decision to sell the furnishings and family relics belonging to his castle has aroused bitter comment in monarchist and nationalist newspapers, which assert the sale was not made necessary by real financial distress.

Although he is Wilhelm's cousin, Prince Friedrich Leopold has shown no great affection for his imperial relative and frequently has gone out of his way to oppose him, even going so far as to raise a red flag over the Gilenicke Castle when the revolution broke out in 1918.

CAPITAL ELECTRIC INCOMES INCREASE

District Firms Report 1930 Earnings Are Slightly More Than 1929.

SAND COMPANY ACQUIRED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The 1930 preliminary consolidated income statement of North American Co. and subsidiaries, including Washington Railway & Electric Co. and Potomac Electric Power Co., was made public yesterday and reveals $27,003,085.82 for common stock after all operating expenses, interest charges, depreciation, other reserves and preferred dividends, compared with $26,086,790.10 for 1929.

Earnings for 1930 are slightly in excess of those for the previous year and equal to $4.53 per share on the average number of common outstanding in 1930, compared with $5.03 a share in 1929. Gross earnings of $133,751,380.67 reflect the elimination for the last six and one-half months of 1930 of those of the former California subsidiaries sold to Pacific Gas & Electric Co. June 12.

Dealing with local activities of the company, President F. L. Dame states: "The seventh consecutive annual reduction of electric rates was made January 1, by Potomac Electric Power Co. and will result in additional savings during 1931 of $830,000 to customers of that company. The reductions apply to rates for all classes of service, including residential rates, which have decreased 58 per cent since 1924."

Confirmed by Officials.

Baltimore dispatches announcing yesterday acquisition of the Columbia Sand & Gravel Co. by Arundel Corporation of Baltimore, one of the largest construction companies in the country, were confirmed by officials of the local company who declined to reveal details of the transaction. Frank A. Furst is chairman of the board of Arundel Corporation and Joseph J. Hock, president. Its assets are more than $11,000,000.

The local company was organized in September, 1926, as a successor to the Columbia Granite & Dredging Corporation and is engaged in dredging sand gravel from the Potomac River. Officers of the company are Clyde B. Asher, president; J. W. Davis, secretary-treasurer; S. D. Frazier, sales manager.

At a recent meeting of the advisory board of the American Security & Trust Co. James F. Shea was elected chairman of that board to succeed the late B. F. Saul.

Cities Service Co.

Net earnings of Cities Service Co. for the twelve months ended January 31, 1931, were $56,553,823, as against $45,413,728 in a like period ended January 31, 1930, an increase of 24.53 per cent. The total number of common shareholders as of February 15 were 446,752, which is an increase of 7,877 since January 15, 1931.

Gross earnings increased from $46,795,692 for the year ended January 31, 1930, to $59,145,893, an increase of $12,350,200, or 26.39 per cent. Interest and discount on debentures were earned 5.80 times.

Directors of Mergenthaler Linotype Co. have declared regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 per share, payable March 31 to stockholders of record March 4.

Frigidaire Sales Plans Announced

Corporation Anticipating Disposal of 1,000,000 Units in 1931.

With more than 2,500,000 electric refrigerators now in use, the industry is anticipating the sale of 1,000,000 other units this year, E. R. Doty, advertising manager of the Frigidaire Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, told dealers and salesmen of this General Motors subsidiary here yesterday at a spring business conference held at the Wardman Park Hotel.

He was accompanied here by J. J. Nance, sales promotion manager, both of whom spoke at a banquet last night, culminating the conference, which drew representatives from points throughout this section.

"In addition to the large advertising and educational programs of the manufacturers, the electric light and power industry will launch a $1,000,000 advertising campaign in behalf of the domestic electric refrigerator and the household economy it makes possible," Mr. Doty said. "At least 1,500,000 household units have been installed during the past two years. This is a phenomenal expression of popular interest when conditions that prevailed during the past year and a half are taken into consideration."

Convicted Killers Are Denied Mercy

Mrs. Schroeder and Dague May Appeal to Governor to Escape Chair.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—The State board of pardons today refused to recommend to Gov. Pinchot the commutation of the death sentences of Mrs. Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, convicted slayers of Highway Patrolman Brady Paul. The two are sentenced to die in the electric chair next Monday.

Pleas to spare the lives of the woman and her companion were presented today before the pardon board. Counsel for the couple argued their convictions were in response to a public clamoring, that Mrs. Schroeder had been denied the defense of "irresistible impulse," that no woman had ever been electrocuted in Pennsylvania and that there was doubt as to who fired the fatal shot.

The one chance remaining for the condemned pair is a direct appeal to Gov. Pinchot. In the past, however, the custom of the chief executive has been to follow the recommendation of the pardon body.

Mlle. Bostrom To Be Married Next Summer

Engagement of Envoy's Daughter Announced; Now in Sweden.

ONE of the prettiest girls of the diplomatic group in Washington, Mlle. Ellis Bostrom, younger daughter of the Minister of Sweden and Mme. Bostrom, is engaged to wed Mr. Sixten F. Wollmar, of New York.

Simultaneously with the release of the news in Washington, announcement of the engagement is being made today in Stockholm, where Mme. Bostrom, Mlle. Ellis Bostrom and Mlle. Pauline Bostrom have been for several months.

The little party will probably return to Washington in the spring for a visit before the wedding, which will take place in the summer at the minister's home in Sweden.

The minister returned to Washington last fall, after spending the summer months at home, but his family remained for the winter in the Swedish capital. The season in Stockholm has been a gay one for Mme. Bostrom and her daughters, who number among their personal friends the Swedish royal family and have been guests at the palace many times this winter.

Both girls were presented to court society in Stockholm this year and have been in the midst of festivities surrounding the coterie of youthful society which finds its center there at the royal palace.

Mlle. Ellis Bostrom made her debut here two seasons ago and remained in Washington last winter, when she joined the great army of business girls and proved valuable aid to the staff of the Swedish Legation as secretary. Having previously learned stenography and typing at one of the local schools, she was well fitted for the position, which she filled with much efficiency.

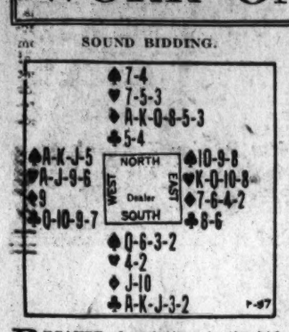
SOUND BIDDING.



BECAUSE of variations in the bidding, the above hand produced a variety of scores in a Duplicate Contract session held recently. At all the tables South opened with a bid of one Club. At one table West, with the Clubs stopped twice, bid No Trump; there was no other bid, and West was defeated, as North ran six Diamonds and then put South in to make two Clubs. At another table West bid one Spade, North three Diamonds, East passed, and South, who was forced to bid by his partner's jump-shift, was afraid of three No Trumps, so he tried four Clubs. West doubled, hoping that East could double the four Diamonds which was sure to follow; but East did not dare to do so and neither did West. Of course, North was set, but that was a big gain compared to what happened at the tables where East and West bid their hands correctly.

West's sound declaration was to double South's initial one Club in the hope of getting a major answer from East, which he would do if East should have four cards of either major. If East should answer with a Diamond, West would be in position to bid for game in No Trump as he has the Clubs stopped twice. Even with West doubling, it still would be advantageous for North to bid three Diamonds in a desperate attempt to shut East out. But East, with four Hearts headed by a King-Queen-Ten and a doubling partner, would size up the double as having been made with strong majors and consequently would bid three Hearts; and West would make the game-bid of four. It will be seen that all North and South can make against a Heart contract is two Clubs and one Diamond.

It is important that informatory doubles should not be made without great strength, so that the partner of the doubler can answer optimistically.

At Auction the bidding should be the same, except that East's bid of three Hearts would stand.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

MY BOSTON fern is covered with insects. What do you suggest?
MRS. LILLIAN S. T.

The best way to rid a fern of scale is to go over each frond with a small brush and scrub off these hard-shelled insects. When the entire plant is clean, better begin to spray the foliage once a week with cold water to prevent a return of the pests.

Please tell me how to change the color of my hydrangea flowers.
NANCY D. T.

Blue flowers on naturally pink bushes may sometimes be attained by incorporating with each bushel of soil one-half pound of lump alum broken into small pieces. In some soils these plants flower blue naturally; in others the flowers are pink.

Can you tell me whether the climbing hybrid tea roses are as free flowering as the bush type of hybrid tea roses?
AN AMATEUR GARDENER.

They are not quite as free-flowering as the bush variety, but they do produce a large crop of beautiful flowers in June with a liberal number of flowers throughout the season.

Please tell me whether a wisteria blooms the first year. Mine is five years old and so far hasn't set a bud.
EMILY L.

No, a wisteria must be several years old before it flowers. It usually begins to bloom the tenth year.

Would you please answer the following questions: (1) What makes the leaves of a geranium turn yellow? (2) What is the best time to start slips of geranium for spring flowering? (3) Also, do they demand much sun?
MARTHA F. H.

Too little sun or too much water, root room or fertilizer will cause the leaves of a geranium to turn yellow. Geraniums intended for spring flowering should be started before Christmas. They demand all the sun you can give them.

Am inclosing a leaf of my ivy plant. I have the plant in an apartment where we have only eastern and western exposure. However, it gets sun and plenty of fresh air. I water it when it is extremely dry, as well as wash the leaves once a week. I can't use soapy water because our water is hard and the soap makes a scum on the plant. I use tobacco water. Please tell me why the plant is not thriving and why the leaves are beginning to drop.
MRS. T. W.

Your ivy is suffering for lack of water. Better give it enough to moisten all the soil in the pot every other day. If you keep the apartment very warm (always 70 degrees Fahrenheit), better water it every day.

Please tell me whether to attempt to root geraniums in sand or water.
MISS SALLIE Y.

Better root them in sand and later transplant them into soil.

Please tell me when to set out Montbretia bulbs. Also, how far apart should the bulbs be placed?
MARION E. Y.

Montbretia bulbs should be planted out in the early spring. They are best planted in groups of a dozen or more, placing the bulbs three to six inches apart.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Getting Somewhere.

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD: How can two people who love each other manage to get somewhere? We are married and willing to settle down. But every time we are all set for the future, something comes up to break up all our plans.

My husband is a fine fellow—skilled in aeronautics; was in the flying corps during the war. But ever since he came out of the Army it has been one thing after the other. He has even worked as a chauffeur, for he will do anything to get on, but it seems one thing after the other goes wrong. In his own line there are so many young fellows today willing to work for almost nothing just to get into flying. What chance has a man who must support a wife and home?

Sometimes I wonder if it is that we are foreigners? He is highly educated, but was educated abroad. Is it that that keeps us always torn up and upset? I have almost lost hope that we will ever even know where next year's needs will come from. And that is a terrible state of mind to be in. He is as disheartened as I am. An able man of wide experience and endless courage, yet drifting from job to job.

All about us we see people getting established in homes, saving money, getting somewhere, while we are just where we started. We are very thrifty. If we were not we would have known real want. But no matter how thrifty we are, how can we get on when things entirely beyond our control loom up and impede us? He never loses a job through any fault of his. It is retrenchment, or change of management, always something and he is out again. Each time it is harder. Each time he has less confidence. I am terribly worried as he is so changed. Can you explain our plight? VIC.

Life, my dear, knows no distinction of nationality or race. The obstacles and disappointments that strew the path of existence are for all. What seem insurmountable barriers today are leveled walls tomorrow. The things that make us weep today are topics of amused anecdote in future years. It is only when we have come to know these facts that we are able to see today's discomfort as preparation for tomorrow's success. Self-made millionaires are pictured in the daily papers, lionized not because of their wealth but because of what they conquered in acquiring wealth. Men who merely inherit millions are just wealthy men. But men who vaulted every obstacle, who would not say die, are idols. They represent something. It is achievement.

In years to come you and this man you love will doubtless sit and view in retrospect your early struggles in America after the war. You will tell bored grandchildren how you scarcely knew where the next meal was coming from. And they will yawn and say "Yeah?"—or words to that effect. And you will wonder if they will ever amount to anything, and wish that they might have to work as you did to exist. You will feel sorrow for them and will tell each other how glad you are that you had real hand-to-hand encounter with life. And you will mean it, too.

Thus today's disappointments, viewed from the distance of the years, you and your husband will arrive. All that you need is the ability to get from today one-half the enjoyment that you will get from recalling it tomorrow. Do that and there is nothing between you and success. Believe that you are drilling for foundation and before your eyes your castle will arise.

Jane Corbett INTERPRETS the MODE

Paris, Feb. 18.

POIRET has created a very attractive and useful evening wrap in two colors. Let me tell you about it. There are several versions of this idea, one, the top of the cloak or wrap developed in one color and lined to match in another fabric, the bottom a decidedly contrasting color. Another has just the entire lining a contrasting color to the coat proper, and the whole is reversible. Still another has the two-color idea developed in wide bands of the material, alternating in the two colors.

They are smart and delightful, because color is the idea for the coming season. And they are practical because a woman can wear two evening dresses with the one wrap, and seem to have had the wrap made specially for each one—something awfully important in evening wear elegance, you know.

As for their trimming, it is usually in a contrasting colored fur, one of the elegant evening wear furs, of course. I mean that if the wrap is developed in black and white, the fur will be blue fox, or chinchilla, of gray dyed ermine more often than it will be either black or white. When the cloak is in two pastal colors, such as blue and pink, or mauve and green, the fur will be black or brown.

Sounds hard to visualize, doesn't it? But actually it is very smart and effective, this two-color evening wrap!

• • • •

"Oh, if I only had mules to go with this negligee!" How often do we emit this particular yelp! Yeah, I have 70-11 pairs myself, but I always seem to need more. Sh-h-h-h, I made 'em all, too! And I even made you an illustrated leaflet telling you how to make them, so you could have four or five boudoir slippers instead of one or two—because they cost so little, really, and are so graceful when they are done. Better send that stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet telling you all about it, 'cause you'll be sorry if you don't!

• • • •

Gowns are cut nowadays and then sewn together in a manner to flatter the figure of the woman who wears them, whereas the gown of yesterday was trimmed and decorated as a gown in its own right. Look at this Agnes-Drecoll-Beer gown of pale blue-green crepe satin which I illustrated for you today and see how the incrustations in the front are cut to give the gown its lines.

And then for an interesting decolletage in the back, bands of strasse and ruby jewelry are responsible for the way the gown fits, as well as for its trimming.

• • • •

According to the gracious and lovely Mme. Tollmann herself, lace has a very "slimming" effect. Might this be the reason for its continued popularity? For it is certainly true that it remains popular despite reports to the contrary that are always popping up.

• • • •

Have you started thinking of spring hats? Dare discusses them in her weekly fashion letter in next Sunday's Washington Post.

Au revoir.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 11:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.

February 19 promises much. Many opportunities will present themselves, while few complications will arise. In almost all lines of endeavor—and endeavor is not speculation—a material advancement is assured. After sundown the astrological atmosphere will be benign and amorous.

Children born on this February 19 will be moody and undependable. Their temperaments will be mercurial, and these traits, in adulthood, will not inure to their material advancement. They will live in a world of their own creation and will be happier alone than with companionship.

If you were born on a February 19, the astrological signs denote weakness of character, in spite of an exceptional intellect. You absorb information very easily. You never have to burn the midnight oil in order to learn. You, too, are very versatile, and, speaking generally, can do all things well. You are, however, too much swayed by outside influences or by your environment to "put your better foot forward." Purposefulness in life is lacking. You swim with the tide; never battle against it.

As a companion, you are delightful. You easily accommodate yourself to the whims and wishes of others. You never force them to adapt their ideas to yours. Contradiction and argument are never used by you as weapons. Your friends like you, but they do not ever seek your advice or counsel. They know you would only echo their own thoughts.

As a lover you are very attractive. As a lifelong mate the party of the other part will soon tire of the glamour of a too-ready acquiescence and the absence of an honest difference of opinion. Your innate charm, your all too willing complaisance, will, so the stars say, earn for you a modicum of material success and an absence of disharmony. You will, however, never experience the thrill of a "go-getter" or a "do-doer."

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

IF THIS sort of thing keeps up, it won't be long now until Old Uncle Gus Edwards will have to begin tending his laurels as premier discoverer and exploiter of new stage talent.

At the Palace this week, Benny Davis, one of America's most prolific and most successful writers of popular songs, is presenting a bunch of youngsters in his "Broadway Stars of the Future" revue that are talented beyond all get-out. Benny himself, and Mrs. Davis, too, is working with full steam up, to be sure, and putting the juveniles over with a bang that could be heard by those penguins left in possession of Little America on a clear night with the wind in the right direction, but don't forget when you are watching them that those kids, every last mother's son of them, have got something to be put over.

Last Monday night at the performance I attended, Buddy Ebsen tackled a song for the first time and by a rendition of "St. Louis Blues" that has never been paralleled on a stage, to the best of my belief, won an ovation for himself and sister Vilma that was so thunderous that it was necessary to hang onto the sides of the chair to keep from being knocked off into the aisle.

Then there is 16-year-old Duke McHale, one of the greatest tap dancers that ever rattled a toe on the boards. In the last issue of the Dance Magazine—or maybe it wasn't the last, but one of them, at any rate—contemporary tap dancers were rated in this order of excellence: First, Bill Robinson, the sepia hoofer to whom every one concedes an undisputed preeminence; second, Fred Astaire; third, Will Mahoney, and fourth, this McHale lad. Jackie Heller, the Three Ryans and all the rest of the troupe are right up there in the hit zone, too.

But about this Benny Davis fellow. Probably the last time you saw his picture was when he and Mrs. Davis were snapped at a table with Rudy Vallee, Eddie Peabody and our own Kate Smith in the Villa Vallee, in New York. When you were down at Atlantic City a few seasons ago, that was his night club you kept dropping into every time you went down the boardwalk toward the Ritz from the Million Dollar Pier. And over in New York when you went to see the late lamented Jack Donohue and electric Lily Damita in "Sons o' Guns," it was Benny's music you heard. He wrote "Sons o' Guns." To list all the other hits he has written would be like copying the telephone book, or a list of your preferred creditors, or something.

But all that seems to me less important than the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Benny Davis, off stage, are home folks. If you were to run across them casually away from the theater, you would probably never mistrust that they had ever peered over a footlight trough at applauding thousands. But you might take him for a successful young business man and her for a charming young housewife. And you wouldn't be wrong, at that.

"Regular," I believe, is the word one is supposed to use at a time like this.

Speaking of stage stars, the degree to which the motion picture houses have come to command the best talent of the older theater has seldom been more forcefully emphasized than will be the case in the Capital next week.

At the Fox, the "name" act of the stage portion of the entertainment, beginning tomorrow, will be supplied by Irene Franklin, one of the greatest of our singing comediennes, straight from fresh triumphs won in the all-star cast of "Sweet Adeline."

At the Earle, Miss Patricola, another chanteuse of international reputation and a sister of Tom, seen not so long ago on the same stage, heads the vaudeville bill.

Yvette Rugel, a tiny prima donna with a soprano voice of operatic caliber, will complete the triumvirate as featured member of the "Krinoline Kapers," stage revue at the Palace.

I'm afraid it will be a long wait until you will find another trio like this all treading the local boards the same week.

Since we have gone that far, this is the ideal place to go further and say that the complete roster for next week in the downtown, first-run houses will be as follows: Columbia, Greta Garbo, in "Inspiration;" Fox, Edmund Lowe and Jeanette MacDonald, in "Don't Bet on Women;" Earle, Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon, in "My Past;" Palace, Buster Keaton, Charlotte Greenwood, Reginald Denny and Cliff Edwards in "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath;" Rialto, Bela Lugosi, Helen Chandler and David Manners in "Dracula," second week; RKO-Keith's, Richard Dix and Irene Dunne in "Cimarron," third week; Metropolitan, Barbara Stanwyck in "Illicit," full week.

Although seen in only one talking picture, the passing of Louis Mann, one of the stage's distinguished character actors of the old school, removes a potential star of the cinema. In "Sins of the Children," first released under the title of "The Richest Man in the World," he offered a characterization that ranked him high among the painstaking artists of the screen.

Another character actor whose intelligence and peculiarly individual endowments for certain types of roles will be sorely missed from the screen was Louis Wolheim.

No doubt because a majority of the characters he assumed, both on the stage and before the cameras and microphones, were marked by attributes of rugged power and seemingly unlimited physical endurance, Wolheim was one of the last with whom the casual observer would have associated any serious form of physical disability. News of his sudden death yesterday, therefore, came all the more as a shock.

If reports are true, the rigid dieting necessary to lose 30 pounds for a prospective screen role was a contributory cause of Louis Wolheim's unexpected and untimely end. I know of no other occupation in which success imposes such drastic imposts.

As long as the clinic is in session, you may be interested to know that Kate Smith, recently at the Earle, faces the disquieting prospect of a throat operation to remove the cause of the laryngeal affection that has so often interfered with her professional engagements.

Reverting momentarily to the Palace and the late Mr. Wolheim's dieting, a wise suggestion to Joan Crawford might be to abandon any further banting that she may have contemplated as a means of preserving the fragile silhouette she reveals in the role of Mary Turner in "Paid," the M-G-M talking version of Bayard Veiller's play of "Within the Law."

The loss of one more ounce will render the junior Mrs. Fairbanks positively cadaverous in appearance.

By the way, what do you do to stop gaining?

YOUR NAME IT MEANT WHAT DOES

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

The family name "Reynold" (also written "Reynolds" and "Reynoldson") is merely a variation of "Reginald." "Reginald" was one of the most popular personal names in England, Scotland and Ireland during the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, at which time personal names were becoming hereditary. The ultimate source of this name is the Old Germanic personal name "Raginald," which may be translated "powerful judgment." A certain John Reynold is mentioned in the Hundred Rolls, and a Ricardus Raynoldson is mentioned in an English document of the year 1379. The common forms of this name in France are "Renaud," "Renauld," "Renault," and "Renaut." Its modern German forms are quite numerous. Some of them are "Regenold," "Reginolt," "Reinwold," and "Reinhold." In Italy the commonest modern equivalents are "Rinaldo," "Rinaldi," "Reginaldo," and "Raimaldo."

The family name "Kirk" is especially common in the northern part of England. It is derived ultimately from the Old Norse "kirkja," meaning "the church," and implies that the persons who were first so called lived near such buildings. However, this name has sometimes been adopted by Irish families who were originally called "O Cuirc." "O Cuirc" is of Celtic origin and means "the descendant of Corc." "Corc" was an old personal name meaning "heart." A certain Robertus del Kirke and a Johannes de Kirke are mentioned in a fourteenth century English record.

The family name "Kirkman" means "The keeper or guardian of the church." Like "Kirk," it is especially common in the northern part of England. The Hundred Rolls mentions a Roger Kyrkeman and a Symon Kirkeman.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-covered tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

The Life Story of Gen. Wood

By HERMANN HAGEDORN

(After the conclusion of the Wood-Forbes mission of investigation, President Harding once more urged Gen. Wood to accept the post of Governor General of the Philippines. Before departure from the United States, Wood had accepted election as provost of the University of Pennsylvania, but he recognized that he had no right to evade the duty which the chaotic conditions in the Philippines imposed on him and asked for a year's leave of absence from the university. Finding later that he could not complete his work in the allotted time, he tendered his resignation to the university trustees. Wood's appointment as Governor General had a steadying effect throughout the Orient. He was inaugurated in October, 1921.)

CHAPTER XLVII.

"The establishment here in the Far East of a sound stable government must not fail," Gen. Wood said in his inaugural address as governor general of the Philippines, "because the effect and the influence of the effort we are making here extend far beyond the bounds of the Philippine Islands and reach out to every people who are dreaming of representative self-government. It shall not fail because the United States has put its hand to the plow, and will not turn back!"

The heads of departments submitted their resignations at once.

"Some I probably shall accept," Wood wrote in his diary, "some not. There would be no greater mistake than to fire everybody and create a condition of sullen opposition. I have been so thoroughly through the islands that I know what is needed and what I want to do. In other words, the cabinet will not be running me, but I want them to run as I wish. They have been in office long enough to know how to accomplish, within the law, such changes as may be needed. The secret of administration is to be able to have people do what you want, and not be wholly helpless unless you can get the people you wish."

He talked frankly to the cabinet. It was of fundamental importance that the government live within its income and not "spend on prospect." There must be no reductions in public instruction, public health, public works. It was essential, therefore, at once "in a human and decent way" to reduce the pay rolls.

Begs for Cooperation.

He begged for cooperation; the cooperation not of master and servant, but of man and man.

"I have no vanity of opinion as to knowing it all. I want you to come and speak without hesitation. That is the only way a man can be loyal to his superiors; to speak frankly and then, even if you do not agree, follow the policy laid down by your superior. Do not hesitate to say if things are wrong. If you think we are doing wrong here, come out and say so. That is the best kind of loyalty."

Wood's evident intention of cooperating with the politics in making efficient the form of government they had established rather than sweeping it aside and beginning afresh, relieved the tension among the Filipinos but brought taunts of indigenismo from the American colony. The majority of Americans in Manila had no sympathy with the desire of the Filipinos for autonomy and independence. Democratic self-government, they said, was an Anglo-Saxon ideal which even Anglo-Saxons with difficulty translated into reality. Nothing in the Oriental tradition presented any hope that a race of Malays could ever cultivate the self-control and the sense of civic responsibility which self-government demanded. Through immemorial time in the Orient there had been rulers and subjects. There was no tradition of rights and responsibilities; there was power and there was obedience. Power meant the ability to exploit others for personal advantage; obedience meant, not the subordination of the individual will to the common good, but groveling obeisance and helplessness and fear. Was it possible that out of such a tradition a self-governing republic could arise? What, indeed, had Philippine autonomy been under Harrison except the old Oriental despotism under a new masquerade?

Waited for "Jove's Lightning."

To these elements Wood appeared the "man on horseback" they had dreamed of through the dire years of the Harrison regime, and they waited for Jove's lightning to erase the politicos and blight the independence movement once for all. But no bolts fell. The new governor general scarcely lifted his voice. Instead of annihilating Osmena and Quezon, he invited them to dinner and asked their advice. The Americans were disappointed and a little heartsick. Was it possible that this "strong man" they had welcomed so ardently was not so strong as they had painted him?

Wood knew what they were thinking, but he knew also that a display of force would solve no problems in the end and would be misunderstood in the United States.

"I have kept most of the former secretaries," he wrote the Secretary of War. "Conditions were so confused that any radical shake-up of the machine would have produced a condition of absolute chaos."

Wood went at his administrative duties with characteristic energy, driving first at matters connected with the public health. Before he had been ten days in office he had made an agreement with the International health board of the Rockefeller Foundation for the rehabilitation of the Bureau of Science and of the College of Medicine and Surgery of the University of the Philippines, which had deteriorated under the Harrison regime, and the appointment of consultants in nursing and public health on the staff of the Governor General. He directed that steps be taken at once to improve conditions in the insane asylums, to combat typhoid and smallpox which had increased at an appalling rate during the lax days of Harrison.

Demands Aid for Lepers.

He directed that special attention be given the leper colony at Culion. This refuge of the world's most miserable of outcasts had been established by Dr. Victor Heiser in 1906, and had grown through the early years when Forbes was governor from a collection of squalid native huts to a self-respecting, self-governing community with waterworks and an electric light plant, shops, markets, churches and clubs, hospitals and laboratories for research. Here the shunned and rejected who had been the frightened companions of the scavenger dogs of 1,000 villages, lived a normal life, holding a place in society not by sufferance, but by right; respected, needed. Heiser himself, with infinite self-abnegation and a courage fortified by the scientist's devotion to truth and the humanitarian's love for his fellows, had himself gathered the lepers together on successive voyages from which even the Ancient Mariner might have recoiled with loathing. He had introduced a method of treatment which had been successful in India and Burmah, by means of the ether ester of chaulmoogra oil to arrest the progress of the disease and in many cases to effect cures.

"There is a very good prospect of curing from 50 per cent to 60 per cent of the lepers, possibly more," Wood wrote Dr. Jesus, director of the health service, "and no steps necessary to this end must be omitted. Not only must we do everything possible for the cure of those on hand, but we must push forward the work so as to eradicate, as far as possible, this disease from the Philippine Islands. * * * We have an opportunity here to do a work which will be an illustration to the world of what can be done."

"We have between five and six thousand lepers at Culion Island," Wood wrote Stimson, "living under conditions which are anything but creditable to our Government. In fact, the accommodations do not permit of the ordinary economies of life, not to mention the comforts which should be found in a colony of this sort. I must put them on their feet in decent quarters, reorganize the medical staff and start systematic work which may result in the recovery of many of them. I want to do all that is humanly possible for those wretched and unhappy people.

Begins Restoring Finances.

Carefully Wood set to work to restore the island's shattered finances. In no other field was the inexperience of the Filipinos in the direction of large affairs so patently revealed. The secretary of finance, after telling Wood repeatedly what the total expenses of the government would be for the coming year, announced at a meeting of the cabinet, with no visible embarrassment, that in giving his statement of probable expenses he had failed to include payments to the sinking fund, interest on the debt and a number of minor items, amounting in all to 6,000,000 pesos.

When the board of directors of the Philippine National Bank suspended from the board the son of the deposed president of the bank because of certain irregularities to which he had confessed, Osmena refused to approve the act, declaring it to be in the nature of "persecution." The coal company was running at a steady loss; the cement company was operated under a contract under which the Government divided any possible profits with the lessee but bore any losses alone. The railroad company, of which Quezon was president, had lost a million pesos during the previous year through inefficiency, elaborate special trains for the political leaders, free billings of freight and 80,000 annual family passes, distributed among adherents of the dominant party. Wood proposed that the railroad be operated under contract by an American company, but Osmena and Quezon objected, saying that they were both candidates at the forthcoming elections and "they thought the contract might be a political stumbling block to them."

Astute and brilliant as they were, they were like children these men, reaching out so eagerly for greater responsibilities, greater authority and yet so unwilling to yield themselves to the discipline of faithfulness in the little things.

Program Hits a Snag.

Wood's program of legislation designed to rehabilitate the islands' finances ran promptly into a political storm in which happily he himself was not involved. Osmena, sensing possibly Quezon's ambitions to supplant him as chief of the Nacionalista party, determined to get rid of his fiery associate. He would do what he could, he told Wood, to help him secure the legislation he needed; but he begged leave to resign from the Council of State, since harmonious relations with Quezon would henceforth be impossible.

Wood told him that neither he nor Quezon could resign without advertising to the world the fact that a serious rupture had taken place, which would have an adverse effect on business and on the financial negotiations with the United States.

"I finally put it brutally by saying that the world would look upon it as a condition approximating that of Mexico and would conclude that if we were not here, instead of a wordy war they would be fighting each other in armed groups; that he was a natural leader of a great mass of the people and could not resign that leadership if he wanted to."

Let him stay at his post, Wood added, and work for the common good of the country.

Quezon, too, came to the palace and poured out a bitter tale. For the good of their own cause, Wood insisted there must be no break. There was something about Wood's appeals for service which were hard to resist. Both men agreed to preserve a semblance of concord.

Wood Remains Neutral.

Beyond these efforts in behalf of peace, Wood kept apart from the fight. His neutrality was appreciated. It had convinced the Filipinos, Quezon told him, that the governor general was working for harmony and not taking advantage of their political disturbances. Well, it had better, Wood answered. If he wanted to make trouble for the Filipinos he could do so easily enough by letting conditions of confusion and disorder arise.

In spite of the turmoil of a political conflict such as the Philippines had hitherto not known, the financial legislation which Wood regarded as essential was adopted. But when it came to his desk for signature some 70-odd other bills came with it, passed in the closing hours of the session, some constitutional, many calling for the expenditure of funds which were not available. He used his veto liberally.

The legislation which set the government once more on the way to financial stability was largely ignored; but the vetoes brought a cartoon showing a burly ruffian, labeled "Wood," thrusting a two-edged sword marked "Veto Power" into the breast of a native girl symbolizing "Philippine Autonomy." It represented the first rumblings of a war against the one man in the Philippines, and possibly in the world, who was able to make autonomy a practical reality for them.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE spirit of Arthur T. Haugh, of Chicago, former president of the Radio Manufacturers Association, who has suggested the raising of a $10,000,000 advertising appropriation by the radio industry to better acquaint newspaper readers with details of outstanding broadcasts, is somewhat different than that of those broadcasters who believe the newspapers ought to advertise their programs gratuitously.

Mr. Haugh compliments the newspapers upon the work they are doing in this respect, but does not believe they can be reasonably expected to carry the entire burden without compensation, especially where commercial programs are involved.

Such a plan as Mr. Haugh has in mind would do much to reconcile the antagonism which has been very marked of late between the broadcasters and the newspapers.

Helen Hayes, who began her career in stock company in this city, will speak in the Radio Homemakers Club program this morning (WMAL, 11 a. m.). She is now the star of "Petticoat Influence."

DEDICATED to the grocers of America, the Campbell Orchestra, directed by Andy Sanella, will present two evening programs, the first to be heard tomorrow (WRC, 10 p. m.).

Annette Hanshaw, blues singer, will make her first radio appearance in several weeks during the Radio Round-Up tonight (WMAL, 11:30 o'clock).

The Radio Guild presentation tomorrow afternoon will be Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" (WRC, 4:10 o'clock).

A microphone "arm," which can be moved during a broadcast without interrupting the circuit, is being tried out. The microphone is suspended at a variable height from a horizontal arm projecting from a vertical standard. Its maximum radius is 18 feet and the microphone carriage can be moved along the arm itself from end to end.

Its advantage is that the conductor may have any instrument he wishes stand out. For example, the arm is swung around to a position above the violins to get their full tone.

THE Wireless Military Band, conducted by B. Waldon O'Donnell, will be heard from 2LO, London, this afternoon (WRC, 2:45 o'clock).

Howard Marsh, musical comedy tenor, will play a return engagement on the WJZ network tomorrow night.

We believe the Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra would greatly improve its programs by refraining from such constant repetition of several numbers, including "Hittin' the Bottle," "Peanut Vendor" and "Lady, Play Your Mandolin."

RUSSIA has a number of 100-000-watt broadcasting stations in operation and plans to have 60 high-power transmitters by 1934, according to O. H. Caldwell, former Radio Commissioner.

WOR, Newark, one of the oldest stations in the country, will celebrate its ninth anniversary Monday.

Padilla's "La Violetera" and Romberg's "I Wonder Why" will be Jessica Dragonette's contributions to the Cities Service concert tomorrow (WRC, 8 p. m.).

RICHARD GORDON, who plays Sherlock Holmes in the air adaptations, rushed to a rehearsal recently scheduled in Studio "D." Gordon inquired its location of a page boy.

"Down the west corridor," directed the page, then he added, "Gosh, can you imagine that? Sherlock Holmes and he can't even find a big studio."

Carnival Ends in Riot.

Stuttgart, Germany, Feb. 18 (A.P.). Celebration in the streets which began last night as a merry festival marking the end of the carnival season developed into a political riot when a group of the Left Radicals tried to hold a mock funeral parade with a coffin bearing the Swastika emblem of the National Socialists.

Don't neglect your child's COUGH or COLD

TRY this milder "counter-irritant." Good old Musterole now made milder for babies and small children. So pleasant to use and so reliable—apply Children's Musterole freely to the affected area once every hour for five hours. That's the safe, sure treatment that millions of mothers and leading doctors and nurses recognize and endorse.

Musterole gets action because it is a "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain.

That's why this famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally.

Keep full strength Musterole on hand for adults and Children's Musterole for the little tots.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

CHICAGO GANGS KILL PLUMBING OFFICIAL

Inspector Believed Slain Because of Vengeance or His Union War.

MACHINE GUN IS USED

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—A stream of machine gun bullets poured out a potion of death today for Albert Courchene, 55-year-old city plumbing inspector. He was a victim, police said, of racketeers in the plumbing trade.

Six months ago Courchene was suspected of killing two business agents for the Plumbers Union. A coroner's jury freed him. Of late he had led an insurgent movement to unseat the ruling officers of the union.

Vengeance for the double killing of last August, or desire to sweep aside his opposition to the union leaders was the motive for his assassination, police and prosecutors said.

Courchene was cut down as he stepped into a South Side house to inspect a plumbing job. Two men drove slowly past in a small sedan bearing no license; a window opened, a submachine gun poked its nose out and pedestrians and plumbers at work in the building dived out of range as the deadly rat-tat sounded. Courchene, his leg broken and body pierced by fourteen bullets, fell mortally wounded and died an hour later without becoming conscious.

The plumbers union has been under investigation by the State attorney's racket bureau for some time.

Our Customers

must be satisfied

THERE are some sections in the city in which gas pressures are higher than the six-inch pressure formerly allowed by the Public Utilities Commission. This is not a new condition, but has existed for some time previous to the reduction of rates. If it did not exist it would mean that many people would not obtain satisfactory gas service.

Recognizing this and acting on the advice of their own engineer, the Public Utilities Commission at this time has raised the pressure requirements to a maximum of eight inches. Consulting engineers from the United Gas Improvements Company, one of the foremost organizations of its kind in the country, have been in Washington for several months working with our own engineers on our distribution problems and have already drawn up plans which will be adequate to take care of any demands in the next few years.

Approximately 85 complaints have been received by the Public Utilities Commission since the first of January. We have 126,000 customers. We would welcome hearing from any one of them who feels that there is something we can do to better our service. We are anxious and ready to do everything which is necessary to insure complete satisfaction to our customers.

In this connection we should like to point out that the January bill covered a period of 35 days, or 5 days more than usual. The majority of complaints have been satisfactorily explained by this one fact alone.

We have not been able to trace any direct relationship between the pressures carried by us and high bills. The engineer of the Public Utilities Commission reported that high pressures might cause an increased consumption of "something less than 1%."

An eight-inch pressure will mean a plentiful supply of gas and a large flame. This may make gas appliances "inefficient" if the flame is turned up higher than is necessary to do the job. In most instances this can be controlled by the user. If, however, in some cases, more gas is being used than necessary because of improper adjustment of any appliance, this can easily be remedied. The Washington Gas Light Company and the Georgetown Gas Light Company will be glad to make any adjustments which are necessary.

The gas companies expect to be in business for a good many years and must depend heavily on the Good Will of the Public. There is only one sure way to obtain this, and that is by rendering consistently good service. We know that the customer's interest is our interest.

If there is any question you would like to ask about your gas bill, call National 8280 and ask for "Information Service."

George A. G. Wood, President
Washington Gas Light Co.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

VITAMIN B.

PEOPLE who feel they need foods reasonably rich in vitamin B complex are finding some difficulty in purchasing what they want in grocery stores. Wheat and rye, the berries, or grain, can generally be found either in grocery or feed stores. Farmers can get them out of the bin, and merchants in small towns can easily get these grains.

Gov. McKivie is said to have supplied Mr. Coolidge with the recipe for a vitamin B food composed of these grains, of which the then President was very fond. The recipe is as follows: A mixture of 2 parts wheat berries and 1 part rye berries is made. The chaff must be removed along with the dust and straw. These grains are put in a double boiler with water and enough salt to flavor and cooked until the kernels burst. This generally requires four to five hours. The name of the dish is Coolidge porridge. It can be flavored with salt, sugar, butter, milk, or jam, or mixtures, as preferred. Since the period of cooking is prolonged, enough for several days can be boiled and the excess put away in the icebox. Enough for one meal is removed from the refrigerator, warmed, seasoned, and served. Souring does not take place for several days, and until it does the dish is wholesome as well as palatable.

Whole grain berries contain the germ and some of the bran. Therefore, the mixture is rich in phosphates, lime, and other minerals. The vitamin for which wheat and rye germ is eaten now goes by the name vitamin B complex. A diet rich in this vitamin protects against pellagra, beriberi, and various neuralgic pains. It is of some service in overcoming constipation. It promotes growth. It is greatly needed by people of child-bearing age and by young babies. In one babies' hospital they give very young babies a milk mixture in which wheat germ has been suspended.

In addition, the Coolidge porridge is rich in calories. It is an economical food. Let me assure mothers that there is no evidence that it causes any one to be backward in talking.

HOW MUCH WATER?

Miss S. R. D. writes:

1. How many glasses of water should one drink a day if engaged in a sedentary occupation?
2. Is water fattening?
3. Can it help to keep one slender?
4. Why is it highly recommended by beauty technicians?
5. Does drinking large quantities of water ever do harm?

REPLY.

1. Say five a day, though much depends on how much soup, coffee and milk you get and something depends on the amount of moisture in the air.
2. No.
3. No.
4. Possibly because drinking an abundance of water tends to prevent constipation.
5. Yes. People with heart and kidney disease limit their drinking to prevent being water logged. Some think that epileptics do better if they do not drink much water.

TILDEN WINNER OVER KOZELUH IN STRAIGHT SETS

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Mr. Tilden, the pro, looking much as he did when he was William T. Tilden 2d, the amateur, folded up in a big plush chair, heaved one long, bony leg over the other and said, said he: "Well, now, I don't feel that I have undergone any change in turning professional, not that I meant to say that I played tennis for profit as an amateur, but because the mental attitude is what counts.

"I will play professional tennis with the same feeling that I played the amateur game, and I can say that I have known amateur players whose attitude was far more professional than the attitude of some pros."

In the next room there was a lawyer representing Karel Kozeluh, the Czechoslovakian pro, who is to be one of Mr Tilden's opponents in their professional tour which started in New York tonight and will go on and on—until the bookings run out. Mr. Kozeluh's lawyer was arguing something with Jack Curley, the promoter of wrestling bouts and fights.

Mr. Curley came out for a minute with a dew on his pink brow, which seems to run all the way up and over to the back of his neck, as he is practically hairless except around the ears.

WRESTLING IN WHITE PANTS

"Lawyers and contracts and articles of agreement to settle the championship," said he. "Tennis is just wrestling in white pants."

"I was saying," said Mr. Tilden, "that the whole squabble about the technical difference between the amateur and the pro is rather absurd when you consider that if a man goes to the top in any sport, however amateur he may wish to be, he can't help deriving some profit from it. An American pro is an amateur by the European standard."

This may have referred to the European custom of accepting retainers or wages from sporting goods companies, a practice frowned upon in this country not only by the amateur associations in various sports, but also, I believe, by the Federal Trade Commission.

"But," Mr. Tilden continued, "I am aware of one change in things now. When I was an amateur player, it was my idea that the players were under no obligations to the public or the customers or whatever you want to call them. We were players deciding a championship for no more reward than a cup, and I know I didn't give a damn for the public."

Mr. Tilden's language is pleasantly informal, and he seems to have changed character with his change of status. He always seemed rather austere, rather "Whom have I the honor of being addressed by?" and a little bit conscious of being on the defensive side of a controversy, in those amateur days. Now he is easy and frank and gay, and he does more helling and damning than I had expected.

TILDEN NOW GAY AND FRANK

"But," he went on, "now I go out on the courts realizing that I owe the public a hard fight, good tennis and a show.

"I know people used to think I staged some of my finishes, letting an opponent make trouble for me for a while and then closing with a spectacular windup. Some of those matches went that way, but it was because I was trying to save myself. My idea is to win as easily as possible, and sometimes I have made the mistake of allowing my opponent to make trouble for me. Then I have had to call on that hard concentration that brings every ounce of energy into the fight to win. It may seem silly to say that a long match is easier to win than a short one, but the difference is just the difference between——"

"Between a long walk and a quarter-mile race," said Mr. Frank Hunter, another devotee of this habit-forming game, who is so bound to it that he is leaving his string of suburban newspapers temporarily to turn pro and go on tour with Tilden and Kozeluh.

"Yes, that's about the difference," Mr. Tilden said.

"Now, Little Bill Johnston used to go out to blow his man off the court. He concentrated from the start and didn't let down until the match was over."

"Oh, Bill," Mr. Curley's round face appeared in the door again, troubled and moist. "Bill, will you come in and talk to this fellow about——"

Mr. Tilden went in to talk to Kozeluh's lawyers, and some other people began to talk about Kozeluh.

"The eatingest man in sport," said one. "When Curley starts paying the dining car checks for this fellow he will think he is back with his wrestlers. Ten meals a day and he runs his fat off on the courts." Mr. Kozeluh, whom the tennis people speak of as a strange person, possibly the greatest player of all, has always been

C. U. Ringmen Score Five Knockouts

St. John's Outclassed by 6 to 1 Margin; 2,200 Crowd.

De Pasquale, Blasi Stop Foes; Others Technical.

A GATHERING OF 2,200 fight fans journeyed to Brookland Gymnasium last night to witness the boxing match between Catholic University leather pushers and those representing St. John's, of Annapolis. The home team won, six matches to one, and in turning in its one-sided victory showed that practically every member of its team packed dynamite in his glove.

Five of the Catholic triumphs were scored via the knockout route, two actually ending with sleep-producing wallops and three technical "K. O.'s" being awarded by the referee in order to save the beaten Johnnies unnecessary punishment.

Johnnie Battlers Game To Core.

Although the inexperienced Johnnies were beaten badly, they showed plenty of gameness and in every bout battled to the finish. This was especially true in the unlimited class bout in which Danny Pyne, of C. U., earned a decision over Johnny Joh. Pyne hit Joh with everything but the ring posts, but the Johnny kept coming in for more and was on his feet putting up a stiff battle at the finish.

Ed Williams was another Johnny who showed he was game to the core. Matched against Capt. Rocco Blasi in the 160-pound class, he was sent down for counts of 7, 8, 1 and 7 in the first round, but weathered the gale only to go down again early in the second. The referee awarded Blasi a technical knockout, but even then Williams was ready to continue.

In addition to Blasi's knockout, the other was credited to Johnny DePasquale, while technical ones were awarded to Joe Unsworth, Basil Maravelias and Frank Stines, in each case in the third round.

Ed Lotz gave the Johnnies their only victory when he gained a decision over Johnny Lyons in the 175-pound class.

115-POUND CLASS—Joe Unsworth (C. U.) defeated Bob Beckerman, by technical knockout in second round.

125-POUND CLASS—John DePasquale (C. U.) defeated Ralph Baynard, by knockout in first round.

135-POUND CLASS—Basil Maravelias (C. U.) defeated Tony Susoni, by technical knockout in third round.

145-POUND CLASS—Frank Stines (C. U.) defeated Lou Collazzo, by technical knockout in third round.

160-POUND CLASS—Rocco Blasi (C. U.), defeated Ed Williams, by knockout in second round.

175-POUND CLASS—Ed Lotz (St. John's) defeated Johnny Lyons, by decision.

UNLIMITED CLASS—Bennie Pyne (C. U.) defeated John Joh, by decision.

Babe Ruth Shoots 71 For Amateur Record

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Babe Ruth, the well-known golfer, broke the course amateur record for the season at the Jungle Club today when he turned in a snappy 71, two above par. The Babe went out in a par 34, but in spite of two birdies on the second nine, was two over par with 37.

His birdies came on the fourteenth, which is par 5 for 505 yards, and on the seventeenth, which is par 5 for 471 yards. Playing with him were Edmund Guggenheim and Bob Rothefeld, of New York, and Gene Tomly, of Chicago.

Jones and Golden Held to Draw in Charity Golf Play

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Sweet charity won the decision here today as Bobby Jones came out of retirement to pair with John Golden and play Gene Sarazen and Horton Smith to an eighteen-hole deadlock in a four-ball match. In his first public exhibition since his parting from amateur golf last November, Jones joined Golden, the Connecticut cash player, against the new professional team, Smith and Sarazen, for the benefit of relief work sponsored by the Atlanta Junior League.

It was a typical tournament scene here today as some 3,000 of Bob's home folks came out to see him play around with his friends of the monied ranks on the No. 1 course at East Lake here.

Although Bobby sank a difficult 15-foot putt for a birdie three on the sixteenth which sent his side into the lead until the final hole, it was the plump Mr. Golden who drew most of the plaudits.

Jones visited the traps on several occasions, picked up twice and missed enough putts to win a tournament, while Golden executed great approaches and holed tricky carpet shots to keep the Golden-Jones team on level.

Burgess in Star Role for Colonials With 13 Points.

BEATING off a team just as fast and practically as potent once the ball was let go in the direction of the hoop, George Washington University's basket ball team defeated St. John's, of Annapolis, last night in the Colonial Gym by the score of 30 to 26. The game took its place alongside of the Randolph-Macon game last month as the two finest court events staged in the H street gym this year.

The race was shoulder to shoulder from the starting blocks to the tape. No more than 5 points ever separated the clubs. Five times the score was tied. The lead changed five times.

Burgess, MacCartel Shine.

The fate of the two teams lay in the shooting hands of two of the greatest scholastic stars ever to play in Washington—Forrest Burgess, of the Colonials, and Bob MacCartee, of the invaders. Their play last night was smooth beyond the desires of an avaricious coach.

Burgess, it was, who gave G. W. its first advantage, 7-6, early in the game and a comfortable lead of 17-14 just before the half closed. Burgess it was, too, who, with two minutes to play and the Johnnies storming the G. W. basket, broke loose for a lightning dribble down the floor, an exchange of passes with Jack Conner, and then dropped in a left-handed snowbird to give G. W. a lead of 30-25. Carpenter's foul shot, just before the end, altered the score slightly.

Lone British Woman Wins in Florida Golf

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Diana Fishwick, alone, carried England's colors into the semifinals of the Florida women's golf championship here today.

The slender British star, playing brilliantly on the fairways and with clock-like precision on the greens, defeated Mrs. H. T. Sterrett, Hutchinson, Kans., 3 and 2, in their quarter-final match.

Ward New Chairman Of Davis Cup Group

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Holcombe Ward, of New York, former Davis Cup player, today was named chairman of the 1931 Davis Cup and international play committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. Ward succeeds Joseph E. Wear, of Philadelphia, who resigned because of pressure of his business.

Wear was retained as a member of the committee, however, together with eight other members of the 1930 committee. Fitz-Eugene Dixon, of Philadelphia, captain of the Untied States team last year, also was renamed.

Tourney Mark Stands In Masonic Bowling

None of the six teams which rolled last night in the second round of the thirteenth annual Masonic duckpin tournament now in progress at the Convention Hall alleys, approached the high scores compiled by the outfits which bowled the opening session. Congress shot the highest total last night, a 1,645 effort, with Lafayette No. 2 coming in second by virtue of its 1,632 total. Lafayette No. 1 was third with 1,611.

Red Megaw, rolling with the Lafayette No. 1 outfit, was the individual star of the night. His 370 set and 134 game both were high.

Five Pitchers Ordered to Biloxi

Nats' Owner Changes Plans; Four Leave Tomorrow.

Advance in Exhibition Dates Causes Griffith to Act.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

PRESIDENT CLARK GRIFFITH, vacationing at the Biloxi training camp, "slipped a fast one by" five of his pitchers, as the players say, by suddenly telegraphing Irving Hadley, Carl Fischer, Lynn Griffith, John Peregory and Walter Tauscher to pack up and reach the Mississippi base not later than Saturday night.

As a result of these orders, all of those named above except Tauscher, who will go to Biloxi direct from his home at Rhinelander, Wis., will report here tomorrow morning and entrain for camp under the chaperonage of Trainer Mike Martin and his right-hand man, F. Riley Baxter. They are scheduled to reach their destination in time for dinner Saturday night and to get their first taste of 1931 training on the following day.

Earlier Exhibition Opener Changes Plans.

These changes were decided upon because of four additional training dates added to the exhibition schedule, including the advancement of the opening date to March 13, when the Baltimore Orioles will be entertained. Spring Hill College will be taken on at Biloxi on March 20, while the games scheduled with Louisville at Mobile for March 21 and 22 have been shifted to Biloxi. An additional contest listed March 23 with Baltimore at Gulfport has been added, making twenty preseason fracases in all.

That Hadley was among the five ordered to report early shows that the Nat owner is going to make good his guarantee that he will have the Lynn big boy in tiptop shape by the time the season starts. Hadley has so much stuff that he should be particularly effective in the spring, before the opposing batters have their eyes sharpened, and both Griffith and Manager Johnson are determined to have him ready to go at top speed when the opening gong rings.

Bennies May Clinch League Title Tonight

The Benjamin Franklin Bennies have the championship of the Washington Collegiate Basket Ball Conference in their grasp tonight as they take the court at Tech High at 8:30 o'clock against Columbus. Already well out in front of the other clubs, with six wins and no defeats to their credit, a win tonight can put the Bennies even out of mathematical reach of the others.

The preliminary, starting at 7:30 o'clock, brings together two fast outfits in the Griffith-Consumers and the United Typewriter five.

Thompson, Navy, Sets College Tank Record

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Ray Thompson, Baltimore middie, shattered two Naval Academy records, a national collegiate record and aided in setting another Navy mark today, as the Navy tankmen defeated Rutgers, 42 to 29.

Thompson accounted for 12 points, five for first place in both the 50 and 100 dashes and 2 more for sharing the 8 counters won in the relay. In setting a new national collegiate record of 23.1 seconds for the 50-yard dash, he came within one-tenth of a second of equaling the world's best recognized time.

In the 100-yard dash, Thompson was matched with George Kojac, star of the Rutgers team and until today undefeated for two seasons, led by almost a yard at the finish, and put a new record of 53.2 seconds on the books.

Navy won the water polo game, 66-20.

BAN JOHNSON FAILING.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—The condition of Ban Johnson, former president of the American League, continued very serious tonight. A blood transfusion will be performed tomorrow, his physician, Dr. Robert F. Hyland, announced.

NEITHER Columbus nor Lief Ericsson was the first to discover America. An obscure navigator, Bjarni Herjulfsson, who called Iceland his native country, sighted the American continent in 987, which was 505 years before the three tiny boats of Columbus reached the Indies. Herjulfsson's discovery of the new world was quite accidental and unintentional, however. He sailed from Iceland in the spring of 987 bound for Greenland to see his father who had migrated to that country with Eric the Red. Running into a persistent spell of rain, Herjulfsson soon lost his direction. A short time later he was surprised to sight a broad expanse of low, flat land, quite unlike the snow-capped mountainous country he had expected to see. This discoverer of the American continent did not take the trouble to land and investigate the strange shores, but instead turned the prow of his boat about and headed in the direction of Greenland, where, with favorable weather, he arrived some time later. Leif, the son of Eric the Red, set sail in the year 1000, thirteen years later, to verify the discovery. He sighted the same land described by Herjulfsson, calling it Helluland (now Labrador). Ericsson continued farther south to a more wooded country which he called Markland (now Newfoundland), and finally landed at Vinland, near which place he spent the winter.

AMERICAN U. EXTENDS NAVY

Eagles Lead, 15 to 6, at Half, But Lose by 30-25 Score.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 18.—American University, of Washington, led Navy by a decisive margin in the first half of their court game here today, but crumpled in the second period as the Middies suddenly unleashed a brilliant offensive led by Elliott Loughlin and won, 30 to 25.

With Colison, running guard for American, finding the cords with deadly accuracy, American stepped away midway in the first half in a style which left the Navy in the wake to the extent of 15-6. It was a splendid drive on the part of the invaders, who went into the game the recognized underdogs by many degrees.

Kastein, Bowstrom and Bedell, Navy regulars, were put in the game at the start of the American spurt, but could do nothing to check the crisp passing of the visitors nor the sterling shooting of Colison.

The expulsion of Reds Olsen, hub of American's passing attack, from the game on account of personals cracked the American streak shortly after the half. Navy began functioning on all five cylinders in short order, and produced in Loughlin a basket marksman as spectacular as he was consistent. Quickly Navy steamed pass American, and held a 28-19 lead with but two minutes to play, when Navy's reserves took up the reins.

C. U. Postpones Indoor Meet Until March 14

The second annual Catholic University indoor track meet will be staged on Saturday night, March 14, instead of March 7, Dorsey Griffith, track coach of the Cardinals, announced last night. The earlier date conflicted with both the Intercollegiate and the South Conference meets. The change is expected to boost considerably the number of entries in the local games.

Catholic U. Battles Baltimore Here Tonight

Catholic University's fluctuating basket ball team entertains a presentable foe in Baltimore University tonight at the Brookland Gym.

The Cards must put their best foot forward tonight if a win is anticipated. The Baltimoreans have threatened off and on all year to come through but have not made good their promise in notable fashion.

It will be the second appearance here this year of B. U., having succumbed to Georgetown early in the season by the score 38 to 27.

Two Unbeaten Teams On Boys' Club Program

One of the most attractive basket ball bills ever offered Washington cage fans will be on tap Saturday night at the Boys Club when a pair of bang-up attractions between stellar teams will be played.

The Boys Club quintet will strive for this twenty-second consecutive victory at the expense of the Richmond Y. M. C. A., of Richmond, Va., in the first of these battles, while another unbeaten outfit, the Saks Clothiers, will tangle with the Eastern High School team, coholder of the school title, in the second engagement. The first game will get under way at 7:30, and the second one hour later.

Dancing will follow the twin bill. A nominal admission price of 35 cents will be charged, which will include both games and dance.

GASMEN TOP TITLE PIN TEAMS

1,544 Total High for Night; Barnard in Singles Lead.

TWO 345 sets by Sam Corcoran and Astor Clarke enabled the Washington Gas Light Team to compile a 1,534 and to carry off high scoring honors in the third night's play in the United States duckpin championships which was staged last night at Convention Hall.

Second place went to the Western Union outfit, with a 1,540 aggregate, and third to the East Washington Church League quintet, with 1,514.

C. Barnard topped the singles last night with a 356 effort. Twenty-three pins behind him came W. Lawrence and S. Simon, who tied for second.

Instead of leading the women's division of the title tourney with a 1,405, as announced Tuesday night, the Eastern Star quintet is only second, with 1,395. A check-up on the totals revealed this fact yesterday. First place instead is held down by the Alexandria Health Quintet, of Alexandria, with 1,403.

14,000 See Big Bill at Best Form in Garden Match.

Hunter and Pare Are Chased for Delaying Program.

By FOSTER HAILEY

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—William T. Tilden, author, actor and professional tennis player, defeated Karel Kozeluh, of Czechoslovakia, world's professional champion, in straight sets in their much ballyhooed tennis match here tonight. The scores were 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

The little Czech, acclaimed by many the finest stroking player in the game, was no match for Big Bill, who was blazing away with all his old, blinding speed.

A crowd of 14,000 gave Tilden a great ovation as he sent an ace spinning across the net to tip the white cloth sideline and end the match and then ran to the net to shake hands with his victim.

Sprinkling of Stiff Shirts.

There was a plentiful sprinkling of stiff shirts in the front rows at the Garden, facing the green cloth court which had been stretched across the concrete floor. In the main, the crowd was as well mannered as any that ever filled the stadium at Forest Hills, but again they broke forth in cheers during the progress of some of the prolonged rallies—an unpardonable breach of tennis gallery etiquette.

The lapses from grace brought no devastating scowls from Mr. Tilden tonight. He was earning his bread and butter instead of chasing a Davis Cup, and he committed no overt acts toward those who furnished those necessaries.

The first two games were probably the most exciting of the 28 that were played, the first one being deuced twice before Kozeluh finally broke through to win his own service. After the close second game, however, it was only the games when Kozeluh was serving that furnished any excitement, Big Bill not losing a service and frequently taking his service without loss of a point.

Hunter and Pare Chased.

Francis T. Hunter, of New York, for many years America's second ranking amateur tennis player, defeated Emmet Pare, of Chicago, 6—2, in the first set of a match started prior to the Tilden-Kozeluh battle. The second set was at 5-all when Hunter and Pare were waved to the sidelines to make way for the main attraction. They had started fifteen minutes behind schedule, and when the match was called already had delayed the entrance of the great men ten minutes.

The crowd was announced as 14,000 and the receipts $37,000.

Tilden and Hunter, the old Davis Cup partnership, defeated Kozeluh and Pare in a doubles match concluding the evening's entertainment in two straight sets. The scores were 9—7, and 6—4.

The meeting between Tilden and Kozeluh tonight was not their first. They frequently have practiced together and last April at Beaulieu, France, Tilden defeated the European master, 6—4, 6—4, 4—6, in a three-set exhibition match.

Large D. C. Delegation To See Tilden Match

That Washington will send a strong representation to the renewal of the Tilden-Kozeluh duel at Carlin's Park in Baltimore tonight was evinced yesterday by the sharp rise in the sale of tickets at Spalding's and the Tennis Shop. The railroads will run a special excursion to the Monumental City this evening with a $1.50 round trip fare.

Washington's official life will be well represented tonight in the boxes lining the canvas court. Mr. Ferdinand Veverka, Minister from Czechoslovakia, is among the boxholders, who will see Kozeluh, a native of Czechoslovakia, attempt to even up matters with Tilden.

The first match tonight starts at 8:15 o'clock and features Frank Hunter and Emmett Pare, former Georgetown court captain. Tilden and Kozeluh come second on the card, while the finale sees Tilden and Hunter combining to meet Kozeluh and Pare in doubles.

Tickets will be on sale in Washington today until noon.

Smallwood-Barry Ready For "He-Night" Feature

BOTH Joe Smallwood and Reds Barry, scheduled to square off at each other in one of the two feature bouts on the Rockville He-Night boxing card Saturday night, issued statements yesterday to the effect that little short of mayhem would be meted out to the other.

Smallwood was the more loquacious: "I stopped Buster Newberry in four rounds in Roanoke, and Newberry went the limit with Barry. I saw Barry slap and hook at Schwartz at Fort Washington, and all I want is Barry to meet me the same way and—he's going out like a light."

Billy Schwartz and Joe Glazier, the other featured mittmen on the fight card, are training hard for their bout.

The battle royal will see twelve colored fighters mixing matters in a wild melee.

Tickets are on sale at the Fairway Sport Shop at $2, $3 and $5 per pasteboard.

BOXING GAME GOES COLLEGIATE IN SOUTH

Few Centers Where Pros Prosper

3,000 to 6,000 Fans See Dual Meets of Colleges.

Mat Activity Hinders Boxing Groups in Southwest.

(This is another of a series dealing with boxing conditions throughout the country.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—The Solid South, where the late Tex Rickard dreamed of establishing a winter boxing paradise, has gone strictly collegiate as far as the nostril nudgers are concerned.

There's a dab here and there of interest in the professional maulers and wrestling is creeping steadily southward just as it is making inroads everywhere else. Georgia rides hard and close to the banner of young Bill Stribling, the South's fistic hero of the day, just as it exulted in the far-flung victories of Bobby Jones.

College Boxers Have Big Following.

Add Warren, the big collegian who came out of North Carolina to tackle heavyweights, has his following, and there is sectional interest in other lesser lights. But for genuine home-grown fighting interest, the crowds and enthusiasm, the South turns solidly to the warriors of the big universities.

Intercollegiate boxing has reached a plane below the Mason and Dixon line such as no other section of the country can challenge. It is not unusual for the dual meets of Duke, North Carolina, Virginia, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Western Maryland, Tulane, Vanderbilt and others to draw crowds of 3,000 to 6,000.

Boxing is hampered throughout the South by laws in many States prohibiting "prize fighting." New Orleans does fairly well with the professionals and about a dozen matches a year in Atlanta average about $4,000 each in receipts.

Florida Fight Blossom Now Fading.

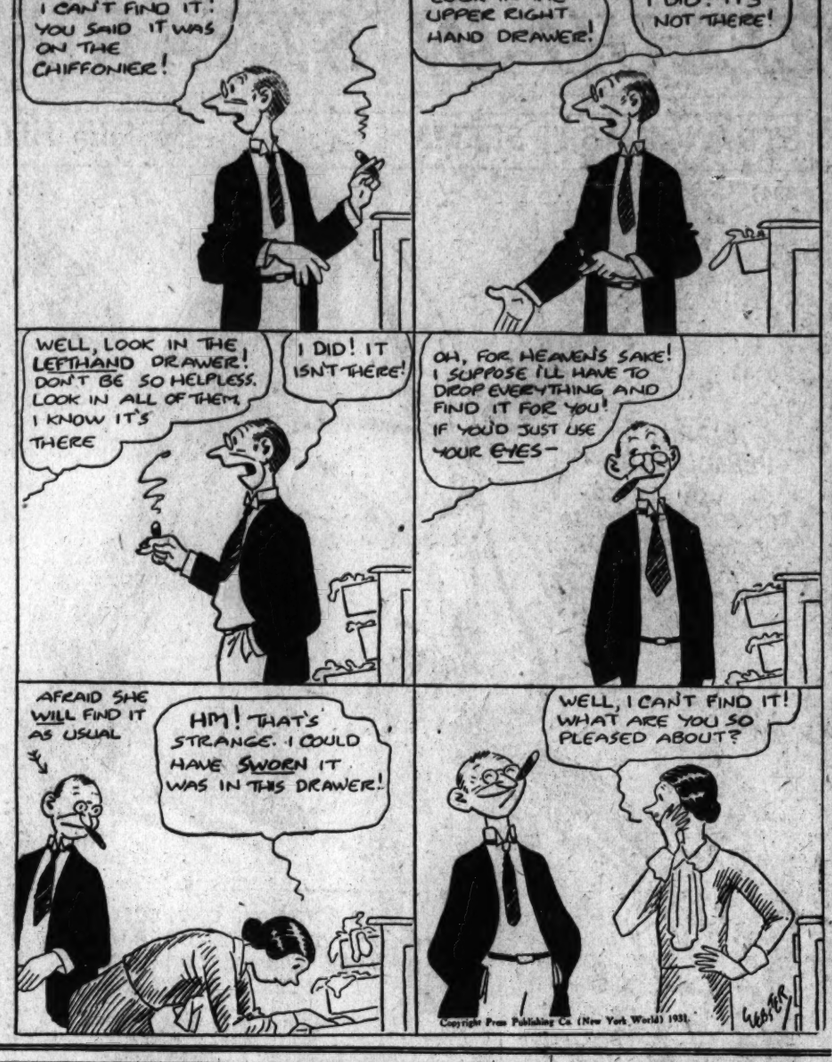
Florida, where Rickard saw unlimited opportunities for winter fight promotion, blossomed for a time and then faded. The area has been rented to Frank Bruen for a Jimmy Maloney-Primo Carnera match next month and "Pa" Stribling, father of the Macon pride, will offer Mickey Walker and Johnny Risko in opposition in the same park earlier in the month.

Farther South, and spreading to the westward into the stronghold of wrestling, professional boxing has run into straitened circumstances.

The game has been outlawed in Texas and once the rangers hear of a bootleg show, they hustle out to put a stop to it. Ross Sterling, new governor of the State, favors the game, but will enforce the laws so long as they remain on the books. As a result promoters who lean toward the fistic art lose money, while wrestling flourishes all over the broad State.

Some of the Texas talent has migrated to Oklahoma, where gate receipts are holding up fairly well at Tulsa. Lack of cards bothers promoters in the oil State.

How to Torture Your Wife —By H. T. Webster



Boots and Saddles

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Miami Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

THE Himyar Purse for 3-year-olds, at 6 furlongs, an allowance race, features the Hialeah Park card this afternoon, with an even dozen horses engaged. The best of these seems to be HALF DAY, son of John P. Grier, which, on his last appearance, finished third to General A. HALF DAY carries the silks of George D. Widener and will be ridden by Eaby.

Otto Rorrell's GILDED ARCH figures to finish second. He was timed in his winning race last Friday in 1:12, but is conceding two pounds to HALF DAY. The race seems to be between the two. ALBAZANO may get third money, but a longer route would benefit the Nevada Stock Farm colt. WEATHERPROOF, making his first start since his sensational victory at Bowie last fall, might surprise.

FIRST RACE — ONRITA, by Sweep On, ran a sparkling race behind Mynheer last week, and may get the first money in this affair. She closed fast in the stretch, and finished in front of Upsweep and other good ones. ROSEVOLT should be the contender. She has been in the money many times, and always has backing. LADY MESSENGER, which ran second yesterday, should hold the others safe if she starts back again.

SECOND RACE—SUN PLEASURE is picked to win. A fortnight ago he was third to Kayo and Don Red, the three being heads apart at the wire. G. D. Widener has two well-bred juveniles in the race which have been working well. HALOED ran a good race, but LOW GIRL, daughter of John P. Grier, of this entry, is making her first start. It is probable the entry will get as good as second money. VACARRIENDO, third in a smart field last time out, may again get the show money.

THIRD RACE—FLYING CHEROKEE is selected in the third. While unplaced in his last start, he was second to Little Tooth in his previous race and will have RAMUS to beat. The latter was third to San Presto Monday, and is fit. QUACKER is a dangerous horse in this field. But he seems to be below his best form.

FOURTH RACE—TOM BOY has a chance in the fourth race, having been up against better horses, and has rounded into form. HEILBROUN should be the contender. OJIBWAY is a fast sprinter, and will figure in the race

SIXTH RACE—WHISP is selected to defeat GRACIOUS GIFT in the sixth race. WHISP was second to Tony Joe last out, and was second to Jean Lafitte previous to that. GRACIOUS GIFT won his last race, and was second to Prometheus in his start previous to that, which races make him appear very dangerous. He will be the favorite. ALCMAN also will figure in the race. He won his last start, beating Princess Tokalon but it seems he is outclassed in this.

SEVENTH RACE—AURICA should take the seventh race, throwing out his last effort, which was dismal. In his two previous starts he was in the money. STORM SIGNAL should be close up. His last two races were good. BAKED ALASKA is entitled to consideration on his last start, when he finished third to Perkins. He went wide in that race, and was away slowly.

Entries for Post Basket Ball Tourney Close February 27

A. A. U. Teams Play Title Games at Tech Gym.

WITH only nine days remaining before the entry lists close for the fifth annual A. A. U. championship basket ball tournament which The Washington Post is staging in cooperation with the District Association, the yearly rush to get in under the wire has begun. Team managers, eager to get their charges in line for the one big basket ball event of the season here, are busy these days completing the registration of their players and checking up on their team entry blanks.

Since The Post first brought A. A. U. play to teams in Washington and the vicinity, there has been a steady rise in the number of entries. The high water mark was reached last year when 89 teams competed at the Tech High Gymnasium.

The same ideal playing conditions that prevailed last year are again available. The Tech High Gym, where the annual high school series is staged, is the best equipped for basket ball in this section, offering ample room for spectators and allowing the players freedom of action on the regulation court.

The Mitchell brothers, Joe and Orrell, and Tommy Ford, who have handled every tournament game for five years will again be in charge of the boys' and men's classes, assuring the same high class of officiating that has marked other tournaments. The girls' and women's games will be handled by those officials who have been rated by the rating committee of the District of which Helen B. Lawrence is chairman.

Every amateur team in the District and vicinity is eligible to compete. Team entry blanks and registration blanks are available at The Post sports department and members of the staff will aid team managers in completing entries. The last date for entering is midnight on February 27, which is a week from tomorrow.

LATONA ACE OF WESTERN VICTORY

Episcopal High Five Beaten, 42 to 26; Buscher Aids.

WESTERN HIGH gymnasium resounded to the sounds of two corking basket ball games yesterday as the varsity beat Episcopal High, of Alexandria, 42-26, and the reserves gained revenge on the St. Alban's A. C., 28-26.

The varsity took matters too lightly at the start of the second quarter and before many minutes had passed the Episcopal outfit had gained its best strides and all but tied the score at 23-19 at the half, after trailing 17-7 easily in the game.

Episcopal went on in the third quarter in its best form, and mostly through the shooting of Hancock and McDonald brought the score to 26-27, with Western holding but a lone point advantage.

Here Episcopal shot its bolt, failing to score in the last period as the big guns of Western started to pepper the blackboard. When Coach Moore took Tony Latona from the game near the end, the Lanky forward had already found the cords for 16 points, while Buscher procured 12.

SLIGHT GAINS NOTED IN PRICE OF STOCKS

Motor Accessories Forge Up Consistently While Foods Jump.

EARLY FLARE DAMPENED

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Another early flare-up in stocks was dampened by realizing today, but this time the market had enough vitality to stiffen in the late trading, and prices closed somewhat higher, although well below the day's top.

Bullish activity during the forenoon rally was somewhat restrained, nor was the rush to take profits as pronounced as on Tuesday. The result was a sharp decrease in turnover, sales approximating 2,500,000 shares, against 4,000,000 in the previous session.

Reports that steel production had maintained an advance for the eighth consecutive week and that automobile manufacturers were increasing their schedules probably represented a reasonable basis for an advance in shares of companies affected by such mildly encouraging news. Foods and utilities also looked up, the latter in sympathy with smaller decline reported in electric power production as reported for last week. With the copper trade talking 10¼-cent metal, stocks of leading producers were stimulated. Rails and oils were dull.

Belated Response Made.

American Can made a belated response to its 1930 earnings report and rushed up 4¼ points to a new 1931 high. It lost half the rise. U. S. Steel said 2¼ points net higher, but yielded all but a fraction of its gain. Westinghouse halved a 4-point advance. In the utilities there was net improvement of 1 to 1½ in American Telephone, American Water, Foreign Power, Electric Power & Light, Consolidated Gas, National Power & Light and Public Service of New Jersey.

The motor accessories forged ahead consistently. Borg Warner, Briggs & Murray advanced 1 to 2 net. Foods did equally well, especially National Biscuit, General Foods, Penick & Ford and Loose Wiles. Some of the violent performers among the specialties were a little more sober. Auburn's extreme gain of 8 was succeeded by a loss of nearly 8, and it closed fractionally lower. Case lost a 5-point advance. General Asphalt came to the fore with a 6-point rally in response to the favorable outcome of its royalty suit against Royal Dutch.

Rise in Steel Work.

The rise in steel operations was variously estimated at from 1 to 3 per cent, with the automobile plants accounting for a good part of the gain. Iron Age, estimating activity at 31 per cent of capacity, said sentiment had improved, although it was unwilling to put too optimistic an interpretation on the spurt in automotive demand, pointing out that there was doubt as to whether this was "merely a flash in the pan" or the beginning of a general recovery in the motor car industry. Steel said the gains in the last two months might be decisive in determining second quarter prices.

President Hoover's statement to the Senate on the bonus was followed by firming tendencies in U. S. Government securities, which closed with small advances. The tone of the entire bond market improved, especially in the rail division, which responded to savings bank buying.

Buying from the Far East and hopes for a settlement of the Indian difficulties sent cotton to new highs for the movement and futures rose 90 cents to $1.05 net. Wheat was quiet and steady, closing virtually unchanged, but a bearish weather forecast and a weak cash market caused corn to sell off fractionally.

A small decline in sterling marred an otherwise firm foreign exchange list. Shanghai continued to gain with the small rise in bar silver.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Bearish domestic crop reports and pressure upon elevators to furnish storage space for wheat landed to bring about lower prices today, although further handlings of upturns was scant export demand for North American wheat. Reassuring advices from Australia would not be a large exporter of wheat jed to price rallies of only a transient nature.

Wheat closed irregular, ¼ cent lower to a shade up, corn ⅛ to ⅜ down, oats at a shade decline to ⅛ gain, and provisions 2 cents to 7 cents off.

Persistent selling by elevator interests that were holders of May contracts did much to depress wheat. Support was taken also of selling to put late corn new arrivals of wheat here in this connection. Primary receipts of wheat totaled 1,311,000 bushels, were considerably larger than a week ago and almost double the total last year.

Much interest was shown in first-hand reports to the Grain Analysis Club of Chicago that although the acreage was the record yield per acre, wheat shipments from Russia would probably not be forced further by the unwilling market. It was stated that if the entire Russian population had all they wanted to eat there would be no surplus. It was contrary to general belief that the cheapest production in Russia was on small individual farms. Mainly operated, rather than on large trust farms completely mechanized and industrially operated. When the Russian five-year plan was accomplished, it was said, the reports said, Russia would not be a large exporter of wheat.

Nervous price changes in wheat within a range of 6 cent, but averaging lower governed corn and oats. Falling off in the volume of corn arrivals in Chicago to 1,134 cars, compared with 1,262 the time last year, was partly offset by primary receipts totaling 1,208,000 bushels against 885,000 a week ago.

Provisions reflected a drop in hog values.

BONDS STIMULATED AFTER MILD RALLY

Upturn of Governments on Good Buying Volume Puzzles Traders.

AUSTRALIAN ISSUES FALL

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—After traveling slowly down hill since the first of the week, the bond market moved forward in low gear today, apparently heartened by the the mild rally of United States Governments.

Traders were a little hazy as to the upturn in governments on a good volume of buying unless the issues had been oversold, for the Senate demonstrated it would push the House soldiers' bonus bill through when the finance committee reported it favorably. An easier tone in the money market may have accounted for the action of the governments.

Libertys were dull and just a trifle higher, but long term Treasurys were buoyant in the late trading and advanced on an average of ¼ of a point with the exception of Treasury 4s, up 3-32ds.

Prime domestic bonds attracted support from banks and on the whole gave the best performance of the week, advancing fractionally all along the line. Atchison General 4s made a new year's high and among the issues actively in demand at higher prices were Chesapeake & Ohio general 4½s Big Four 4½s, Nickel Plate 4½s, which were up 1⅜ in a large turnover; Southern Pacific 4s, New Haven 3½s and Union Pacific 4s. Some of the infrequently traded issues moved up a point or more. Cuba Railroad first 8s gained 3⅞.

Utilities were quiet and firm. Transfers in Buffalo General Electric 4½s were large at the year's peak price. Utah Power & Light 5s gained ½ and Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania 5s C were strong. Oils were narrowly irregular. Shell Union bonds reacted a point each and Sinclair about the same. Texas 5s were firm.

The abrupt declines in Australian bonds stood out in the foreign section.

Due to the economic conditions in that country, government and provincial issues have been under pressure since the first of the year. Australian 5s and 4½s lost more than 2 points each. New South Wales 5s of 1957 reacted 5¼, and the 5s of 1958 yielded more than a point. Queensland State 7s and 6s lost 2 and 3 points respectively.

Curb Review

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—The curb market closed moderately higher today, although an upturn during the morning encountered considerable resistance as the session wore on, and final prices were substantially under the day's best.

The Electric Bond & Share group was bid up substantially, only to lose most of its advance. Concerted strength in these shares on both the curb and "big board" attracted considerable attention, but was generally attributed to professional bullish activity rather than to any new corporate developments. Electric Bond & Share closed ¾ of a point higher, after recording an extreme gain of 1¾. Advance of 1 point in American and Foreign Power Warrants and 2 in American Gas & Electric were almost cancelled.

Considerable activity developed in some of the low-priced specialties, with De Forest Radio heavily traded. It rose 1½ points to 6¼ and closed at 5¾, with a turnover of 41,000 shares or close to 10 per cent of the day's entire transactions of 420,000 shares on this market. This issue has attracted attention since the recent judicial decision in the radio tube patent pool case. Zonite sold up a point in response to an optimistic estimate of current earnings. Crocker Wheeler advanced about as much. In the higher-priced issues, Mead Johnson was a strong feature, rallying 5 points. Swift International gained nearly 2 in response to its 1930 earnings statement.

Oils were steady to firm. Gulf advanced a point, Vacuum and Indiana closed up minor fractions, while Cities Service yielded slightly. Coppers firmed momentarily. Newmont and Noranda selling up about a point, only to sell off later. In the investment trusts, Ungerleider gained 4 and Blue Ridge preferred 1.

Plea for Cable Office Planned.

Amoy, China, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—The closing of the Amoy and Foochow offices of two foreign cable companies February 13 has caused such a handicap to business that consular officials were said today to be contemplating requests to the Nationalist government to reopen negotiations for resumption of cable business.

Questions Asked In Rise of Auburn

Gyrations of Automobile Stock Is Viewed by Exchange Heads.

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—It was reported in Wall street brokerage circles today that the New York Stock Exchange has sent questionnaires to some brokers and interrogated others regarding the market gyrations in Auburn Automobile common stock.

Official comment from the exchange was unavailable, although exchange officials have recently let it be known that they are scrutinizing current bullish activity in the market as closely as they kept tabs on the bears last autumn.

While there have been rumors from time to time of a technical corner in the issue, brokers pointed out that shorts have had no difficulty in borrowing the stock.

EDUCATION BOARD DECIDES TO ADMIT OUTSIDE TEACHERS

Policy, Effective in 1933, Applies to Principals in Elementary Schools.

BALLOU, FOR EARLIER DATE, DISAPPOINTED

Drastic Emergency Relief for Food Apparently Is Not Needed, Report Says.

After receiving an incomplete but encouraging report on the care being given poor children in the District schools, the Board of Education yesterday turned its attention to the question of permitting outsiders to compete for positions as administrative principals in the local elementary schools.

A lengthy discussion culminated in the decision to admit teachers outside the local system after June, 1933. This action was over the desire of Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, who told the board that "it would be a great disappointment to him if the new policy was not made effective immediately."

The reason for postponing the change of policy is to give teachers in the local service an opportunity to complete courses for their bachelor degrees. This qualification is a requirement for an administrative principal. Teachers were advised in June, 1929, that a bachelor degree would be required.

Demand Greater Than Supply.

Dr. Ballou recommended the change of policy because the demand for administrative principals is greater than the supply, he said. The superintendent was defended by Rabbi Abram Simon and Dr. H. B. Learned, acting president of the board.

"There has been too much inbreeding in the local school system," Dr. Simon said. "We need the infusion of new blood."

Henry Gilligan attacked the policy on the grounds that it was unfair to the present teachers, but voted for the motion putting the new policy into effect in 1933, so that local teachers who desire may have the opportunity to compete for the positions.

Others voting for the motion were Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, Dr. J. Hayden Johnson, Mrs. Mary McNeil. The motion was made by Mrs. McNeil. Voting against the motion, and favoring immediate adoption of the policy, were Dr. Simon, the Rev. F. I. A. Bennett and Dr. Learned.

Report on Food Survey.

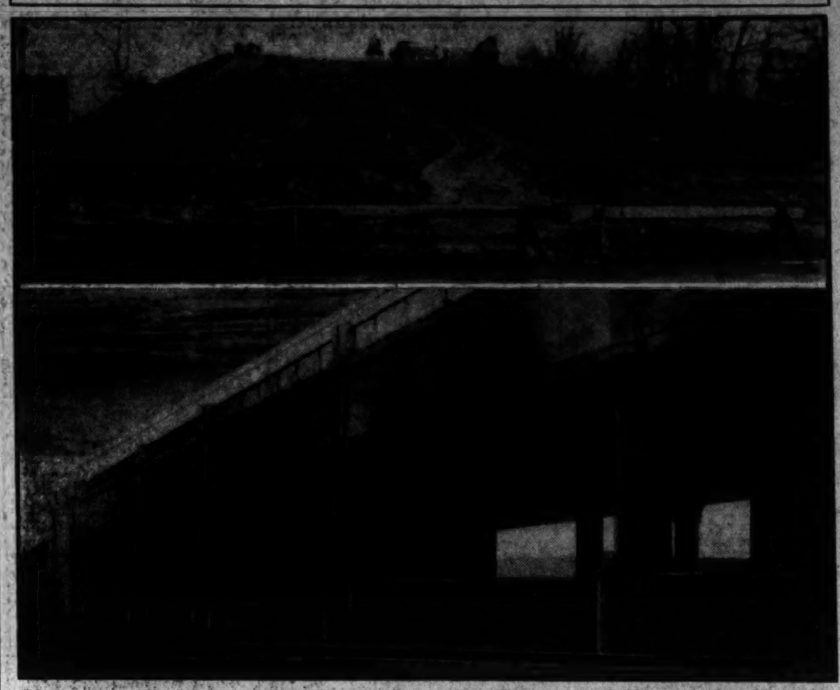
Reports on the food survey have been received from 7 out of 9 supervising principals of elementary schools, 10 out of 12 junior high schools, 5 out of 8 senior high and 1 out of 4 vocational, Dr. Ballou announced.

The superintendent said that if the remaining reports are as encouraging as those already received that there will be no need for drastic emergency relief. "I am confident we will be able to work out a method that will relieve the situation entirely," the superintendent said. He read a letter from the District Congress of Parent-Teacher Associations stating its readiness to conduct any relief work that may be recommended.

Ruling on the question of admitting nonresident pupils to local schools, the corporation counsel advised the board that it should stand by the present law, which permits children of parents employed in the District to attend local schools. Indications were given by Dr. Ballou that he will institute a fight on this ruling at an early date.

The board was informed that bus service for children living in isolated districts can not be continued, as the appropriation for this service will not permit extended service. This includes the bus service for crippled children, which is furnished by the Kiwanis Club. This organization will be notified of the situation. The board recommended that in the meantime the children affected return to the schools they formerly attended, closer to thier homes.

BRIDGE BUILT 23 YEARS AGO TO BE USED NOW



Virtually unused since its erection 23 years ago, the New York Avenue Bridge, spanning the tracks of the Metropolitan Branch of the B. & O. Railroad in Eckington, will be put in readiness now for the flood of traffic that is expected with the completion of the grading of New York avenue through to the Bladensburg road. The approaches of the bridge have never been completed and the bridge has been used mostly by teamsters and trucks operating to several storehouses east of the railroad tracks. It was erected at a cost of $380,000 under the Union Station act of 1907. The upper picture shows the unfinished eastern approach, while lower picture is the bridge proper.

BILL IS INTRODUCED TO PROVIDE MEALS FOR SCHOOL PUPILS

Free Food for Poorly Fed Students in City Is Urged by McLeod.

$30,000 REQUESTED FOR FIRST YEAR OF AID

Physical Examinations Also Stressed for Assisting Undernourished.

Free food would be furnished undernourished school children of Washington under provisions of a bill introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Clarence J. McLeod (Republican), Michigan, vice chairman of the House District committee.

The bill provides an appropriation of $30,000 for the first fiscal year. This appropriation would become available at the beginning of the next fiscal year.

Distribution of food would not be limited to public school pupils but include pupils of private and parochial schools charging no tuition or tuition not in excess of $25 a year.

District Health Officer.

Administration of the distribution would be lodged in the District health officer, under supervision of the District Commissioners.

Physical examination of school children would be made from time to time to determine which were underfed and undernourished and these would be furnished such food as the health officer deemed necessary properly to feed them.

The bill authorizes the health officer to purchase, prepare and distribute such food as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this act in such manner as in his opinion shall be most desirable whether by contract or contracts or otherwise."

$30,000 Figure Named.

The Commissioners would be authorized to appoint "such additional medical inspectors and other employes as may be necessary to perform the duties imposed by this act," and the $30,000 which would be appropriated for the first fiscal year would pay for the salaries of these extra employes as well as for the food.

Representative McLeod has been interested in the question of providing food at public expense for undernourished school children and has been one of those who has given support to John J. Noonan and others interested in the question.

Reduced Fare Bill.

It had been suggested that the proposal might be made an amendment to one or another District measure, perhaps the bill providing for lower fares for school children, but this was not done because such a course would complicate the difficulties of any measure.

The reduced fare bill, incidentally, has been agreed to in conference and that agreement was reported to the House yesterday by its conferees, putting the measure in a position for its final legislative touch. Approval of the conference report and signature by the President is all that is needed to make it law.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

FINANCIAL STATEMENT OF AN AVERAGE AMERICAN.

THE year ended December 31, 1930, showed a marked depreciation in income all along the line and from all sources. Hopes during the early months of 1930 that there would be a gradual improvement were not sustained, and returns for the last quarter were insufficient to cover dividends. Payments to the the milkman, grocer, landlord and coal man were suspended at the close of the quarter.

* * * *

NEW INCOME.

There was no income during the year from new sources, and very little from old.

* * * *

NET.

A serious effort was made to conserve resources and confine operations to a minimum, but the usual impatience on the part of creditors hampered this program throughout the twelve months. Net profit, after depreciation, interest, taxes, dues, meat bills, life insurance premiums, and other expenses incidental to keeping wolf from door totaled $33.09, of which the $33 was in Confederate money. This compares with a paper profit on Labor Day, 1929, of $156,756.99, after a deduction of $300,000 or $400,000 for dreams, hallucinations and general gullibility.

* * * *

INVENTORY.

AN inventory at this time would be most uninteresting and we are omitting it, except to say that it includes possession of a large stock of Faith, Hope and Optimism, which seems to be appreciating daily. We also have in storage large supplies of Laughter, Good Cheer and Chorties which will, within a short time, we feel, resume their former values.

Included in the inventory there should also be a number of song sheets containing words and music of "Happy Days," "For It's Always Fair Weather," "Everything Is Holty-Tolty Now," and "America, I Love You." These are unmarketable now, but we feel that they will go to par or above within the next six months.

We have written off as useless our complete stock of smoked glasses, crying towls, squawks, lamentations, howls, complaints and dire predictions.

* * * *

DEPRECIATION.

WE feel that while depreciation has been heavy in all lines, there is room for much more depreciation in the predictions of another world war, of economic world disaster and of calamity howling in general.

* * * *

Due to conditions last year we had no liquid securities at the close of 1930. In fact, our bootlegger had ceased calling up.

* * * *

NEW FINANCING.

We contemplate no new financing at this time, as we look forward to the immediate future with high optimism. If we are mistaken, however, we shall fall back on the customary expedient of issuing B stock with warrants. JOHN Q. CITIZEN.

BOY HAZY.

RUN, run, little man;
Catch me if you think you can;
I am heart and fancy free—
I would never think of thee.

If you want me, you must try
To convince me how and why;
I don't want to do your dishes,
Or obey your silly wishes.

I am happy as I am—
You would get me in a jam!
I would have to mend your socks,
Make the beds and wind the clocks.

Run, run, little man,
Catch me if you think you can;
I a spinster long will be,
For I want to think of me.
ELIZABETH MAE WARDROP.

QUESTION OF THE HOUR.

What a lot of people want to know is whether it is possible to take a Southern trip on margin?

During the rest of the year whatever becomes of the middle-aged fellow who always blossoms during the winter as a fancy skater?

RELEASE OF TRUST ON BIG APARTMENT ASSAILED IN COURT

Action, Rheem Bankruptcy Echo, Asks Broadmoor Mortgage Be Revived.

MISS SIMPSON'S SUIT AIMS AT FORECLOSURE

Deposit of Frontenac Notes Sought by Committee of Holders.

Affairs of the bankrupt firm of Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co. became more involved yesterday with the filing of a suit in District of Columbia Supreme Court and the issuance of a letter by the note holders committee of the Frontenac Apartments.

The suit involves the Broadmoor Corporation, owner of the Broadmoor Apartments at Connecticut avenue and Porter street northwest, which is named as a defendant in an action brought by Miss Minnie E. Simpson, of Baltimore, who asked the District Supreme Court set aside a release of a $1,250,000 trust on the Broadmoor and to reestablish that mortgage.

In her petition, filed through Attorneys Winship Wheatley and Winship Wheatley, jr., Miss Simpson claims that notes secured by the mortgage were unpaid when the New York Life Insurance Co. refinanced the building November 15, 1928, for $1,100,000.

Suit Seeks Priority.

The trustees, she said, released the larger trust February 14, 1930, and a note for $2,000 which she holds has not been paid. She asks that the original trust be foreclosed and that it be given priority over the trust now held by the insurance company.

The other development was the broadcasting of a letter to holders of notes on the Frontenac Apartments asking that the notes be deposited with the District National Bank. The letter was issued under the names of Edward J. Murphy, Charles F. Crane, and David Rankin Barbee, who state they are the note holders committee. The letter follows:

"The records show you to be a note holder of part of the construction loan made by Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co. on the Frontenac Apartments, Conencticut avenue and Brandywine street, Washington, D. C., same being Lot 22, Square 1979.

"A petition filed by the builder of this apartment in the pending bankruptcy proceeding of Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co. discloses that the building is only 85 per cent completed and that the builder has received only a portion of the loan. It is our understanding that the note holders are being offered less than the face value of their notes.

Step Urged for Protection.

"This committee, representing certain note holders, is of the opinion that if all of the note holders work in unison their investment can be better safeguarded. There are many angles to this situation which jeopardize the position of each note holder and therefore it is most essential that there should be concerted action by the note holders for the protection of all.

"You are requested to make an immediate deposit of your notes with the District National Bank, 1406 G street northwest, which has agreed to act as depositary under the note holders' agreement which is being prepared by counsel."

SUSPECT CAUGHT IN STORE ROBBERY

Charged With Assisting Another Man in Rifling Cash Register.

$15 IN LOOT IS TAKEN

One of the two bandits who last night, according to police, held up William Datz and his wife, Annie, at their store at Four-and-a-half street southwest, near D street, looting the cash register of about $15 in change, and struck down a customer who entered the store, was caught by Fourth Precinct Policeman H. E. Heflin about two blocks from the scene.

Policeman Heflin, who was responding to Mr. Datz' telephone call for assistance, encountered the men fleeing from the store. Leaping from the precinct emergency car, he collared one man, but the other escaped.

The captured man, who was held at the precinct on a charge of investigation, gave his name as Raymond Murphy, 24 years old, of Rhode Island avenue northeast, near First street. Police said that he was identified by Mr. Datz, and that $5.85 in change was found on his person.

Mr. Datz told police that the two men entered his shop, and while one of them threatened him and his wife with his hand in his pocket, as if he held a pistol, the other one rifled the cash drawer. Julius Jefferson, colored, of Virginia avenue southwest, near Sixth street, was struck and knocked down by one of the men when he entered to make a purchase.

Embezzlement Suspect Brought to Washington

Detective Sergeant Benjamin Kuehling last night returned to Washington from Ocean City, Md., with Earl Smith, 33 years old, who was brought back to face an indictment charging him with embezzlement.

Leila Sponsella, of 1629 Columbia road northwest, appeared on the headquarters blotter as the complainant against Smith. The warrant was sworn out last August, police said. Other charges may be filed against the man, police indicated, after an investigation into his activities here is completed.

Maryland Lad, 10, Runs Away From Home Again

"Try, try again," seems to be the motto of Louis Roberts, 10 years old, who ran away from his home in Edmonston, Md., Monday but was forced to return a few hours later when he became hungry. Tuesday the lad disappeared again.

On his second journey he took with him a companion, Elmer Doolittle, 13 years old, of the same town. Washington police have been asked to look out for the pair, who are thought to be without money. According to Chief Deputy Tom Garrison, the boys did not return after school Tuesday. It is thought that dislike for their studies lies behind the running away.

Judge Holds Back Taxi Row Decision

Ruling on Ordinance Barring Hacks From F and G Streets Delayed.

Judge Ralph Given in Police Court yesterday held in abeyance a decision as to the legality of the ordinance which bars cruising taxicabs from F and G streets northwest. He indicated that he would make his decision known on February 26.

The case involves James L. Brumbaugh, a member of the Independent Taxi Owners Association. Through his attorney he made several charges alleging discrimination between cabs bearing certain tags and alleged that the ruling was unconstitutional.

2 Armed Youths Rob Street Car

Hold Up Conductor Near Alta Vista Station and Take $20 in Change.

Two colored youths last night held up a one-man street car at Alta Vista and took a change carrier with nearly $20 in change from the motorman-conductor, Raymond Belfield, 723 Madison street northwest.

According to the story told Montgomery County Policemen Robert Howes and S. Padgett, of the Bethesda Substation, by Belfield, the two Negroes boarded the street car at Maple avenue. One of them wore a baseball cap. This one produced a pistol and held up the motorman while the other disengaged his change carrier containing nearly $20. The two then jumped from the car and ran, disappearing in nearby fields.

The Montgomery police sent out a lookout last night for the two youths, who were said to be about 20 years old, and Washington police have been asked to help look for them.

Hard Luck Still Trails Walkers; Boy Is Hurt

Hard luck continues to cling around the family of Mrs. Mary L. Walker, of Seventh street near G street southwest.

This time fate aimed a glancing blow at Norman, one of the fourteen children in the Walker brood. Norman had the misfortune to fall from a roof at Seventh and I streets southwest yesterday, inflicting severe cuts on both legs. Mrs. Walker is suffering the effects of poison she swallowed Monday night.

Caught Between Cars, Man Receives Injury

Francis Milbert, 36 years old, of 736 Twenty-second street southeast, was injured yesterday when he was caught between his own machine and an automobile allegedly operated by Nathan Shapiro, 32 years old, of Upshur street, near Fifteenth street northwest.

Milbert was repairing a tire on his car at Ninth and D streets northwest, when Shapiro's automobile pinned him against the front fender. Milbert was taken to Emergency Hospital and treated for a strained back. Shapiro was charged with reckless driving.

Blaze Goes to Firemen Unable to Come to It

Seat Pleasant firemen had something different in the way of fire-fighting yesterday when a Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis train pushed one of the railroad's burning cars up in front of the firehouse for attention. The fire caught while the car was on a track several blocks away from a road.

The fire engines could not reach it and firemen armed with extinguishers were unable to put it out. The car was then taken to the firemen.

New Dry Act Used First Time in City

Woman Found With Less Than Gallon Is Tried and Convicted.

In the first case tried locally under the recent congressional act which lessens penalties under the Jones "5 and 10" act, Helene Delaney, 28-year-old Negro woman, was convicted yesterday in Police Court.

The woman was alleged to have possessed less than a gallon of liquor. Testimony was that she had sold liquor and under the original Jones act she would have had to appear before the District Supreme Court after indictment.

Judge Isaac R. Hitt, before whom the trial was heard, is expected to sentence the woman Saturday. The maximum sentence under the law is six months and a fine of $500. Under the Jones act, which operates only under indictable offense, the fine is five years and a fine of $10,000.

Policeman Found Guilty of Assault

J. H. Dellinger Convicted on Charges of Youth Tried for Speeding.

Policeman Joseph H. Dellinger, of the Eleventh Precinct, was found guilty of assaulting Oscar Reba, 19 years old, of Boulevard Heights, Md., by a jury in Police Court last night.

The assault was alleged to have taken place when Dellinger arrested Reba on speeding charges January 24. In Traffic Court the following day Reba told of the assault and was advised to procure a warrant for Dellinger. His personal bond was taken on the speeding charge.

Dellinger was suspended from the Police Department on January 30, when Reba was issued the warrant. Dellinger has been a policeman for about thirteen years. Inspector Albert Headley said last night that there would be no Trial Board proceedings against Dellinger unless Reba filed formal charges. Judge Isaac Hitt did not pass sentence last night.

Man Hurt in Train Fall Fails to Identify Crew

James O'Brien, 38, of Ninth street, near G street northwest, who is suffering from a fractured spine, reported to have been received when he was pushed from a Richmond-Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad Co. train at the Seventh street southwest station Tuesday, failed to identify any one of three members of the train crew who were taken to the hospital yesterday by Nelson G. Thayer, Fourth Precinct detective.

The men were James F. Taylor, conductor; Dewey M. Hall, brakeman, and John C. Rice, baggageman, all of Fredericksburg, Va. Taylor and Rice said they did not see the man until after the accident. The brakeman said he watched the man attempt to alight from the moving train and pulled the bell cord to stop so he could get off safely. O'Brien stepped from the bottom step and fell, he said.

BILL PLANS TO BUY TRACKS IN TRIANGLE

Commissioners Refer Bride's Draft to Gotwals, Who Will Study It.

WOULD COST $200,000

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride yesterday sent to the District Commissioners a bill providing for the payment of $200,000 to R. L. May, owner of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway Co., for the abandonment of the line in the District.

Under the provision of the measure, drafted in accordance with an agreement reached at conferences of District and Federal officials, the District would pay $98,000 while the Federal Government would add $102,000 to the compensation.

Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, to whom the draft was referred, said he would require some time to study the proposal carefully and might make some revisions before submitting it to the other Commissioners.

While there is any legal reason why the District should pay the railway to leave the city, District authorities feel that it may be worth the price for the sake of expediency. The development of the District property that would be vacated, among which would be the improvement of Fourteenth street, from Water street to the Highway Bridge, hinges on the deal, it is said.

The measure also authorizes the Virginia line to sell its tracks on Fourteenth street to the Washington Railway and Electric Co. though no figure is named.

Little difficulty is expected in the payment by the Federal Government as the line has been ordered to clear its tracks out of the Mall Triangle by April 1.

William C. Gloth, Commonwealth attorney of Arlington County, yesterday wrote to the Public Utilities Commission on behalf of the Arlington board of supervisors and asked that Mr. May be not permitted to abandon his railway until a delegation from Arlington could be heard. The commission has no authority, however, to prevent the abandonment. Mr. Gloth also wrote a letter to the Virginia State Corporation Commission expressing the same sentiment.

Fire Alarm Sounded By Truck Hitting Pole

A skidding mail truck ran into an electric light pole at Fifteenth and I streets early last night, "pulling" the attached fire box and bringing fire engines and police reserves on the scene.

The driver told police he is John R. Kieny, Eleventh street, near South Carolina avenue southeast. He was not injured and his car was not badly damaged.

Man Hurt Near Capitol.

William H. France, 57, of 3657 Thirteenth street northwest, suffered a fracture of the left knee yesterday when he tripped and fell while walking on the Capitol Grounds. He was taken in a taxi to Emergency Hospital for treatment. Mr. France formerly was a bank clerk.

Policeman Suspended On Intoxication Count

Adjudged intoxicated upon investigation of his application for a sick card yesterday, Policeman John W. Hobbs was suspended from duty in the First Precinct. Lieut. Frank A. Varney meted out the disciplinary measure when he went out to Hobbs' home on Twenty-third street, near Minnesota avenue southeast, after being notified, one hour before the policeman was due to go on duty, that he was ill.

Hobbs was not examined and pronounced unfit for duty by a police doctor, Lieut Varney said, because he deemed such action unnecessary.

Community Center Work Encouraged

Speaker Says Southwest Citizens Should Ask Inclusion of Item.

Recommendation that the Southwest Citizens Association ask school officials to include an item in the next school budget for community center work for the new Jefferson Junior High School was made to members of the association last night by Miss Sybil Baker, director of community center work in the District.

"You people have an excellent argument for a community center and I think it is well worth working for," Miss Baker told the association. Miss Baker said that she would cooperate with it when the proper time comes in obtaining the community center.

Children attending schools in the Southwest section are well fed and no cases deserving emergency treatment have been discovered, the association was told by representatives of the schools who have been working on a survey for the Board of Education. A committee was appointed to draw up resolutions relative to the death of Jacob S. Detwiler, a member of the association.

9 GLASSMAN AIDS ARE SENT TO JAIL

Judge Will Hear Motions of Convicted Rum Men for New Trials.

PRISONERS HANDCUFFED

Nine members of Herbert Glassman's alleged liquor ring went to jail yesterday, following conviction by a District Supreme Court jury on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act. Two others were liberated by the jury.

The convicted men were ordered committed to jail by Justic Oscar R. Luhring in the face of pleas of defense counsel for bail. Later in the day, however, the justice indicated he would hear motions for new trials of the men tomorrow.

Under the Federal code the convicted men can be sentenced to serve two years in jail and pay a fine of $10,000. Their attorneys indicated that unless a new trial is granted they will note an appeal at the time the men come up for sentence, probably tomorrow week.

Court Is Guarded.

An array of deputy marshals similar to the squad which guarded the courtroom Tuesday night while the jury was deliberating was present when the jury, after an all-night session, made its report.

As the prisoners' van was being prepared to receive the nine men, Steve B. Callahan, chief deputy marshal, ordered the crowd at the courthouse exit to move.

"No! nobody's trying to release 'em," a spectator declared.

"They better not," declared Callahan, "or they will get plenty."

Eight of the nine convicted men left the courthouse handcuffed, while the ninth man brought up the rear followed by a deputy marshal.

List of Convicted Men.

Those convicted are: Herbert Glassman, Samuel Goldstein, Harry Behrle, Irving Rosenberg, Alton Cissel, Antonio d'Ambrosio, Jacob Miller, Harvey O'Connor and Francis J. Poston. David Glassman, brother of Herbert Glassman, and Julius Sanders were acquited.

The case went to trial Monday a week ago and was featured by barring from the jury of members of wet and dry organizations and by the arrest of a witness who admitted he was an alien.

Assistant United States Attorneys Harold W. Orcutt and James R. Kirkland prosecuted the case.

Suicide Attempt Laid To Man Held by Police

Jacob Gold, 45 years old, attempted suicide early yesterday in the Sixth Precinct Station, the police said, where he was being held on a charge of intoxication. He used a knife secreted in his clothes when he was arrested Tuesday night to slash his neck, it was said.

Gold was taken to Gallinger Hospital, where his condition is said to be not serious. He was arrested in a Pennsylvania avenue rooming house.

Street Car Company Sued in Auto Crash

The Washington Railway & Electric Co. was named defendant yesterday in a suit for $10,000 damages filed by John S. Snyder, 19 years old, through his father, Frank S. Snyder, of 1006 Jackson street northeast.

A street car operated by the defendant is alleged to have struck an automobile driven by the younger Snyder last July at Fourth street and Rhode Island avenue northwest.

DISTRICT PROJECTS TO BE BEGUN SOON

Plans and Specifications on Last Seven Buildings Are Near Completion.

ONE SCHOOL IS ON LIST

Drawings and specifications on the remaining seven construction projects included in the current District appropriations will be completed by March 15, Municipal Architect Albert L. Harris said yesterday.

Only one school contract remains to be let, and it will be through the architect's office by March 1. It is the Powell Junior High School, an eight-room structure with a gymnasium. The appropriation is $225,000.

Revision work on the Dunbar and the Western High School athletic fields, bids on which were turned down some time ago, is nearing completion, Mr. Harris said. The Dunbar project was included in the 1930 appropriation bill. The appropriation for this job is $75,000, while the Western project has $100,000.

Other construction jobs for which plans will be ready by March 15 are as follows:

District Training School domestic service plant, $130,000 appropriation; garage at same school; Northeast branch library, $150,000; Columbia Junior High School auto repair shop, $15,000, and cow barns and blacksmith shop at Industrial Home School for Colored Children.

Dry Agent Is Held In Capital Killing

Girl Also Detained While Coroner's Jury Plans to Investigate.

A coroner's jury will investigate tomorrow morning the fatal shooting of Henry Baker, 41, colored, of Girard street northwest, near Georgia avenue, for which a Negro dry agent is being held and another is at liberty in custody of W. R. Blandford, deputy prohibition administrator.

Baker died almost instantly yesterday after he had been shot, allegedly accidentally, at a house party on W street near First northwest. Leroy Maxwell, 30, of R street near Thirteenth northwest, and Loretta Young, 19, colored, are being held at the Eighth Precinct Station for investigation. The agent who obtained his temporary release is Eugene Jackson, 32, of Ontario road near Euclid northwest.

All three are under investigation. Maxwell told police that his pistol slipped from his holster, was discharged and a bullet entered Baker's heart. The tragedy occurred in Miss Young's home.

Request of Detective To Retire Turned Down

The District Commissioners yesterday turned down the request of Detective Sergt. James Springman that he be retired from active duty because of physical disabilities.

The Commissioners acted on a report of the examining surgeons of the Police Department which found after an examination of the detective that he was "too healthy" to be retired. Mr. Springman is one of the veterans of the Detective Bureau, having served most of his 30 years on the force there. He is rated highly by his superiors, the Commissioners found, and his services were held to be too valuable to be relinquished just now.

Woman Faces Charge Of Violating Drug Law

Mrs. Virginia K. Sounders, 28 years old, was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage and was ordered held for grand jury action under $2,000. She was committed to jail in default of bail. She was charged with violating the Harrison narcotic law when Federal and District agents reported that they found a quantity of drugs in her apartment on N street near Fourteenth street northwest.

Howard B. Wells, 21 years old, same address, was taken into custody at the same time by Headquarters Detectives Robert Sanders and D. H. Jones, and Federal Agent Fred H. Farrar. He will be arraigned today. Wells and Mrs. Sounders will be also arraigned in police court on a statutory charge.

Distilling by Free Gas Is Laid to Trio

Three Are Arrested in Raid on House and Placed Under Two Charges.

Allegedly manufacturing contraband liquor with contraband gas heating the still, three colored persons were arrested yesterday in a raid on a house on Eleventh street northwest near S street made by members of the police vice squad.

Charges of violation of the gas act of June 23, 1874; possession of six half-gallon jars of alleged liquor, 200 gallons of rye mash and a 25-gallon still, and manufacturing of liquor were placed against Lillian Neal, 28, James Lewis, 39, and Robert Stribling, 38, all living at the Eleventh street address.

The gas act, which is contained in section 73 of the District criminal code, provides penalties for the tapping of gas pipes so as to avoid payment of meter charges.

Coroner Advises Staff's Increase

Letter to Police Chief Urges Need of More Aids for Work.

An increase in the personnel of the coroner's staff was recommended yesterday to Gen. Herbert S. Crosby by Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt in a letter to the head of the Police Department.

Coroner Nevitt pointed out that three men, and sometimes only two, are required to handle all the police work. In other large cities, he said, the coroner's staff is much larger than here. In Baltimore, he said, there are twelve assistants, one of whom handles traffic cases exclusively.

Coroner Nevitt declined to make public the letter until Gen. Crosby considered it. It is understood, however, that the tenor of the coroner's missive is in line with the recommendation made by the grand jury which investigated the Limerick murder.

Reporter Finds Opossum, Hurt, Takes It to Hospital

A Post reporter, bound on an assignment last night, ran across a crowd gathered in the middle of the intersection of New Jersey avenue and E street northwest. Pushing his way through, he found that a small furry animal, lying inert, was the center of attraction.

Playing possum, perhaps.

The young man picked up the creature tenderly, placed it in his automobile, and drove to Sixth Precinct Police Station. The Animal Rescue League was summoned and removed the animal for treatment after discovering its leg was broken.

Playing possum? It was an opossum.

306 Noisy Street Cars Pass Traffic Policeman in Hour

The traffic policeman stationed at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue in the morning and afternoon rushes probably has headaches from listening to the rumbling of street cars crossing the frog switch. At least he should.

Statistics just compiled by the Public Utilities Commission engineering staff show that 175 cars cross the intersection between 8:30 and 9 a. m. and that 131 pass the point between 4:30 and 5 p. m.

Sixty-eight go east and 55 west on Pennsylvania avenue during the morning peak half hour, while 24 run north and 28 south on Fourteenth street in the same period. The latter group includes those run on E street.

During the afternoon rush half hour 43 cars pass the intersection going east on Pennsylvania avenue, while 57 are going west. Twenty-three run north on Fourteenth street at the same time, while eight run south.
